Mass Pyramid Arrests Ruled Out by Barrett; Winners Face Penalty

Lt. Blick Rebuffed On Phone Removal And Crackdown On Club Members

By Benjamin Bradlee
Post Reporter

Vice Squad Leader Roy E. Blick was sharply overruled yesterday by Chief of Police Robert J. Barrett, and tottering District pyramid clubs got a new prop.

Barrett said that in threatening mass arrest and removal of telephones against members of the gasping get-rich-quick schemes, the police force "had exceeded its authority."

The threats were made Monday by Blick. After a conversation with his chief yesterday morning, Blick was no longer talking for the record to reporters.

No pyramid arrests were made yesterday.

Pay-offs Illegal

But Blick's rebuff by Barrett did not give pyramid clubs free rein.

"If any vice squad member or policeman gets good evidence of a pyramid pay-off, that is considered a lottery, and he will have to arrest the persons involved no matter who they are," Barrett said. "And then the case will be handled like the Thomas case," he continued. In that case police evidence was given to the United States Attorney, and a grand jury indicted Daniel E. Thomas, 61 Hawaii ave. ne., self-confessed pyramid founder member.

"But there will be no wholesale arrests," he added.

Barrett said Blick had told reporters of contemplated anti-pyramid procedure without his knowledge, but added that Blick "had a perfect right to talk."

Mass Arrests "Impractical"

Barrett emphasized that he objected to pyramid clubs primarily because of the opportunity they gave for strangers to enter private homes.

Mass arrests would be impractical, Barrett said. "Many of our best people, our very better element, have been persuaded to join pyramid clubs."

"They eventually may serve on our juries, our trial boards or in other civic positions," he continued.

"We're not going to arrest people like that," he said, "but each case will have to be decided on its own merits."

The chief hoped that the pyramids would collapse under "their own weight and the threat of prosecution," and Blick estimated

U. S. Submarine, Destroyer Collide Off San Diego

San Diego, Calif., March 22 (AP). The submarine Perch and the destroyed Orleck collided tonight during maneuvers 5 miles south of Point Loma, the Eleventh Naval District reported. Point Loma is a peninsula at the entrance to San Diego harbor.

The Navy said there were no casualties.

The Perch was submerged at the time of the collision, about 6:30 p. m. She immediately surfaced and radioed there were no injuries and she could proceed to port, the Navy said. The extent of damage to the vessels was not known.

The Orleck was returning to port after participating in the maneuvers. It continued to port after the accident.

The Orleck was commanded by Comdr. H. Hull and the Perch by Lieut. Comdr. O. H. Payne.

Dr. Frank Graham Named Senator From North Carolina

Chapel Hill, N. C., March 22 (U.P.). Gov. Kerr Scott tonight appointed Dr. Frank Porter Graham, 62-year-old president of the University of North Carolina, to the United States Senate.

Dr. Graham will replace J. Melville Broughton, who died in Washington March 6.

The appointment fills the office until the 1950 general election. Broughton, Governor of North Carolina from 1941 to 1944, was elected to the Senate last year and took office only last November.

Graham announced his resignation tonight. A group of university trustees indicated they would accept it, but a quorum was not present so the action was not official.

Dr. Graham has been president of the university since June, 1930, and has been called one of the outstanding citizens of the South.

He served as vice chairman of the consumers board of the NRA, and chairman of the national advisory council to the Cabinet Committee on Economic Security. He was a member of the War Labor Board from 1942 to 1945.

He was United States representative on the Good Offices Committee of the United Nations, which arranged a truce in Indonesia which lasted until last December.

After he returned from Indonesia, he was named adviser to the Secretary of State on Indonesian affairs.

He also served on the President's Commission on Civil Rights, which drafted the controversial report which became the basis for Mr. Truman's civil rights program.

DR. FRANK P. GRAHAM

For two and a half years he has been president of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, a non-profit organization of southern universities at the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic plant.

Dr. Graham came under attack when he was cleared for access to atomic secrets by the Atomic Energy Commission, which said that although he had been associated with groups under Communist influence, his loyalty and integrity had not suffered.

Shortly afterward a radio commentator, Fulton Lewis, declared

House, 385-3, Votes 70-Unit Air Program

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Degislation authorizing a 70-group Air Force was passed by the House yesterday by a thumping 385-to-3 roll-call vote.

The bill—which also fixes manpower ceilings for both the Army and Air Force, and their reserve components—now goes to the Senate. Hearings already are under way there.

Yesterday's action provides no money for expanding the Air Force, and represents no victory for big air power men on Capitol Hill. The bill is backed by the Administration as a long-range expansion plan.

However, sponsors of strong air power feel the overwhelming House vote will enhance their chances of boosting funds for the Air Force when the armed forces appropriations bill comes to the floor.

President Truman recommended funds for 48 USAF groups next year—11 fewer than now. Chairman Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee, plans to offer an amendment transferring 800 million dollars budgeted for universal military training to the Air Force, when the money bill is considered. This would permit 57 groups to be maintained next year and provide

House Groups Urge Property Tax Hike Here

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Rival House tax factions yesterday both called for higher District property tax rates.

But the agreement on this point only sharpened the newly arising dispute over whether the main burden of providing more city revenue should be borne by a 2 per cent sales levy or by sharply hiked District personal income taxes.

Sales tax backers called for boosting property tax rates from the present $2 to $2.15 a $100.

Their opposition called for a 25-cent increase in the property tax rate.

The first plan would add 2.4 million, the second 4 million, to the annual load of District property taxpayers.

The rival solutions for solving the District's fiscal crisis were presented to the House in eight bills. They will be reviewed by the House District Committee in a meeting at 10 a. m. Thursday, and the one chosen by that group is expected to come up for House action Monday.

What the committee is now expected to select is the revenue bill introduced by Rep. Howard W. Smith (D., Va.) with backing of his House District Fiscal Affairs Subcommittee, calling for:

Scientist Tells Mayors Atom Could Blight Much of Earth

By Chalmers M. Roberts
Post Reporter

Vast regions of the earth "can be hopelessly defiled" by scattering atomic substances by rockets, planes, snow or rain, the Nation's mayors were told yesterday by a Nobel Prize scientist.

The unhappy possibility was advanced by Prof. Hermann J. Muller, one of the world's top geneticists who won the Nobel Prize in medicine. His statement came to the United States Conference of Mayors at the Statler Hotel via radio from the University of Indiana where he teaches.

Muller said it is not at all necessary to use an atomic bomb to spread atomic destruction. Atomic substances would do just as well, he declared.

Discussing the Bikini underwater bomb test, Muller said any city near water is subject to the same sort of destruction as that which came to naval units at the Pacific isle.

Effects on individuals who live through an atomic blast, Muller said, may crop up years later. He listed among them abortions, sterility, cancer and leukemia.

Hereditary effects would not show up materially for many generations, he told the municipal officials, perhaps not for 100 or even 1000 years. But, he added, the first bomb used at Hiroshima may result in more deaths in future

Senate Votes To Let Cities Curb Rents

Fulbright Proposal Passed by 45 to 35; Would Require Governors' Consent

D. C. Bill Approved

SENATE DISTRICT Committee approves 15-month extension of District rent-control law. Story on B-1.

Party Lines Crossed

Post Reporter

Overriding Administration objections, the Senate last night voted 45 to 35 to permit municipal authorities to abolish rent controls in their areas provided the State Governor approves.

The amendment, offered by Senator William Fulbright (D., Ark.), brings the Senate's "States rights" rent control measure far closer to the House-passed "local option" bill.

If the action remains final the Senate vote practically guarantees that control on the local level, denounced by President Truman as an effort to destroy rent control, will remain in the law as the bill leaves Congress.

The vote crossed party lines, with 19 Democrats, 12 of them from the South, joining with 26 Republicans to put over the amendment. Seven Republicans and 28 Democrats opposed it.

After Public Hearing

The House bill would allow State, county or municipal governments to end rent controls within their jurisdiction at any time.

The Fulbright amendment states:

"Upon petition of the governing body of any municipality, adopted after a public hearing of which 10 days notice has been given to the public, and approved by the Governor of the State, the Housing Expediter shall within 30 days after approval by the Governor decontrol said municipality."

The original Senate Banking and Currency Committee bill, with which President Truman is reported not to have been dissatisfied, provided for decontrol of any given area within a State by action of the State legislature.

The Fulbright amendment does not provide for decontrol by counties, as does the House bill; it leaves untouched the original Senate provision for State decontrol.

Changed After Debate

The change was made after an hour's strenuous debate.

Pleading for defeat of the amendment, Senator Warren Magnuson (D., Wash.), cited the example of Seattle, where, he said, the bill would cause "utter chaos."

In the city limits of Seattle, he said, are some 350,000 units, while outside the city limits but merging in with the city actually are 350,000 more. Chaos would result, he declared, if the city lifted rent controls but the outlying limits necessarily remained under control.

Senator John Sparkman (D.,

$3,000,000 Worth Of Cocaine Seized

New York, March 22 (U.P.).—Detectives today seized nearly 3 million dollars worth of pure cocaine, packed in jars and bottles in a vacant house in Queens.

The cache was uncovered after a three-day search, following the arrest of three ringleaders of a giant narcotics racket.

When police raided the apartment of the trio on Saturday, they found nearly 2 million dollars worth of cocaine and papers which gave them a clue to the Queens address.

Speech Cancellation Clarified

Trumans Plan Small Dinner For Churchills Thursday Night

President and Mrs. Truman will give a small "black tie" dinner for former British Prime Minister and Mrs. Winston Churchill at the Blair House Thursday night.

White House Secretary Charles G. Ross, in making the announcement, denied to reporters that the Churchill visit to the United States and the March 31 arrival of British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin for the signing of the North Atlantic Pact had anything to do with cancellation of the President's speech to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The White House announced Monday that Mr. Truman had called off his April 1 MIT speech and a visit to Boston College to receive a degree April 26. The reason given was the pressure of official duties, both legislative and international. Churchill will address the MIT mid-century convocation March 31.

Published reports hinted that the President canceled the MIT trip for fear a meeting at Cambridge with Churchill, Conservative Party leader, might embarrass Bevin.

"Bevin's coming had nothing whatsoever to do with the cancellation. The reasons were fully stated in the telegrams to MIT and Boston College," Ross said.

He added that no arrangements have been made for the President to see Bevin or any of the other foreign ministers coming here for the pact signing early in April. The program for the signing has not been worked out, he said.

In reply to other questions, Ross said the cancellations were not due to any worsening of the international situation.

Wife Cites Rep. Edith N. Rogers as Cause Of Breakup of Marriage to Navy Officer

Abandonment Charge Is Made in Suit by Mrs. Latta-Lawrence

The youthful blond wife of a 47-year-old Navy captain yesterday accused her husband of permitting Representative Edith Nourse Rogers (R., Mass.) to break up their marriage.

The plaintiff, Mrs. Eilene Diana Latta-Lawrence of Los Angeles, filed suit in District Court for maintenance and accounting from her husband, Capt. Harold A. Latta-Lawrence, of the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations.

Mrs. Lawrence said her husband, by his "cruel and abusive treatment, and by his neglect and abandonment," forced her to live apart from him only two days after their wedding in New York on April 22, 1948.

Representative Rogers, a member of Congress since 1925, branded the accusations as "ridiculous," but said she would withhhold further comment until she had read the suit. She said all she knew about it was what newspapermen had told her yesterday.

Mrs. Latta-Lawrence charged the marriage was "cause of great misery and suffering to Congresswoman Rogers, with whom defendant told plaintiff he had been on intimate and close terms for 20 years."

Captain Latta-Lawrence and his wife twice postponed their marriage in order that agreement and consent of Mrs. Rogers, who is 67, might be had, the suit alleges.

The plaintiff was described by a woman, who identified herself as Mrs. Latta-Lawrence's secretary, as being "about 23" years old. The plaintiff was described by her attorney as being "a very attractive woman with golden blond hair, in her mid-30's."

The Department of the Navy said Captain Latta-Lawrence, a native of Toledo, Ohio, received his bachelor's and master's degrees at the University of Michigan before taking five years of graduate work in law at Harvard University.

He served for a time as secretary to Representative Rogers and on the International War Crimes Commission before he was assigned to the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations, according to the Navy.

Pacific GI Writes Marshall, Gets Transfer to U. S.

By The Associated Press

An appeal to Gen. George C. Marshall for help apparently paid off yesterday for a homesick soldier on Okinawa.

The Air Force said Sergt. Early J. Snow, 33, Sanford, N. C., will be transferred to Pope Air Force Base at Fort Bragg near the cabin where his wife and two children live.

Snow wrote to Marshall several days ago asking his aid in getting back to the States. He said he had reenlisted with the understanding that he would be stationed near his home.

The sergeant explained he had sought vainly for a transfer and appealed to the former Army chief of staff as a "last resort."

Marshall was at his home in Pinehurst, N. C., and drove to the cabin to see Mrs. Snow. He promised, a Red Cross official said, to do "whatever he could to help."

Asked whether Marshall had contacted the Air Force about it, an officer replied:

"Draw your own conclusions."

$5.380 Billion For ERP Voted In House Unit

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

The House Foreign Affairs Committee yesterday authorized a $5,380,000,000 outlay to carry the European Recovery Plan through the next 15 months.

Actual funds that would require appropriation under this bill would be 200 million dollars less than the $5,580,000,000 sought by the Economic Cooperation Administration—and already agreed to by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

But while it reduced this figure, the House committee added a new provision to its bill—272 million dollars in added guarantees for investments in ERP countries by American businessmen.

The latter amount would not require appropriation, but would be a public debt transaction. The Treasury Department would be

Senate Vote Confirms Boyd As Mine Chief

Defying John L. Lewis' opposition, the Senate last night confirmed Dr. James Boyd as director of the Bureau of Mines.

The vote was 50 to 11.

It was partly in protest against Boyd's appointment by President Truman that Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, last week called more than 425,000 miners out of the pits for two weeks. That action resulted in the shutdown of practically all mines east of the Mississippi, with the subsequent lay-off of over 70,000 railway workers.

On the first day of the walkout March 14, the Senate Interior Committee voted 10 to 1 for confirming Boyd.

Boyd was first nominated for the Federal job two years ago but the Eightieth Congress did not act on the appointment. He has been serving without pay since December, 1947.

Lewis has contended that Boyd is not qualified for the post because he never had practical experience dealing with mine safety.

In calling the current walkout, Lewis said it was partly in protest against Boyd's nomination and partly as a period of mourning for 55,000 miners he said had been killed or injured since Boyd "usurped" the United States Mine Bureau office.

Prior to the vote, Senator Millikin (R., Colo.) had told his colleagues that he would cast his ballot against Boyd's confirmation "because the coal miners of Colorado—and I understand other States—do not have confidence in him."

But he added "I would no more oppose Dr. Boyd because Mr. Lewis opposes him than I would approve Dr. Boyd because of hatred for Mr. Lewis."

But the appointment was strongly urged by Senator O'Mahoney

After FBI Report Is Refused

Senate Committee Declines To Put Straus on U. S. Payroll

By the United Press

The Senate Appropriations Committee refused yesterday to restore Reclamation Commissioner Michael V. Straus to the Federal payroll, and appointed a subcommittee to talk to President Truman about it.

The committee acted after Attorney General Tom C. Clark refused to hand over an FBI report on Straus. He cited orders by Mr. Truman and former Attorney General Robert H. Jackson to back up his stand.

Information gathered by the House Un-American Activities Committee concerning Straus' associations with persons outside his office was brought to the committee's attention.

The adverse action on Straus also took in his deputy, Richard L. Boke, regional reclamation director for California.

Another setback for the President, the move came as the committee approved a bill providing $538,453,000 in emergency funds to help run the Government until July 1.

The total includes $2,500,000 to begin work on a controversial Tennessee Valley Authority steam plant at New Johnsonville, Tenn.

Clark's refusal to hand over the FBI records was given to the committee by Assistant Attorney General Peyton Ford, members said. A subcommittee composed of Senators Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), Pat McCarran (D., Nev.), and Guy Cordon (R., Oreg.), was appointed to consult with Mr. Truman and Clark and try to get the FBI data.

The committee voted to eliminate a House-approved provision which would restore Straus and Boke to their jobs, and to instruct Senators who will confer with House members on the issue if the Senate upholds the committee

Record Vote Eliminates Teller Count To Reject

Flip-Flop Brings Rankin Measure Up for Final Action Today

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

The multi-billion dollar veterans' pensions bill yesterday was killed and revived in the space of five hours, as the House turned a complete somersault on the hot pension issue.

At the close of the day, the House was right back where it started, considering amendments to the American Legion-supported Rankin bill. So members decided to adjourn and finish action on the measure today.

A leadership maneuver to "strike out the enacting clause" of the bill started the House voting in circles.

Rankin Caught Flatfooted

The motion, offered by Representative Carroll (D., Colo.), caught Representative Rankin (D., Miss.) flatfooted.

To the surprise of all, including Rankin, the House adopted the motion, first by a 154 to 139 standing vote and then by a teller vote of 163 to 154.

The gimmick was that in neither of these two votes did members have to go on record.

But the effect of the motion was to put Carroll, acting for the leadership, in a position to move for a record vote, which he did.

Instead of moving to kill the bill outright, Carroll, on the next go-round, moved to send it back to committee, which leaders figured would pick up more votes on a touch-and-go roll call.

Members Change Mind

But on the roll call count, member after member flip-flopped and the House refused to recommit the bill, 223 to 187. A record vote then came on the motion to kill the bill and the House reversed its earlier "strike out" decision, 291 to 120. Rankin was again in the saddle.

"A revival of righteousness," he called it.

But Democratic leaders predicted the revival won't last very long. Having failed to sidetrack the bill, they will now try to "water it down," with better hope of success.

In its present form the Rankin bill would pay $90-a-month pensions to veterans of both World Wars I and II at the age of 65, regardless of need. The pyramiding costs would knock the budget out of kilter and climb to about 125

Clothed Skeleton Of Actress Found In Locked Home

Whalebone Corner, England, March 22 (AP).—The well-clad skelton of Ada Constance Kent, 66, was found today in the dust and cobwebs that had gathered undisturbed for 10 years in her secluded cottage.

An old theatrical performer who had lived quietly and alone, Miss Kent was last seen just before war broke out in 1939. Villagers speculated about her disappearance, but nothing was done. Some thought she had "gone to entertain the troops" and found a new home.

Authorities said the room in which her body was found had been searched without result three times previously since Miss Kent vanished in 1939.

This week a bank in which she had deposited a little money 12 years ago asked police to try to find her. Officers broke into the cottage.

Miss Kent's supper tray was on an oak dining table, a cup and teapot on it, the toast rack rusted.

Her chair was drawn near the fireplace and a volume of Shakespeare's plays, opened at "Romeo and Juliet," lay near a lamp.

Vandenberg Praises North Atlantic Pact

Before Mayors

Moses Hits At Baruch's City Advice

New York's planning chief Robert Moses took issue yesterday with Bernard Baruch by declaring "you can't tell the people public improvements can't be made until some international problem is solved."

Moses

Baruch had advised the United States Conference of Mayors at its Monday meeting in the Statler Hotel to postpone whatever expenditures they could until the problem of war or peace is settled.

Moses, addressing the second-day session, said the American public just won't wait for such a decision. He spoke of his city's pressing need for new subways, schools, slum clearances and sewage disposal plants.

Slum Clearance Topic

Slum clearance and housing problems were discussed by the mayors, with emphasis on the effect of the Federal slum clearance measure now before Congress.

Mayor Eugene I. Van Antwerp of Detroit said there is "a ferment of preparatory activity" in many cities today concerning the new Federal law, which, he added, will have "a profound effect on the future pattern of American cities."

Mayor Dennis J. Roberts of Providence, R. I., said his city has earmarked 350 acres of vacant land for housing developments, and plans to clear another 300 acres of blighted areas for new housing. Still another 150 blighted acres will be turned into industrial property.

Traffic Congestion

At a morning session Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, Federal Works Administrator, outlined a five-point program to relieve traffic congestion. Included were construction of express highways; improvement of city streets; expansion of off-street parking and merchandise loading and unloading facilities; improvement of public transportation systems and "more efficient" utilization of existing city streets.

Fleming also urged the mayors to dovetail highway plans with slum clearance and housing programs. The mayors have before them a resolution asking Congress to earmark at least half of next year's 450-million-dollar highway-aid fund for city use. Only a quarter of the fund is now set aside for streets.

Resolutions and election of officers for the coming year will conclude business at today's final session. Vice President Barkley will be the speaker at a luncheon.

Bradley to Speak

Willis W. Bradley, former California Congressman, will discuss problems of the Panama Canal at the weekly seminar of the Club de las Americas Thursday at 8 p. m., in the Department of Commerce Building Auditorium.

By The Associated Press

Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) yesterday indorsed the proposed 12-nation North Atlantic Treaty as a barrier against World War III and the most important step in American foreign policy since the 125-year-old Monroe Doctrine.

"In my opinion, it is the best bet to keep the present 'cold war' from getting hot," he said.

After long months of behind-the-scenes negotiations, the treaty is scheduled to be signed here April 4. But to pledge this country's support, it must then be ratified by a two-thirds vote of the Senate.

Vandenberg, usually conservative in his spoken appraisals, turned to superlatives in prasing the defense alliance in a 1000-word address before the United States Conference of Mayors.

Addresses Mayors

He said at the outset he was reserving his opinion on the Administration's plans for military aid to western Europe. The arms program, a separate but closely-linked corollary of the treaty itself, is expected to cost the United States one billion dollars to $1,500,000,000 the first year.

But Vandenberg said that aside from this reservation, he indorses the North Atlantic Pact as "the best possible peace enterprise in which the United States can engage in the self-interest of its own national security . . . and in the prevention of another intolerable World War in which we would inevitably be involved."

The Michigan Senator, ranking Republican member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, listed the 12 nations expected to sign the pact as Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Italy, Norway, Denmark, Iceland, Portugal and the United States and Canada.

Then he said:

"This is the greatest war deterrent ever devised. No itching conqueror will lightly view such odds."

Quotes Section of Pact

Vandenberg quoted the section of the pact which declares that "an armed attack against one or more of them (the signatories) in Europe or North America shall be considered an attack against them all."

The section states that in the event of such an attack, the treaty members will aid the victim "by taking forthwith, individually and in concert with the other parties, such action as it deems necessary, including the use of armed force."

Vandenberg continued:

"I ask you to note that this is not an automatic commitment to war.

"I ask you to note that we reserve unto ourselves the option to decide precisely what contribution we shall make against any such armed attack by an aggressor. There are many defensive recourses short of war.

"We are signing no blank check."

No "Scrap of Paper"

He continued:

"But I ask you also to understand that we are signing no mere 'scrap of paper.' This pact will mean what it says or it is devoid of war-preventing authority.

"It means that if another armed aggressor threatens any or all of us with World War III—God save the mark!—all of us will forthwith unite to stop the aggression before it becomes universal, and to defeat it before it becomes a universal conquest.

"All of us must take that pledge in good faith or it were better that we do not take it at all."

The Republican leader, who observed his 65th birthday yesterday, went on to tell his listeners "very bluntly" why he considers the Atlantic treaty "the best insurance to complete our mutual protection" against another war.

Refers to Kaiser and Hitler

He said that in his opinion Kaiser Wilhelm II "would not have unleashed his conspiracy of aggression" in 1914 if the German ruler had expected a collision with the United States.

Similarly, he declared Adolf Hitler would not have precipitated World War II if Hitler had anticipated a war with the United States.

"The Neutrality Act of 1939 told Hitler that the United States would keep out of any such conflict, would keep our vessels out of belligerent ports, would refuse credits to warring nations," Vandenberg said.

"The North Atlantic Pact—wholly to the contrary—will tell any aggressor in 1949 that from the very moment he launches his conquest in this area he will face whatever united opposition, including that of the United States, is necessary to beat him to his knees.

"Yet no other nation on the face of this earth needs spend one sleepless night over any sort of menace from this pact unless it is plotting armed aggression against neighbors whose only aspiration is peace with justice and honor in a free world of free men."

Bevin Plans Talks With Acheson Here

London, March 22 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin plans to hold only "general talks" with United States officials when he goes to Washington for the formal signing of the North Atlantic Treaty April 4.

Bevin will be accompanied by a minimum personal staff when he sails on the Queen Mary Friday.

A Foreign Office spokesman said the Foreign Secretary hopes to cover "all points of common interest" in talks with Secretary of State Dean Acheson, adding:

"He is looking forward to this first opportunity to discuss general questions with the new United States Secretary of State, but he does not plan a detailed examination of any question for which experts would be required."

generations than the direct casualties of the day it fell on Japan.

The scientist did not elaborate his assertion that atomic destruction could be carried by snow or rain. The Atomic Energy Commission last night had "no comment" on the speech.

Muller added, in a tiny note of hope, that primitive areas of the world are the safest, presumably because they are unlikely targets in any atomic war.

Chairman David Lilienthal of the Atomic Energy Commission participated in the discussion but carefully limited his remarks to "the brighter side of the atom," its peacetime uses.

"Atomic power for peaceful uses is no pipe dream," he said. "It is coming along more rapidly than was the case with such things as the steam engine, the electric generator or the airplane."

Other speakers tackled the touchy question of secrecy about America's atomic progress.

Dr. David Bradley, a radiologist at Bikini who wrote the best-selling "No Place to Hide," said flatly that "delusions" of secrecy are this Nation's "greatest danger—greater than any scientific formula we might give away."

Bradley said Russia "aided by captured German scientists may already be manufacturing atomic weapons." He told reporters who questioned him, however, he had no information on Russian atomic development other than what is generally known to the public.

Bradley took a swing both at President Truman and some members of Congress who have declared nothing more should be made publica about the bomb. He said he wished they could be convinced that "in matters involving peace or war, the people cannot give they support and encouragement unless they understand the problems."

Another scientist on the program, Dr. Harold C. Urey of the University of Chicago's Institute of Nuclear Studies, said the only "real defense" against the atom lies in world government.

He said "a super government must be established" and he suggested, as a starter, that "approximately" the nations about to join in the Atlantic Pact begin the movement by setting up a federal union.

Senator McMahon (D., Conn.), chairman of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, said both "security by concealment" and "security by achievement" are necessary to protect the Nation's lead in the world atomic race.

McMahon said the United States cannot compete with Russia "in the Communist game of suppression and throught control." But, he said, this country "can stay ahead" by striking a "wise balance" in security matters.

"Obviously," he added, "this balance cannot be struck on the floor of the Senate or House of Representatives."

Ralph J. Watkins, plans and program director for the National Security Resources Board, said "space appears to be our best and cheapest form of defense." He said the country cannot move underground but that future plants and equipment could be so scattered as to give some protection through dispersal.

"There can be no thought,' he said, "of destroying the basic pattern of our urban civilization, no thought of peacetime mass exodus from metropolitan areas."

Wheat Pact to Be Signed

The world's big wheat exporting and importing countries announced last night they will sign a four-year pact today aimed at stabilizing prices of more than half the wheat moving in world trade.

The agreement will guarantee the United States, Canada, Australia, France and Uruguay a market for from 453 to 455 million bushels of wheat a year.

Welfare Laws Argued as Totalitarian Tool

Welfare legislation was pictured by opposing speakers in a "Town Meeting of the Air" here last night as potentially the road to totalitarianism and as the means of avoiding it.

Speakers at the forum, held at the Statler Hotel before the United States Conference of Mayors in session here, included Senator Robert Taft (R., Ohio), Representative John McCormack (D., Mass.), Oscar Chapman, Undersecretary of the Interior, and Henry Hazlitt, business news columnist of Newsweek Magazine.

The "welfare state," Hazlitt declared, "thinks it has found a short-cut to Utopia" and "treats its citizens as wards, incapable of managing their own affairs."

"It has found, in fact," he said, "a shortcut to statism, to totalitarianism, to the suppression of liberty, and to national poverty."

McCormack, debating the other side of the question, declared that modern industrialization has created social problems that can only be met by governmental action.

Taft told the mayors and a Nation-wide ABC radio audience that "welfare services such as proposed in President Truman's so-called national health insurance, directed by a Washington Bureau with five billion dollars to spend, would necessarily be arbitrary, tyrranical and bureaucratic."

Mentioning that he had sponsored bills to extend Federal aid to the States to help them in "providing free health services, cheap housing and relief to our lower income families," he added:

"But if all these services are to be socialized and given away to the entire populati .., we would indeed have a welfare state where little progress or liberty would remain."

Topic of the discussion was "How Can We Legislate for General Welfare Without Curbing Personal Liberty?" Chapman, in his speech, asserted that in modern society "general welfare and personal liberty are no longer alternatives but one and the same." He warned that economic "frustrations, wants and fears can lead men to sacrifice their personal liberties for hollow promises of bread and economic security."

AEC Chooses Idaho Site for Reactor Plant

The Atomic Energy Commission announced yesterday that it has chosen an area near Pocatello, Idaho, as the best site for its mammoth new atomic power reactor plant.

The area includes the Navy proving ground at Arco and the commission said it is negotiating with the Navy for transfer of the property.

The commission said its new plant, for construction and testing of nuclear power reactors, will be on a 400,000-acre site. Congressional estimates have placed the cost at about 500 million dollars.

"The new reactor testing station will compare in area with the Hanford plutonium production center on the Columbia River in Washington," the commission said.

The commission said that all but about 20,000 acres of the proposed site is Government-owned.

Among the things that will be built and tested at the plant is an atomic engine for naval ships.

The commission's second choice for a site was the Fort Peck-Glasgow area in northeastern Montana.

The commission said that at the peak of construction some 6000 persons may be engaged in building the plant. When the station gets running, it said, about 2000 employes, including scientists and technicians, may be needed.

Canada Approves Income Tax Cut

Ottawa, March 22 (U.P.).—The Federal Government tonight disclosed a preelection budget that featured the biggest tax slash in Canadian History.

The budget, read to a cheering House of Commons, increased income tax exemptions to $2000 for married persons and $1000 for single taxpayers, cutting 750,000 persons off existing tax rolls. In addition to raising exemptions, the budget cut income tax an average of 32 per cent, with the greatest slash in the lower brackets. Major reductions were also made in corporation and commodity taxes.

Finance Minister Douglas Abbott reported that revenues last year were estimated to amount to $2,768,000,000, leaving a 575-million-dollar surplus which was applied to debt reduction.

Denmark Told Pact Binds U. S. to Fight

Copenhagen, Denmark, March 22 (U.P.).—Foreign Minister Gustav Rasmussen told Parliament today that under the proposed North Atlantic Treaty, the United States "would go to war" if any one of the signatory nations is attacked.

"To the Danish government," he said, "there is no doubt that the United States will consider herself pledged to assist an attacked nation with all her force.

"If armed force is necessary to reestablish security, it is evident that the member countries possessing such force are obliged to use it. That means that if an armed attack occurred on one of the member countries, it could have only one answer—the United States would go to war."

Communists Beaten

Rasmussen reminded Parliament, however, that the United States Constitution was similar to the Danish constitution in that both provide that war cannot be declared without parliamentary approval.

A Communist move to block Danish acceptance of the treaty was defeated overwhelmingly in the lower house of Parliament today, but bitter Communist and leftist opposition gained momentum both in this country and Norway.

Rasmussen asked the lower house to authorize the government to sign and ratify the pact as it stands. A Communist motion protesting that procedure was defeated 166 to 7.

"Inviting War," Oslo Reds Say

In Oslo, the Norwegian Communist Party called on all its members to fight against the proposed treaty.

"Adherence to the Atlantic Pact means inviting war in Norway and in the Spitzbergen Islands," a Communist declaration said. "The phrasing of the pact shows that the United Nations and Lake Success are replaced by the United States and Washington."

The Danish Communist newspaper Land and Folk said party members would stage a "peaceful march" on Christianborg Castle Wednesday to protest the treaty.

Rasmussen told Parliament he had discussed the status of American bases on Greenland with U. S. Secretary of State Acheson and that "Mr. Acheson stressed the exclusively defensive character of the American bases . . . and said they would never be used for aggressive purposes."

He said the government still felt a Scandinavian defense union would have been the best solution for Denmark, but that when the Scandinavian negotiations collapsed, "we had the choice between adherence to the Atlantic Pact or Danish isolation."

Losing Patience

Soviet Delay Over Austria Irks Britain

London, March 22 (U.P.).—Britain warned today it was losing patience with Russia's tactics in the four-power talks on an Austrian treaty.

"We have been exceedingly patient," Britain's James Majoribanks said, "but I confess the sands of patience are running out."

Othe Western sources also accused Russia of filibustering the current treaty talks, which have been going on for 6 weeks.

These sources said Russia's George Zarubin was using every possible trick to avoid decisions, and prolong discussions.

After today's meeting broke up without making any progress, Western delegates learned Zarubin had been appointed a Russian delegate to the United Nations General Assembly meeting in New York.

Zarubin had not informed the other delegates he would have to depart within a few days, and they were expected to seek some explanation.

The Soviet delegate could leave a deputy to continue the Austrian talks, but such a move would cause some disruption in the negotiations.

French Chief Flying Here for Arms Aid Talk

Paris, March 22 (AP).—Gen. Georges Revers, French army chief of staff, left by plane today for the United States.

The French news agency said in a Washington dispatch that Revers will confer in the U. S. capital with American officials and outline what arms France wants to back up her role in the North Atlantic security alliance.

The dispatch said Revers will talk with Gen. Omar Bradley, U. S. Army chief of staff, and other top officials.

West Point Will Join French Legion of Honor

The West Point Military Academy is to be made a member of the French Legion of Honor and be awarded the Croix de Guerre with Palm.

The honors will be bestowed by Lieut. Gen. George Revers, French army chief of staff, due in Washington today.

The general and other French officials will spend several days in Washington and then visit New York, Detroit, Fort Belvoir, Va., Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., and other points.

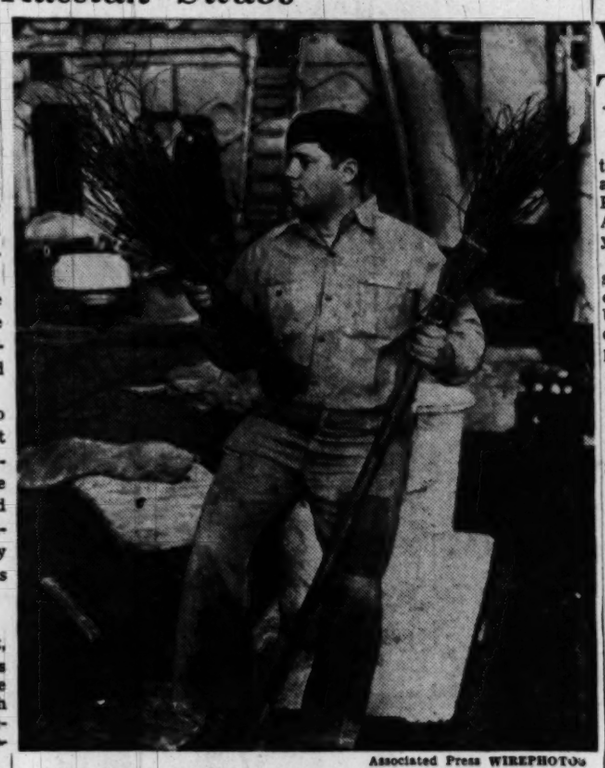
French Reds Defeated In Maneuver on Pact

Paris, March 22 (AP).—The French National Assembly today voted down 410 to 182 a Communist demand for debate on France's adherence to the North Atlantic security alliance.

Communist Party Secretary Jacques Duclos assailed the pact as "an instrument of force and war against the Soviet Union, our ally."

Foreign Minister Robert Schuman said "The pact will be submitted for approval of the Assembly, but the government cannot accept discussion here until the signature of France is on the pact."

Russian 'Swabs'



Associated Press WIREPHOTO

SAW LITTLE ACTION—Sailor Fred Garber of Richmond, Pa., holds up two brooms found aboard the cruiser Milwaukee, which was returned to the United States Navy last week by the Soviet Union after five years of service in the Red Fleet. A naval officer said yesterday in Philadelphia, where the warship is tied up, that the vessel was the "dirtiest ship" he ever saw. "Such conditions would not be tolerated on American war vessels," he said

Reds Become 'Benefactors' In Money War

Berlin, March 22 (AP).—The Russians posed today as benefactors of western Berlin in the currency war.

They invited western Berliners to visit the Soviet part of town to spend their eastmarks, newly outlawed in the United States, British and French sectors. Some western Berliners did.

Communist editors played up the offer with such headlines as "No Soviet countermeasures at the expense of the population," and "Berlin population gets help." This is the population the Russians have been blockading for nearly a year.

United States financial experts said that, concealed by the propaganda, was the fact the Russians could not retaliate without hurting the Soviet zone more than western Berlin.

American officials reasoned that if the Soviets revised their money to block the movement of Eastmarks from the western sectors, it would inconvenience 20 million Germans in the Soviet zone, as against 2,400,000 western Berliners.

There was an indication the Russians may relax the ban they imposed on Westmarks when the western powers introduced them last June. United Sates officials said they had received no reports today of seizures of Westmarks in the Soviet sector, although this has been a daily occurrence.

Leaders of the Communist-led Socialist Unity Party are reported to have urged Russian authorities to remove the ban, considering it a political liability.

The Western Allies' counter-blockade drew official attention Lieut. Gen. M. I. Dratvin, Soviet deputy military governor.

He threatened in a letter to Maj. Gen. George P. Hays, to sue a German metals firm at Hanau, in the United States zone, for nondelivery of electrodes made from platinum supplied from the Russian zone.

General Hays said he would tell Dratvin "the blockade was not of our making."

Czechs Paid, Spy Testifies

Munich, Germany, March 22 (U.P.) An accused spy confessed to an American military court today that the Czechoslovak intelligence service paid him hundreds of dollars for snapshots of Allied bombers and air bases.

Czechoslovak-born Adolf Walzel, 51, one of three defendants on trial here for allegedly spying on United States occupation forces, said the photographs were taken by American soldiers.

Walzel said he got the snapshots through his job in a photo laboratory and turned them over to his nephew, Ernest Rudolf, another defendant.

Czechoslovakia, Walzel said, and the army's intelligence service paid him as high as 1000 marks ($333) for prints showing airbases at Neubiberg and Furstenfeldbruck, where B-29's and jet fighters are stationed.

The third defendant, Jaroslav Konopisky, 31, Sudeten German, said in his confession that he traced Czechoslovak displaced persons in the American zone of Germany for Czechoslovak intelligence.

U. S. Reservists Assigned to German Duty

Frankfurt, Germany, March 22 (U.P.).—United States Reserve officers are being assigned to active units under a mobilization plan which permits American civilians abroad to maintain their military rank for the first time in history. Army officials said today.

The plan is aimed at welding some 1200 reservists now employed in the occupation as civilians into a reserve force almost large enough to supply officers for two infantry divisions.

Officials said reservists are not being called to active duty but are assigned on paper to Army and Air Force units in the European command, to which they will report if needed.

The reserve officers have been organized into six "composite groups" staffed entirely by civilian reservists.

The program, launched secretly in January, was started in response to President Truman's call last year for a spruced-up reserve. It is operating under the recently approved law which allows payment of a pension to reserve officers who perform a prescribed amount of after-hour peacetime duty.

Deserting Polish Flier Crash-Lands on Gotland

Stockholm, Sweden, March 22 (U.P.)—A Polish air force lieutenant crash-landed a light bomber on the Island of Gotland in the Baltic Sea yesterday and told authorities he did not want to go back to Poland.

The lieutenant said he was a political refugee and was heading for Stockholm when his plane ran out of gas. Accompanying him was a mechanic who said he had not known the pilot intended to flee from Poland. The mechanic said he wanted to go back home.

Crewmen Sentenced

Liverpool, England, March 22 (U.P.)—Leon Gosselin, 24, of Baltimore, Md., crewman of the U. S. freighter American Building, was sentenced to $400 or 90 days today for trying to smuggle 108 pairs of nylons into Britain in a sack of potatoes.

'Peace Rally' Visas Denied To 4 Britons

By The Associated Press

The United States has refused to let four distinguished Britons attend an intellectuals' "World Peace" rally in New York, the American Embassy in London said yesterday.

Dr. Harlow Shapley, Harvard scientist and leader of the conference, complained in New York that U. S. officials have either denied or revoked visas for a dozen European and South American delegates. He said the others were three Frenchmen, four Italians and a Brazilian. Shapley said he was protesting the action to Secretary of State Acheson.

State Department Unrelenting

The State Department declared emphatically it would not relent in the decision to bar what were termed some "unofficial" delegates, while admitting others officially sponsored by eastern European Communist governments.

Michael J. McDermott, State Department press officer, told newsmen here yesterday that "the Communist side of the case will certainly be adequately presented by the 21 delegates from eastern Europe and by Communist-sympathizers in the United States."

Sponsors of the Cultural and Scientific Conference for World Peace, opening Friday, have denied the State Department's contention that the New York rally will be turned into a forum for spreading Communist propaganda.

"The aliens who were coming here as official representatives of their Governments were not excludable under the immigration law unless this Government should decline to receive them, State Department officials explained.

In this connection Hungarian delegates were barred on the ground Hungary had not been treating American diplomats properly.

Seven Russians Given Visas

The aliens not coming as foreign government officials were excludable if known or believed to be Communists unless the Attorney General should authorize their temporary admission in his discretion."

Seven Russian intellectuals are among 21 delegates from Iron Curtain countries who have been granted visas.

The four Britons coming under the ban are Miss Patricia Burke, 32-year-old actress; Prof. J. D. Bernal, scientist; J. G. Crowther, historian, and Louis Golding, novelist and essayist.

Originally, the embassy said, the ban had been raised against Olaf Stapledon, philosopher, who has publicly expressed belief there is "grave evil in the Russian state." This ban was later revoked.

Shostakovich Gets Glimpse of Airlift

Berlin, March 22 (U.P.).—Soviet composer Dmitri Shostakovich and six fellow Russian delegates to the Cultural and Scientific Congress for World Peace took off for New York tonight after gazing bug-eyed at the Allied airlift.

At Tempelhof Field, where they boarded an American Overseas Airlines plane, they watched as American and British planes landed almost minute by minute and took off for their bases to bring more supplies.

Alexander Fadeev, secretary general of the Union of Soviet Writers, told correspondents:

"We are going to the conference to speak freely, as free individuals. We are not restricted in any way."

Fadeev also denied that he and Scientist Ivan Roshanski were Russian secret police agents as some American sources have charged.

Britain to End Milk Rationing; Output Mounts

London, March 22 (U.P.).—The government today announced it would end milk rationing Sunday and would relax controls on a number of items including paper, leather, paint materials, hard woods, and cloth for industrial purposes.

At the same time, Labor sources said the government planned to establish a commodity commission that will act as owner of all imported meat.

Food Minister John Strachey announced the end of the milk ration, which he said was made possible by improved production. The milk ration has varied since 1941 between one quart per person a week and two quarts a week. Twice it was temporarily derationed because of high production.

Dewey Refuses to Put Stop to 'Peace' Rally

Albany, N. Y., March 22 (U.P.).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey tonight pinned a "Communist front" label on the Cultural and Scientific Conference for World Peace, scheduled for New York City this weekend, but refused to suppress it.

"We can be sure that when Soviet Russia sends seven delegates to participate in a private meeting in New York City—as she has done in this case—that meeting is being called and managed by people who have Russia's confidence," he said.

"But I cannot agree that the meeting should be suppressed. It is enough that this meeting has been exposed for the Communist front affair that it is."

Dewey said he had received hundreds of letters asking him to stop the meeting, sponsored by the National Council of Arts, Sciences and Professions.

Greece to Execute Captured Rebel Chief

Athens, March 22 (AP).—Constantine Brettacos, commander of guerilla forces in the southern Peloponnesus, has been sentenced to death by a Greek government military tribunal at Tripolis.

Brettacos was notorious for mass executions, the government said

His political commissar, Sanantis Oeconomacos, and two other leading guerillas also were sentenced to death. All were captured recently.

McEwen Dinner Guest

Dr. Robert Ward McEwen, new president of Hamilton College, Clinton, N. Y., will be the honor guest at a dinner of the Hamilton College Alumni tonight at 6:30 at the Army and Navy Club.

Communist-Led Polish Unions Demonstrate Against Church

Warsaw, March 22 (AP).—The uneasy peace between church and state in Poland edged closer to a showdown today as Communist-directed industrial workers staged anti-Catholic demonstrations.

Rallies attended by tens of thousands of members of the Communist-controlled United Workers Party throughout Poland denounced Catholic clergymen who talk against the government. The demonstrators approved resolutions warning the Catholic clergy to keep out of politics and assailed what was termed "the Vatican's anti-Polish attitude."

Catholic priests and bishops were denounced for "provocative reactionary propaganda."

The new Catholic primate of Poland, Archbishop Stefan Wyszynsk, so far has remained personally silent on the rift. It is obvious, however, that he has given tacit assent to the actions of Catholic bishops who are criticizink the government in pastoral letters.

Vishinsky May Miss Session of Assembly

Moscow, March 22 (AP).—Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky today said he probably will not attend the coming session of the United Nations General Assembly.

Vishinsky's chief deputy, Andrei A. Gromyko, is on his way to New York as head of the Soviet delegation.

Israel Threatens To Bolt Peace Talks

Control Problem

Reds Can Win All of China, General Says

By the United Press

Maj. Gen. David G. Barr, head of the U. S. military advisory board in China, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday that Communist forces can take over all of China whenever they wish.

He said the Communist armies were surprised by their rapid advances and did not move south of the Yangtze River because they did not want to take administrative responsibility for all of China at this time.

Barr reportedly told the committee in closed session that the people of China are weary of war and have little will to resist the Communists. Furthermore, he said, the effectiveness of the national army has been hurt by "defections" among top officers.

Chairman Tom Connally (D., Tex.) said Barr was called to testify on questions which may arise when the bill authorizing extension of the foreign aid program comes up for debate in the Senate.

Connally said that Senator Pat McCarran (D., Nev.), among others, may introduce amendments to include China in the second round of Marshall Plan spending. The Administration has not asked for further help for China.

The State Department reported meanwhile, that China has drawn all but $628,085 of the 125 million dollars granted her in United States military aid.

Committee members said Barr did not recommend more aid for China. They said they got the impression from his testimony that such a program would be ineffective at this time.

Connally did say, however, that his committee may recommend 58 million dollars in unspent foreign recovery funds for China.

Tel Aviv, Israel, March 22 (U.P.).—Israel threatened today to walk out of the United Nations armistice conferences at Rhodes "if Britain continues to meddle in the Negev."

Military Spokesman Lieut. Col. Moshe Perlman charged that the Rhodes talks are "virtually valueless if Britain considers herself free to supply, reinforce and otherwise alter the composition of her forces in the Middle East."

Perlman said Britain is "introducing new forces into the Middle East and so disposing them as to leave the Arab Legion free to act on another sector."

He reiterated earlier denials of an Israeli violation of Trans-Jordan territory two weeks ago.

In London, British officials today indicated they would probably turn down Trans-Jordan's request that British troops patrol a 50-mile stretch of the Trans-Jordan frontier.

Israel Protests to U. N. On British Troop Shifts

Lake Success, March 22 (AP).—Israel protested to the United Nations today against recent movements of British troops to Aqaba, Trans-Jordan.

The Israeli mission announced it had sent notes to each member of the Council and to Secretary-General Trygve Lie expressing fears the British action may have an adverse effect on current armistice negotiations between Israel and Trans-Jordan. No Council meeting was requested.

Hungary Reported Asking Recall Of 2 U. S. Officers

Budapest, March 22 (AP).—A reliable source said today the Hungarian government has requested recall of two high-ranking U. S. Army officers attached to the American Legation here.

The informant identified them as Lieut. Col. John P. Merrill and Lieut. Col. Peter G. Kopcsak, members of the staff of the United States military attache.

The Foreign Ministry on February 12 accused the two of failing to pay a garage bill and creating an incident when a Hungarian sentry stopped them at the Yugoslav border.

Chinese Pick Peace Envoys For Red Talks

Nanking, March 22 (AP).—Chinese government peace delegates were being chosen today in the belief that talks with the Communists will begin soon.

Acting President Li Tsung-jen ordered the new cabinet to meet in Nanking at once. The new foreign minister, Fu Ping-chang, was told to fly back from Moscow, where he is stationed as China's ambassador.

The first item on the agenda will be cabinet approval of the slate of delegates which Li and Premier Ho Ying-chin are preparing.

Huang Shi-han, Li's representative in Communist Peiping said he believed the Reds will announce plans for the peace conference when the government names its delegates.

The Legislative Yuan (parliament) considered a number of government streamlining measures among which is one demanding that the new cabinet be made responsible to the lawmakers.

Germans May Try Ilse Koch

Frankfurt, Germany, March 22 (U.P.).—The case of Ilse Koch, former mistress of the Nazi Buchenwald concentration camp, is being reinvestigated to determine whether she can be tried on new charges in German courts, Gen. Lucius D. Clay said today.

Clay said Frau Koch, who allegedly ordered lamp shades made from the skins of Buchenwald inmates, could not be tried again by an American military commission for her camp activities. He said he had asked German officials to study the evidence against her to see whether she could be tried in German courts for what she may have done to German inmates of Buchenwald.

At the same time, the American military governor announced he had reaffirmed the death sentence given Staff Sergt. Hubert Huber, a German who was convicted of killing unarmed American war prisoners during the Malmedy massacre in 1945.

Frau Koch was sentenced to life imprisonment by an American military tribunal, but her sentence later was reduced to four years with Clay's approval, and the action raised a storm of protest in the United States which resulted in a Senate investigation.

Clay said American experts also are studying her record for war crimes she may have committed after she left Buchenwald in August, 1943.

McGrath Offers Pay Increase Bill For D. C. Judges

Senator McGrath (D., R. I.) yesterday introduced a bill that would increase salaries of Municipal Court of Appeals and Municipal Court judges.

The measure would raise the District jurists' pay as follows: Chief Judge, Municipal Court of Appeals from $10,000 to $14,500; associate Court of Appeals judges from $10,000 to $14,000; Chief Judge, Municipal Court, from $10,000 to $13,000, and Municipal Court associate judges from $9,975 to $13,000.

Nimitz Named To Supervise Kashmir Vote

Lake Success, March 22 (AP).—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, wartime American Navy commander in the Pacific, was named by the United Nations today as plebiscite administrator for the princely state of Jammu-Kashmir.

The 64-year-old admiral, who became Chief of Naval Operations before his retirement from active duty, will supervise a vote to determine whether a majority in the northernmost state on the Indian subcontinent wants to join Hindu India or Moslem Pakistan.

No date has been set for the plebiscite ordered by the Security Council last year. A U. N. conciliation commission in the meantime effected a truce between the two dominions and got them to agree to the plebiscite.

The U. N. said Nimitz is expected to "embark on his mission very soon."

8 Symphony Players Receive Auditions

The National Symphony Orchestra management announced that eight members of the orchestra were auditioned yesterday.

The auditions were held under the terms of the orchestra's contract with the local chapter of the musicians' union, in order to determine the players' acceptability for the next season. Results of the hearings, held before a five-man committee of first-chair men in the orchestra, will be announced later.

Draft Act Calls Ended, Army Says

Merry Menagerie—By Walt Disney

"What do you mean, are we the three bears!"

The Army expects to draft no one during the remainder of the life of the Selective Service Act, which is to expire June 31, 1950.

This estimate of the situation emerged yesterday from a declaration of a top-ranking Army official before a congressional committee, a statement to the House by Chairman Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee and a "correction" issued later by a National Military Establishment spokesman.

Maj. Gen. John E. Dahlquist, deputy personnel chief, gave a House Armed Services subcommittee considering pay legislation testimony on draft prospects. Inductions have been suspended since eary this year as a result of the cutback in Army strength and a heavy flow of volunteers.

Vinson then prepared this statement from Dahlquist's testimony and read it to the House:

"I have been advised this morning by a representative of the Department of the Army that no further inductions of men into the armed forces are planned during the life of the Selective Service Act, which expires a year from this summer.

"This means that under present plans no inductions will be made between now and July, 1950."

Later, a Defense spokesman declared that Dahlquist was expressing an opinion, as no one knows what the future holds. He added that retention of the draft law on the books was the best means of assuring no inductions, as its existence stimulates voluntary recruiting.

House Votes Big Air Force

additional procurement funds to build to an ultimate 70 groups.

Eugene M. Zuckert, Assistant Air Force Secretary, yesterday urged the Senate Armed Services Committee to follow the House lead and approve the measure as written. Defense Secretary James Forrestal has indorsed the bill and the Bureau of the Budget is in general agreement. Budget, however, wants no specific mention of 70 groups in the measure.

"The congressional intent should be clearly stated on the objectives of modernization and maintenance," said Zuckert.

The bill authorizes 70 groups, plus 22 separate squadrons in the regular Air Force and 61 groups in the National Guard and Reserve. A Regular personnel ceiling of 502,000 is fixed, and authority to purchase 5200 planes annually is provided.

An Army of 837,000 officers and men also would be authorized, though like the Air Force, the actual strength would be determined by annual appropriations. The President's 1950 budget calls for a 677,000-man Army.

Representative Vito Marcantonio (ALP of N. Y.), who blocked final pasage of the bill last week again attempted to write an antiracial discrimination amendment into the measure. It would have barred any military purchases from firms not folowing an FEPC policy, but this was voted down, 253 to 34. On final passage, Marcantonio and Representatives Emanuel Celler (D., N. Y.) and Fred Marshall (D., Minn.) voted against the bill.

An Army department pass in a billfold inside the coat bore the name of Memory Jefferson Irwin, 57, of Herndon, Va.

Senate Comittee Approves Johnson to Be Defense Chief

The Senate Armed Services Committee yesterday approved the nomination of Louis A. Johnson to be Secretary of Defense—but with a condition.

It asked him to file a written statement that he has "divorced" himself from any companies doing business with the Government.

Johnson said he would, and the committee immediately passed his nomination on to the Senate floor. Johnson is slated to succeed James Forrestal on April 1 if the Senate approves.

Before approving his nomination, the committee "analyzed" a statement by Lester Barlow, Baltimore, inventor and aviation engineer, the only witness to oppose Johnson. He said Johnson's appointment would "menace" the Nation's security, and that he was connected with a large aircraft corporation which stood to profit by his appointment.

Barlow is a former employe of the Glenn L. Martin Corp., of Baltimore.

Chairman Tydings (D., Md.) said the committee received a letter from Martin "strongly" endorsing Johnson.

House Unit Clears Labor Bill Thursday

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

The House Labor Committee plans to approve the Administration's labor relations bill without amendments on Thursday, it was learned yesterday.

Fair Deal Democrats on the committee have decided to adopt the "steamroller" tactics so successfully applied a few weeks ago in the Senate Labor Committee, according to an authoritative source.

The speed-up strategy calls for three fast moves:

1. The 13-man Kelley subcommittee is to meet in executive session at 9:30 this morning, and disregarding any amendments that may be offered, is to report out the Lesinski bill intact. This action can be taken if—as planned—the eight Democrats on the subcommittee vote solidly for the Administration measure.

2. An hour later, at 10:30, the Fair Deal Democrats of the full committee are to hold a caucus and agree to hold the line just as they did for the minimum wage bill last week. There are 16 Democrats on the 25-man committee; 13 are considered pro-Administration.

3. The full House Labor Committee is to meet Thursday morning and, overriding objections of the nine Republicans and three Southern Democrats, is to report out the Lesinski bill.

The Lesinski bill—like the Thomas bill in the Senate—would repeal Taft-Hartley Act and restore the Wagner Act with "improvements" suggested by President Truman. Among the "improvements" are a ban on jurisdictional strikes and on certain secondary boycotts; a voluntary 30-day cooling off period in strike-threatening disputes of a national emergency nature; return of the now-independent Conciliation Service to the Labor Department.

To obtain Fair Deal "harmony," it was learned, concessions have been promised by Chairman John Lesinski (D., Mich.) to two of the Democrats in return for their withdrawing proposed amendments.

Representative Adam C. Powell, jr., of New York, veteran New Dealer, had planned to seek an anti-discrimination provision in the new labor legislation in a move to open membership to all races, religions and creeds. This clause would be aimed particularly at those unions excluding or segregating Negroes.

Instead, Representative Powell is to be named head of a subcommittee to take up the question of a Fair Employment Practices Act, an issue broad enough to include Powell's intended amendments.

A freshman Democrat, Andrews Jacobs of Indiana, had announced his intention of offering a series of amendments aimed against control of union by racketeers. Jacobs, a former labor lawyer, has argued that the way to assure honest leadership within unions is to provide by law for democratic safeguards, such as periodic election of officers and permission for any member to examine the books of a union.

Instead Representative Jacobs is to be named head of a subcommittee which will investigate racketeering in unions.

Representative Augustine B. Kelley (D., Pa.), chairman of the subcommittee which conducted two weeks of hearings on the Administration's labor relations bill, has agreed to withdraw his proposed amendment with any concession in return. Kelley would have liked to retain the Taft-Hartley Act's joint "watchdog" committee and recast it as a commission for studying future changes in the national management-relations law.

The "steamroller" tactics depend on the Fair Dealers getting 13 votes in the meeting of the full committee. However, it was reported yesterday that Representative Walter E. Brehm (R., Ohio) plans to vote for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act—whether or not his four amendments are accepted. If so, the strategy of the Administration leadership in the committee is just about assured.

Meanwhile, the House Rules Committee failed to take up the 75-cents-an-hour minimum wage bill, officially for lack to time. Some observers believe, however, that the delay was part of an overall strategy to bring up the Taft-Hartley Act before taking the minimum wage measure to the floor. There's a persistent feeling that the 75-cent minimum will be slashed back to 65 cents when the bill gets on the floor.

Senate Vote Confirms Boyd

(D., Wyo.), chairman of the Senate Interior Committee.

O'Mahoney called Boyd a "competent mineralogist," and a "capable official who will gain the confidence of the whole country."

The three Democrats who opposed Boyd's confirmation were Edwin C. Johnson (Colo.), Harley M. Kilgore, and Matthew Neely, both of West Virginia.

The Republicans against were Senators Owen Brewster (Me.), John W. Bricker (Ohio), Homer E. Capehart (Ind.), William E. Jenner (Ind.), William Langer (N. Dak.), Arthur F. Schoeppel (Kans.), Kenneth E. Wherry (Nebr.) and Millikin.

Steel Industry Booms Despite Mine Shutdown

Pittsburgh, March 22 (AP).—The Nation's steel industry today maintained a roaring production pace of about 102 per cent of rated capacity despite the coal mine shutdown.

A survey of major producers showed none planned any production cutbacks to conserve coal piles during the work stoppage of 463,000 hard and soft coal miners east of the Mississippi River.

One steel spokesman, who said supplies were adequate to last out the week, expressed the opinion that should the diggers remain idle a third week, production curtailments in steel would follow.

The miners—idle in a memorial-protest walkout—are scheduled to return to the pits next Monday. No United Mine Worker official has given any indication that they won't.

Wabash Strike End Agreed On

St. Louis, March 22 (AP).—Leaders of four railway brotherhoods late today agreed to end a seven-day strike against the Wabash Railroad, key Midwestern system.

The agreement, reached by union and Wabash representatives after 24 hours of direct negotiations, was submitted to the presidential fact-finding board and approved at once.

It called for an immediate return to work of all 3500 operating employes who have been on tsrike since last Tuesday, without impairment of seniority.

The negotiators reported they had settled most of the 185 grievances that caused the strike and that the remainder would be handled by direct negotiation while the strikers return to work.

In event negotiators are unable to dispose of the remaining issues, the report said, they will be placed before the presidential board for investigation and recommendation.

'Unfair' List of Union Council Is Ruled Unlawful by NLRB

A council of labor unions violates the Taft-Hartley Act when it publishes a list of "unfair employers" as a means of encouraging workers to violate the labor law's secondary-boycott ban.

Such was the decision issued yesterday by a majority of the National Labor Relations Board, in the latest of its series of rulings defining the "free speech" limitations of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The ruling came in a case involving the Osterink Construction Co., AFL Building and Construction Trades Council, and Bricklayers Local No. 1 of Grand Rapids, Mich.

The board ordered the council and the local to cease inducing workers to engage in a boycott against Osterink "by maintaining Osterink Construction Co. on an unfair list, or by calling any employe off his job, or by related conduct."

The union council and local were also ordered to notify two bricklayers fined for working for a subcontractor on an Osterink job, that they are free to work on any Osterink project without prejudice to their rights or standing in the bricklayers union.

The NLRB notified the unions they must post notices announcing a cessation of their "unlawful activities."

The majority decision was signed by Chairman Paul M. Herzog, James J. Reynolds, jr., and J. Copeland Gray. The decision reversed a finding by Trial Examiner William F. Scharnikow, who had held that the council could not be held in violation of Taft-Hartley because the council unlike a union local did not have power to discipline those who disregarded the "unfair list."

A dissenting opinion, by John M. Houston, declared that the decision of the majority "seems to me a dangerous and unnecessary curtailment of rights I should have thought protected under the free speech provisions" of the Taft-Hartley Act. Houston added that . . . "unions are enjoined to silence to a degree which seriously imperils their ability to engage in any concerted activity at all."

Iranians Reportedly Hold Pakistan Fort

Karachi, Pakistan, March 22 (AP). The Pakistan government said today Iranian troops had forcibly occupied a fortified Pakistan post on the common border of the two countries.

Iranian circles here said the post, known as Quila Sufed, was occupied to underscore long-standing demands by Iran for a realignment of the border.

Relations between Iran and the new Moslem dominion have been cordial and the controversy is expected to be worked out at governmental level.

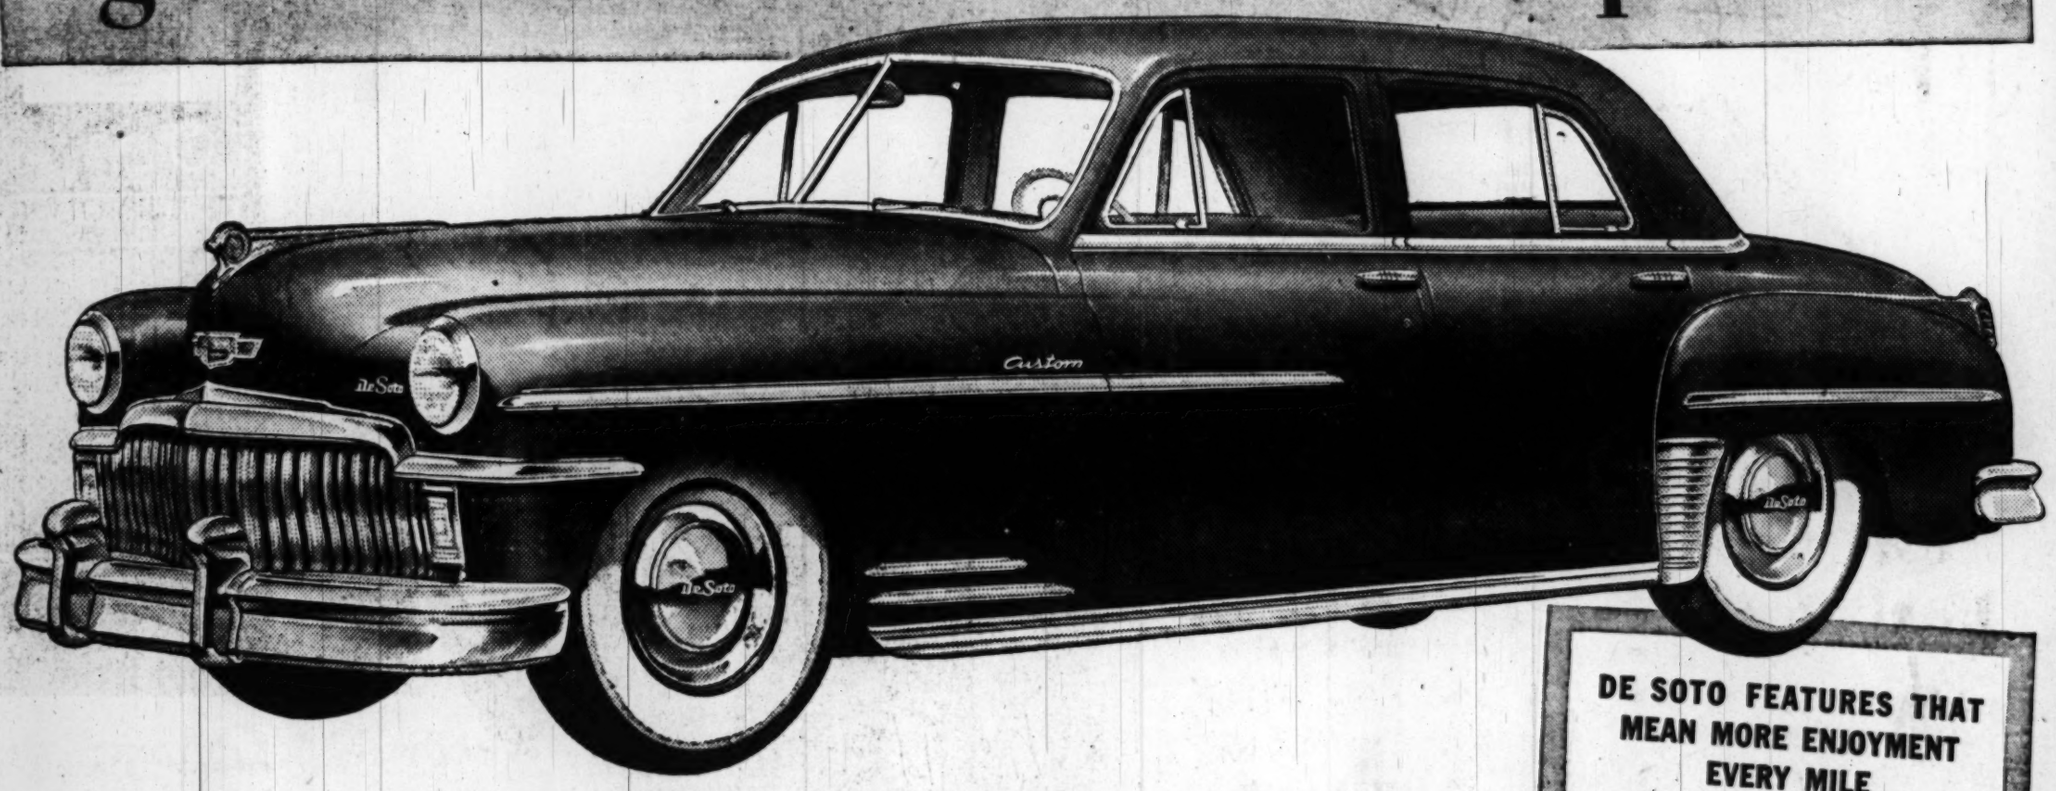
Brilliant new DE SOTO gets tremendous welcome from public!



Come in and see "THE CAR DESIGNED WITH YOU IN MIND"

IT'S BRAND-NEW . . . so new that there aren't many on the streets yet. But already it's a tremendous success. We don't remember ever hearing so many nice things said about a new car.

It's easy enough to see why it's so popular. Everybody wants a smart, good-looking modern car. But most of us don't want to pay a penalty for being modern. We want more room . . . more comfort . . . more visibility . . . not less.

That's where De Soto scores. It's got those long, low lines. But you don't have to wriggle into it. It has big wide doors. Plenty of headroom, too. The roof won't scrape your hat, no matter where you sit. It's roomier than ever.

It's no use having bigger windows and windshields unless you can see out of them. In the new De Soto you can . . . because you're sitting on chair-high seats. Even a short person can see over the steering wheel. Even a six-footer won't hit his knees on it. That means greater safety . . . as well as comfort.

The new De Soto was designed to fit YOU instead of you having to fit it. What's more, you don't have to enlarge your garage to hold it. You can still change a tire yourself. And a dent in the fender doesn't mean an expensive body repair job.

We invite you to come in and see this wonderful car that lets you drive without shifting. Compare it with any other at any price. Then decide.

Communists Denied Motion for Mistrial

New York, March 22 (AP).—Attorneys for 11 high United States Communists moved for a mistrial today because the judge scratched his head and tweaked his ears while addressing the jury for the conspiracy trial.

Judge Harold R. Medina promptly denied the motion, smiled and told the defense:

"I want you gentlemen to know that when I scratch my head I'm just scratching my head. I have a habit of doing that, and I'm not going to stop just because of your remarks."

Several of the attorneys joined in the motion after the judge had addressed the jury briefly at the conclusion of opening statements by defense counsel.

Harry Sacher, one of the lawyers, said "I have sat here and watched your honor scratch his head, pull his ears and do other things which have had the effect of negating what we say."

The judge also denied contentions of Richard F. Gladstein that Medina's remarks "constituted nothing less than a rebuttal" and of George W. Crocket, jr., that "the emphasis of the tone of your voice has prejudiced the minds of the jury and prevents a fair trial." Gladstein and Crockett are defense attorneys.

The Government is scheduled to offer its first witnesses tomorrow.

In their statements to the jury, defense lawyers declared the doctrines of Marxism-Leninism do not involve violent overthrow of the Government.

United States Attorney John F. X. McGohey, who made his statement to the jury yesterday, said the defendants planned to use Marxist-Leninist principles as a guide to seize power and set up a dictatorship here.

Sacher told the jury today his clients never had advocated the violent overthrow of the United States Government.

Sacher, counsel for City Councilman Benjamin J. Davis, jr., a defendant, said Davis' only relationship with the "force and violence" mentioned in the indictment was that he sought "to combat the use of force and violence against his own people and against working people."

Sacher also represents John Gates, editor of the Daily Worker, Communist newspaper, and Irving Potash, vice President of the CIO International Fur and Leather Workers Union.

Sacher described Gates as a war veteran who made a good record in school, fought with the Loyalists in the Spanish civil war, and was a paratrooper in the United States Army in the recent war.

Potash, Sacher said, was a needleworker who spent many years organizing a union in his trade.

Another defense attorney invoked the Constitution's guarantees of freedom of speech, press and peaceable assemblage.

Crockett, attorney from Detroit, said the defense will cite the First Amendment, part of the Bill of Rights, as "justification for everything my clients have said or done."

Browder Accuses Reds of Slander

New York, March 22 (AP).—Earl Browder, former general secretary of the American Communist Party, today denounced as "pure slander and inventions" attacks on him in the party newspaper.

The Daily Worker says in a series being published this week that Browder "is now openly peddling his wares of anti-communism" and is supporting "attacks of Wall Street against the American people."

Browder was ousted by the Communist organization in 1945 and has been sharply at odds with its leadership since then.

The charges against him in the Daily Worker were based on writings in a series of pamphlets signed by "Americus." The pamphlets challenge the strategy of the Communist Party in the United States in the postwar years.

The paper said Browder is well known as the author of the pamphlets. Browder declined to confirm this but said he agreed with most of the criticisms

False Pretense In Job Bid Laid To Remington

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

William W. Remington, Commerce Department official, cleared by the Loyalty Review Board recently of disloyalty charges, was brought under a new attack yesterday.

Thomas C. Blaisdell, Remington's boss at the Commerce Department, told a Senate committee that he thought Remington had obtained his job under what amounted to "false pretenses."

He then declared that he would never have given Remington his $10,000-a-year post in the department's Office of International Trade if he had known then what he knows now.

Blaisdell's testimony was given before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, which is considering Blaisdell's nomination as Assistant Secretary of Commerce. Yesterday's session was called for the specific purpose of going into the hiring of Remington by Blaisdell.

The attack upon Remington was challenged by his attorney, Joseph L. Rauh, jr. Rauh declared that the committee was "trying Remington" again, although he had already been given complete clearance by President Truman's Lolalty Appeal Board.

The charges against Remington were originally made by a self-confessed Communist spy, Miss Elizabeth T. Bentley, at congressional hearings last summer. Miss Bentley said that when she was a Communist, Remington had supplied her with stolen Government secrets.

Remington was suspended at Commerce. Miss Bentley, however, refused to appear against him before the Loyalty Board, and his return to his job, with accumulated pay, was ordered.

Yesterday Blaisdell declared that when he hired Remington a year ago he did not know the young economist had been questioned by a special New York grand jury investigating Communist espionage.

Senator Owen W. Brewster (R., Me.) asked if Remington's failure to tell about that investigation didn't amount to his getting his job "under false pretenses."

"As one looks back at it," Blaisdell replied, "it would seem that way."

Senator Herbert R. O'Conor (D., Md.) inquired if Blaisdell would have appointed Remington if he had known "the facts as they are now known."

"No, sir," Blaisdell declared. "It wouldn't have been fair to the Government. It wouldn't have been fair to him." He added that until Remington appeared before the congressional investigation he never knew of the grand jury inquiry.

"It never occurred to me that anything would come up," he said. "He had worked in a war agency, and had been investigated by the FBI as I and everybody else were."

Blaisdell said that Remington did tell him that he had belonged to the American Peace Mobilization, and that he was being investigated by the FBI under the loyalty program.

If Stomach Gas or Sour Food Taste Robs You of Sleep

Here's How You May Help, Whether You Eat 500 Pounds or 2000 Pounds of Food In a Year

You can't feel cheerful, be happy and sleep well, if your stomach is always upset. As age advances the "old stomach" needs more help. The reason is this:

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that 888 Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the 888 Tonic formula which contains very special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, 888 Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is 888 Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people 888 Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of 888 Tonic from your drug store today. 888 Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Rep. Hagen Plans U. S.-Aide Survey

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

Hagen

Government workers, who are frequently ridiculed for circulating too many questionnaires, will be on the receiving end of a new and exclusive one—the Hagen Survey—in the next few months.

The author, Representative Harold C. Hagen (R., Minn.), is a veteran member of the House Committee on Post-office and Civil Service.

On his own, Hagen, a former newspaperman, has organized a survey aimed at getting a substantial sampling of opinions on employe problems from workers in the Federal and District government agencies here.

Efficiency Suggestions Sought

Sample questions are:

"Are you paid enough?"

"Do you find living costs here higher than they were back home?"

"Is your department run efficiently?"

"What suggestions can you offer for improvement?"

"What recommendations can you make for better efficiency and attaining economy?"

The questionnaires will be mailed by the Congressman's office to the homes of "substantial" groups in each agency. This is being done so employes won't be forced to fill out the returns "under the noses of their bosses," Representative Hagen said.

Replies Signed, Confidential

Replies will be signed, but the contents will be kept confidential, the Congressmen promised.

Right now his office is sending requests for names and addresses to various agencies. The next step will be the preparation of the questionnaire with "a few Government workers giving it a once-over before it goes out."

The District Commissioners received the Congressman's request on Monday and acted on it at yesterday's semiweekly meeting. They went the whole way, directing all department heads "to furnish a list in triplicate containing the names and addresses of all employes in your department" as soon as possible and not later than next Monday afternoon.

Democratic Club Asks Arlington Budget Cut

The Arlington Democratic Club is urging the County Board to reduce a proposed $9,115,400 budget for 1949-50 to keep it "within the taxpayers' ability to pay."

The budget would require an 89-cent Arlington tax increase—50 cents of it for schools, 39 cents for county purposes. A hearing on the suggested county budget will be held Thursday at 8 p. m. in Circuit courtroom.

Senators Order White House Bidding

The Senate Appropriations Committee yesterday placed restrictions on the awarding of White House renovation contracts.

All cost-plus-a fixed-fee general contracts, except for underpinning and foundation work, must be awarded on competitive bidding, the committee stipulated.

The restriction was attached to an approved supplemental $5,400,000 appropriation for the Executive Mansion renovation. The funds were included in a $538,453,473 First Deficiency money bill which the Senate Appropriations Committee reported to the Senate late yesterday.

Census Bulding Stays Out

In a surprise action the Senate group failed to restore the House deletion of $11,500,000 for the construction of a new Census Building in Suitland, Md.

Both President Truman and Public Buildings Commissioner W. E. Reynolds had urged immediate allocation of the funds on grounds that the building would be needed for the census-taking which begins next year.

The committee did approve the House-passed item of $2,274,500 for rebuilding the House roof down to the gallery floor.

The deficiency bill also increased the contract authority for the new General Accounting Office building now under way at 5th and G sts. nw., to $2,550,000. Total cost of the structure was increased at the same time to $25,400,000.

Murray Expects Son To Be Named as Judge

By The Associated Press

Senator Murray (D., Mont.) yesterday said he expects the nomination of his son, W. D. Murray of Butte, Mont., to be a Federal judge in Montana to be made within a few days.

The Justice Department, which makes recommendations to the President for such appointments, would not comment on the Senator's statement.

W. D. Murray has been practicing law in Butte for several years. He would succeed the late Judge R. Lewis Brown.

Fair Area Planned For Gaithersburg

Plans for a 64-acre county fair and recreational center on the western fringe of Gaithersburg were revealed yesterday at a meeting of the Montgomery County Council.

The project, a cooperative effort, was outlined to the councilmen by C. W. Anderson, county farm agent.

Anderson said that a group of 64 public-spirited citizens had purchased the acreage as a community venture.

Besides a fair ground for annual shows, a large, illuminated athletic field is planned and an artificial lake suitable for boating, fishing, swimming and other water sports.

Materials Pledged

Contributions of lumber, sand and other construction materials have been pledged by businessmen, Anderson reported. May 6, he said, has been designated as "barn raising day" when county residents will be invited to donate labor and equipment in getting the acreage into shape and buildings erected.

The site will be known as the Montgomery County Cooperative Agricultural Center. When finished, the plant is expected to be worth a half million dollars.

In other matters yesterday, the council took issue with a recent opinion of Maryland Attorney General Hall Hammond that the State Legislature and not the county has jurisdiction over special taxing areas.

The dispute stemmed from two bills introduced in the House of Delegates by the Montgomery County delegation recently, which provided for a tax increase in the Bethesda fire tax area and for a retirement plan for firemen and library employes. The bills were introduced for the purpose of forcing an opinion from the attorney general.

Lee Explains

Citing an amendment to the State constitution which made possible the county council, Frederic P. Lee, council president, said he believed a clause in the amendment which gives county councils legislative powers in "all local laws except where they pertain to . . . special taxing areas or similar taxing areas" did not apply to fire tax areas which, he said, are "purely administrative setups."

Lee told the council that if the Hammond opinion were allowed to stand the county council "could be deprived of all authority simply by enacting special tax laws." The council indicated the matter would be placed in the hands of the council's attorney for study.

Among other business the council:

1. Voted to retain a New York firm of financial consultants to survey the "financial, social and economic conditions of the county."

2. Rescinded an action of the former board of county commissioners which granted commercial zoning at MacArthur blvd. and Mohican rd., Glen Echo Heights.

3. Rescinded a previous request to the State Roads Commission for proposed widening of Wisconsin ave. from the Bank of Bethesda to the town limits near the Naval Medical Center.

7 Naval Laboratory Employes Get Awards

Seven Naval Research Laboratory employes have received awards "for superior accomplishments" by being promoted in grade, the Navy Department announced yesterday.

The promotions vary in amount from $125.40 to $299.25 a year. Recipients are Dr. E. H. Krause, physicist, 3001 Crest ave., Cheverly, Md.; Richard V. Talbot, electronics engineer, 3211 Wheeler rd. se.; David C. Cook, electronics engineer, 5200 First st. N., Arlington, Va.; Frank I. Louckes, jr., Washington blvd., Arlington; Charles E. Thompson, photographer, 53-L Ridge rd., Greenbelt, Md.; Eric Durand, physicist, 5083 Temple Hills rd., Temple Hills, Md., and Carl H. Smith, jr., electronics engineer, 2713 S. June st., Oakcrest, Arlington, Va.

State or County

Senators Get Montgomery Liquor Issue

Annapolis, Md., March 22.—Whether the State or local government should control the Montgomery County Liquor Control Board was fought out today before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Charges of "politics" were leveled by Democratic opponents at Republican sponsors of two pending bills which would:

1. Transfer appointive powers for the five-man board from the Governor to the Montgomery council and prohibit more than three members of the board from belonging to the same political party.

2. Transfer title to the county liquor dispensary building in Silver Spring from the Liquor Control Board to the county council.

Pleading for favorable committee action was Senator Roy Tasco Davis (R., Montgomery), a committee member and sponsor of the two bills. He pointed out that for 10 years before 1943 the Montgomery Commissioners both appointed liquor board members and held the title to the building.

"These bills merely seek to restore to the county some of the rights that belong there," he said.

Strong opposition to the bills was expressed by James W. Gill, a county Democratic leader and attorney for the Liquor Control Board, and T. Brooke Lee, longtime Democratic organization leader and vice chairman of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, housed in the dispensary building.

The present liquor board of five Democratic members is doing "an excellent job," Gill argued.

He predicted that if the legislation is approved, Republicans and charterites would fill the liquor board membership. "How do you think the Democrats would fare under such an arrangement?" he asked.

Lee charged that the legislation is "an effort to block up partisan votes for the 1950 election." Democrats in the Legislature, he said, should not vote to take appointments away from Governor Lane—a Democrat.

Republican legislators, he added, should not "become so directly embroiled in local partisan politics."

Replying to questions from committee members on whether the bills were "political," Delegate Dewitt S. Hyde (R., Montgomery) said the bills provide that present board members serve out their terms until 1951.

Prince Georges Chiefs Convene Today for Budget Study

The Prince Georges County Commissioners will meet today at Annapolis with the county delegation to the Maryland General Assembly for further study of the county's proposed budget.

This was announced yesterday by Commission Chairman Harry W. McNamee at the conclusion of an executive session on the fiscal 1949 budget.

McNamee said the commissioners hope to learn today the amount the State will contribute to the county during 1949-50.

The board chairman expressed doubt that announcement of the tentative tax rate and total county budget can be made in time for a public hearing on the budget, slated for March 31 in the County Courthouse at Upper Marlboro.

He said the hearing would consider the requests made by individual county agencies to support them through June 30, 1950.

During their open meeting yesterday, the commissioners noted a letter from the Mount Rainier Democratic Club opposing enactment of the proposed master zoning plan for the county.

The group's letter also went on record as opposing "any change in the form of government in Prince Georges County."

Resurfacing and improvement of Maple rd., 31st, Zion, Mann, and Lee streets in Deanwood Park was requested by resident of the area. Plans and specifications for the work will be drawn up by County Engineer Arthur W. Tayman.

Our Missing Mayor

President Truman seemed to be deeply impressed by the plight of Washington when he appeared before the United States Conference of Mayors here on Monday. The Nation's Capital was not even represented in this organization of municipal heads, which is devoted to the improvement of local government. Nor has it been represented in other gatherings of city officials concerned with relief of municipalities from the burden of tax-exempt Federal property in their midst, although this problem is more acute in Washington than in any other city. This conspicuous absence of any District representative at gatherings which bring the heads of other cities together only emphasizes the sad fact that this city does not have a real government. It has only a hodgepodge bureaucracy under Federal dictation.

Washington residents will reecho President Truman's expression of hope that Congress "will soon give the District real self-government and make it, like our other cities, a local democracy." The President's interest in the restoration of home rule here has been a great stimulus to the movement. With Senator Kefauver moving rapidly to get a home-rule bill before the Senate, the Administration has a good opportunity to rescue Washington from its anomalous position during the present session of Congress.

It is an obvious fact, however, that the President himself can spare little time for promotion of this all-important local undertaking. Clearly he ought to have a representative in the local government who could work closely with him in giving the Capital a genuine government of its own. The proper place for such an official is the chairmanship of the local Board of Commissioners. Within the next few weeks the President will have an opportunity to choose a new member of the board; we hope that he will use it to install an outstanding representative of the community, with a mandate to make the promotion of home rule his primary business.

Reaction

The relief that has arisen out of Europe as a result of the announcement of the North Atlantic Pact testifies to the "great panic," as Ferrero calls periodical waves of global fear, which has hitherto held non-Russian Europe in thrall. There was a similar phenomenon after the Napoleonic wars. It was allayed by the Peace of Vienna. The North Atlantic Treaty, according to preliminary reaction, may produce the same kind of assuagement. At any rate, one feels the impact of the reassurance that is coming across the mighty ocean that in this air age unites rather than divides. Here, apparently, is the indisputable sign to the Europeans that the United States has definitely recognized a common destiny with Europe. Here is the testimony that the United States is embarked on a course of relating its military power as well as its resources to the historical task of casting out a "great panic" and putting the world on the path of cooperative prosperity.

Foreign Minister Schuman puts the pact in the context of power. "What has made this pact necessary," said Schuman, "is the manifest disequilibrium of force between the now disarmed western Europe and what must be called the Eastern bloc, formed by the 23 treaties made long before there was any question of any military pact among the Western nations." There are those who balk at the power approach to international relations. They feel that even the mention of power is a return to the bad old days. But power is an element like air and water, and if it is not used for good, it will infallibly be used for evil. Hitler preempted the power that a disintegrated Western world had allowed to lie fallow. Power, moreover, is like nature, in that it abhors a vacuum. It was the quick demobilization of American armies after the war that persuaded the Russians that Americans had again lost interest in the exercise of power in Europe. It seemed at the time, indeed, as if Americans were on the way to abandoning Europe. This gave encouragement to the Soviet expansionists, and they thought they were giving a push to American self-retirement by staging a sort of holdup of peacemaking. In this respect, Soviet policy could be described only by the German word hinau sekelen, meaning the effort to promote so much disgust with an enterprise as to persuade the enterpriser to quit. It did not succeed, and the United States in successive moves, beginning with the Truman Doctrine, nailed up its determination to share its history with Europe's.

Time after time we have linked aggression a la Russe to the aggression of the ameba. It is different from other types in history. Teutonic expansion, for instance, is bold and determinable; Slavic expansion flows along till it gets to an obstacle, and then tries to move around it, or goes off in another direction. The Atlantic Pact will be a mighty obstacle in western Europe to Soviet aggression.

However, there is no room for expecting that the Soviet ameba will stay idle. Already in Finland, where only a quarter of the Soviet's treaty power has been used, new pressures are mounting from Moscow and Leningrad. The Finns have been put on notice to shake up their cabinet and give more posts to the Communists. Ominous news is also coming out of Yugoslavia and Iran—the likeliest places for the ameba's fresh activity. This possibility should be the goad to increase the depth of community heralded in the North Atlantic Pact. This is the Belgian thesis, and, so far as we are concerned, the ideas of the Belgians are the soundest in Europe. They have consistently pleaded that the accent of our American policy toward Europe should be put on integration rather than on production. For the first time, according to Pierre Jaspar, the Marshall Plan "has convinced the European nations of the necessity to sit together and discuss among themselves all of their problems, and show to each other that those problems are not as difficult as they think." This push can now be reinforced, it is their hope, under the authority of the North Atlantic Pact.

The Pyramids

There are several observations which might be made about the effort of Mr. Fay to prosecute the pyramid clubs. The first is that these clubs are plainly lotteries within both the dictionary and the legal definition of the term. The principle is precisely the same as in the send-a-dime chain letters of 14 or 15 years ago which, while they lasted, provided such a severe headache to the postal authorities. However, in the case of the pyramid clubs, there is apparently no infringement of the Postal Regulations, since most of the solicitations are by telephone or in face-to-face conversations.

Nevertheless, the clubs seem pretty plainly to be a violation of the letter of Title 22, Section 151, of the District of Columbia criminal code, which stipulates that

> If any person shall within the District keep, set up, or promote, or be concerned as owner, agent, or clerk, or in any other manner, in managing, carrying on, promoting, or advertising, directly or indirectly, any policy lottery, policy shop, or any lottery, . . . or shall, for himself or another person, sell or transfer, or have in his possession for the purpose of sale or transfer, a chance or ticket in any lottery or any such bill, certificate, token or other device he shall be fined upon conviction of each said offense not more than $1000 or be imprisoned not more than three years, or both.

All the same, the prosecution of the pyramid clubs, which has begun with the arrest of Mr. Daniel Thomas of Hawaii ave. ne., seems to us a stupid and ill-advised move. Mr. Thomas is apparently not in any sense a professional gambler, and the motive which led him into the pyramid clubs appears to have been, as in the case of most participants, primarily the quest of amusement. It may not have been a noble or praiseworthy form of amusement, but it is certainly one for which a widespread appetite exists. Thus if Mr. Thomas is guilty of having violated the antigambling laws, he is no more guilty than hundreds, or probably thousands, of other residents of the city who consider themselves, and are considered by their neighbors, respectable and law-abiding persons. This accounts for the widespread sympathy which has been worked up in Mr. Thomas' behalf.

A glance through the gambling laws of the District shows clearly that many of them are quite unenforceable. For example, one of the commonest forms of lottery, usually called a "pool," is the one which is based upon accidents of certain sporting events, such as the inning in which most runs will be scored in a given game of baseball, or the club which will have the highest collective score on a given day or week. In the baseball season such lotteries are spontaneously organized among the employes of almost every business and commercial establishment of the city. To suppress them would require an army of spies, provocateurs and police equal to about half the population of the city. Yet they are specifically prohibited by law. So also, apparently, are games of penny-ante poker or 10-cents-a-rubber bridge, played among friends in a private home, or the games of lotto, bingo, and so on, which are sometimes organized as means of raising funds for church purposes.

Whether petty gambling is or is not a sin is a matter about which moralists disagree. One thing is certain, that the habit cannot be eradicated by purely legal means, any more than the drinking habit can, as we learned at such cost. The effort to enforce laws to which popular assent is lacking merely serves to bring law generally into contempt. The most that the authorities can do, and all that any reasonable person can expect of them, is to prevent the gambling instinct from being exploited by professional racketeers with criminal associations, as it is, for example, in the numbers game.

Finally, the pyramid clubs gave every indication of becoming no more than a short-lived craze that would have presently disappeared of itself had not the fad been stimulated and extended by all the publicity attending the police threats of prosecution. For the truth is that the accumulations of money in these lotteries represent, not pyramids, but inverted pyramids, which in the nature of things are destined sooner or later to collapse of their own weight. It is encouraging to find that Major Barrett, the police superintendent, now believes the police may have gone a bit beyond the requirements of duty in this matter. They have indeed. Major Barrett says also that the police have more serious things to worry about than petty gambling. He might have added that one of them is the numbers racket—against which some of the zeal and energy applied to the pyramid players might better have been expended.

Case To Reconsider

Last week, with a fine flourish, the State Department decided that American democracy was strong enough to withstand the temporary presence here of a few notable Communists from eastern Europe. The department issued visas to Dmitri Shostakovich, the Soviet composer, and 22 others to attend a Communist-front conference in New York, and it explained that the United States Government had "unswerving devotion to freedom of information and free speech on any issue, however controversial it may be." Now the department has made its original statement sound hollow and threatens to make the United States look ridiculous, by revoking or denying visas for the same purpose to a handful of British and French Communists and fellow travelers. The eastern Europeans are held to be coming as official delegates of their Communist governments; the British and French are held to be seeking entry as private citizens and are excluded under our immigration law.

True, the existing law forbids the admission of aliens "who believe in, advise, advocate or teach . . . the overthrow by force or violence of the Government of the United States." True, these hand-picked delegates believe and propagate the Leninist-Stalinist mumbo-jumbo of the class war. Yet the law also prescribes that the Commissioner of Immigration, with the approval of the Attorney General, "shall issue rules and prescribe conditions, including extraction of such bonds as may be necessary, to control and regulate the admission and return of otherwise inadmissible aliens applying for temporary admission." In other words, the law lets the Attorney General admit these visitors if he sees fit. In this instance he should not hesitate to use his overriding powers to protect the good name of the United States.

The British contingent includes J. G. Crowther, for many years scientific correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, and Prof. J. D. Bernal, a physicist of international renown, whose political childishness did not prevent the Admiralty from using him as its scientific adviser in some of its most secret operations during the war. But the real and unanswerable reason for admitting them is that the United States still keeps, we hope, the priceless privilege of free speech and free inquiry. The exclusion of these visitors would do this country more harm than their admission to spout whatever Communist nonsense they choose. Is our faith so feeble, our system so insecure, that we must shut our doors and stop our ears to doctrines we do not happen to approve?

Bow To Demagoguery

Failure of the House leadership to stop the 110-billion-dollar Rankin pensions scheme in the House of Representatives yesterday is a hard blow for the Administration and for the country. The House leadership put up a good fight and when the committee of the whole voted to knock out the bill's enacting clause, it appeared that it had won a significant victory. On subsequent roll-call votes, however, the demagogic appeal of the Rankin forces saved the bill from the graveyard consignment that it deserved. This is a disturbing commentary on representative government.

We have no fear that Mr. Rankin's scheme to buy the good will of veterans with 110 billion dollars out of the public till will be enacted into law. It is too fantastic for that. No doubt it will be riddled with amendments in the House, and either the Senate or President Truman may be expected to kill it. What is depressing about this performance is the failure of the House itself to rise to its responsibility of voting down this dangerous pipedream of the little man from Mississippi. In the committee of the whole, when members were not being identified with their votes, the count was 163 to 154 against the bill. But a roll call on the same question brought a vote of 291 to 120 to save the bill. Certainly this indicates a craven switching of votes when a record is kept.

The story of Mr. Rankin's railroad tactics in putting the bill through his committee should have been sufficient to send a chill up the spines of legislators who are asked to vote for it. Only one group opposed to the bill was permitted to testify after a furor arose over the one-sided hearings arranged by Mr. Rankin. Seven members of the committee walked out in protest against his highhanded methods of forcing a vote almost before discussion could begin. If these biased hearings and dictatorial methods were not enough to condemn the measure, the opposition of the courageous veterans on the committee should expose it for what it is—a vote-buying scheme at the cost of 110 billion dollars to taxpayers. The House still has a chance to redeem itself by limiting the scope of the bill and eliminating its obvious threat to the Social Security program and to aid for disabled veterans. But its failure to meet this appeal to demagoguery head-on is a letdown that voters who pay the bills for wild give-away schemes ought to remember on election day.

Broadcasts to Germany

In his March 3 letter to The Washington Post, Mr. Julius Epstein criticized the language of the State Department's "Voice of America" broadcasts to Germany, referring to a German broadcast the text of which was published in the New York Staats-Zeitung und Herold on February 20.

I am convinced that the editors of the Voice are quite able to write a flawless German editorial script if they are not forced to hitch their language to the vehicle of expression in the English language which is given to them not only as a guide, but as a definite text for their broadcast. I know by experience that our colleagues of the Voice do not dare change important sentences in the text which is dictated to them, even though some expressions may violate their linguistic feeling and grammatical instinct.

There is more to a perfect translation of a sentence than the conversion of words from one language to the other; and in order to improve the language of the Voice I suggest that the broadest freedom of expression be granted to the editorial staff. An English sentence often has to be reshaped ideologically in order to express the idea of the sentence properly in the other language.

Another difficulty which has to be overcome and which may be rather serious in broadcasting is the fact that, as a rule, the German sentence is longer than the original sentence in the English language from which it has to be translated. For this reason the broadcaster may be forced to press an idea into shorter sentences even at the cost of beauty or correctness of language. As a matter of fact, I have seen in at least one case that the German version had to be maltreated essentially in order to be able to get it over the air in the prescribed time.

"Something For Nothing"

Your March 17 editorial dictum that the Pyramid Clubs (with which I have nothing to do) "are potentially evil" strikes me as being on all fours with the mental attitude of a minority of holier-than-thou dismal johnnies in the House of Commons a score of years ago when they attempted to introduce a parliamentary bill to put an end to the football pools "evil."

The fact that these Pyramid Clubs do not offer something for nothing any more than a bookmaker, or a Wall Street broker does is beside the point. In any gamble there must be a stake ventured as a sine qua non of a win. Wherefore, obviously, your making synonymous the gambling with the something-for-nothing instinct is at once evidence of your utter ignorance of the essence of gambling and of the abhorrence which ignorance breeds.

Once upon a time my country was in fact "The Home of the Free." Today, thanks to such editorials as this one, not to mention governmental "controls" born in the 16 years of the New Deal paternalism, thoughtful Americans must have their tongue in their cheek when they sing that line in "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Dirty Linen

This letter is to present a student's viewpoint on the dirty linen being aired at present by the University of Virginia's dean of students. I feel justified in publicizing my views to defend myself, since the heads of the university have publicized matters on the social life at this institution which are degrading to the university as a whole.

I am not saying that Dean Newman's statements are false (although I do believe they are greatly overemphasized); rather I am saying that if he cannot handle his problems without consulting the whole country (via Associated Press), then he should be replaced by a competent person.

I say that the students of the University of Virginia are no more promiscuous with women than are any average group of men between the ages of 20 and 30 years and I further say that University of Virginia men hold their liquor better than average.

The question is, what did Dean Newman hope to accomplish by washing his dirty linen in public? I say he lowered the esteem in which the university has been held as a place of higher education for ladies and gentlemen.

Antivivisection

In response to the letter in your issue of March 15, signed by four medical students of Brentwood, Md., upholding vivisection, a few of the many physicians opposing the practice are the following: J. Howard Crum, M. D., New York City; Dr. A. V. Allen, surgeon in Chicago; Dr. Millicent Morden, physician in Brooklyn, N. Y.; the late Dr. William Howard Hay, who had a sanitarium at Mount Pocono, Pa.; Dr. George Starr White of California; the late Dr. Henry W. Bigelow, professor at Harvard Medical School, and Dr. Salvador Herrejon of Mexico City.

The decrease in diphtheria and smallpox is certainly not due to vaccination because vaccination is compulsory in only 10 States and is forbidden by law in six. Antirabies inoculation, is prohibited in England as it was found to spread rabies. Antitoxin is forbidden in Austria although it was invented there.

A Dr. Brook in England has perfected an operation which cures blue babies. He did not use dogs or other animals, but gained his knowledge from clinical observation of human patients. British Medical Journal, June, 1948. MRS. H. D. ALBIN,
Secretary, Antivisection Society (D. C.)

"Broken China"

I congratulate you on your February 28 editorial, "Broken China." It approaches China's present-day problems with an historical perspective, rather than with our own present-day self-concern alone. Your main point—that the Chinese revolution, regardless how much or how far communism is involved in it, is essentially a Chinese, not Russian phenomenon—certainly is valid.

There are three points, however, that I think merit some elaboration. First is the question about Mao Tse-tung being a successful catalytic agent in the Chinese revolution. What is essential in the catalytic process is unity. The bringing together of various areas, divergent economic interests and political factions to make a modern state is the crux of the revolutionary process; a strong man is only incidental in that process. If we look upon the Chinese revolution as an attempt to transform the family-centered and semi-feudalistic social structure into a modern state, then no one leader will be important except through his contribution to integration of the state as opposed to its disintegration.

The second point for elaboration is that "Chinese civilization is more alien to communism than any other." The party line regards Chinese empathy as evidence of a more critical and desperate need to "liberate" China. But readers may ask how we account for Communist gains in a country that is supposed to be unreceptive. For one thing, communism is winning partly by default. Other agents have failed to provide an adequate vehicle for forces of social change in China. For most Chinese the immediate goal is not communism, but national unity and independence.

Another point is that Chinese communism, as the editorial intimated, is a workable blend of native institutions with the battle-cries and outward forms of Marxism. To this difference between Communist authoritarianism and Chinese practicalism, Chinese Communist leaders have worked out a synthetic answer, and therein lies the measure of Communist strength.

The point the editorial aims at, is that such a synthesis lies in the nature of Chinese, rather than Communist genius. The power of adaptation is the essential feature, and that is Chinese. Momentarily it seems bound to the party line; but its genius for detachment and independence has not been compromised completely in the adaptation of Marxism.

Synthesis would have been impossible to achieve without the independence which Mao exemplifies. Mao's idealistic leanings toward Russia have never been given the test of actual contact; and perhaps that is why they serve as such dynamic motivations for his movement.

China leans toward authoritarianism in political matters. In that respect China is susceptible to communism. China's aversion to communism lies partly in the complexity of its economic life. The snarls of the agrarian problem, industrialization, overpopulation, and poverty defy a one-sided authoritarian administration. Chinese aversion to communism also lies in the stubborn individual independence and resourcefulness of the Chinese.

The third point was stated: "If Russia took over China . . . the sure end would be the absorption of Russia." Since Russia's methods are so similar to the Japanese, and since communism is just as stultifying and self-centered as the Japanese concept of internationalism, the chances are that Russian communism will get no further in China than Japanese imperialism did. As the editorial says, there are many forces set against Russian domination of China, both immediately and in point of time.

But the assertion that if Russia tried to take over China, "the sure end would be the absorption of Russia," is extreme. Russia might get stung in the end, to be sure. But it is hardly likely that Chinese ever would try to dominate Russia—particularly Russia in Europe. It would be more accurate to say that despite heavy odds in Russia's favor at present, given 100 years, China, through her political adroitness and pragmatic bent in economic matters, might well outstrip Russia as an independent and powerful nation.

New 'Notions' At Beirut

By Malvina Lindsay

Feminine Strategists

AN EVENT that may influence the lives of women—and inevitably the social order—in many parts of the world is taking place this week in Beirut, Lebanon. While on the surface nothing more than carefully worded resolutions may come out of the third conference of the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women, yet the ideas set in motion at this spot, called the "crossbridge between Asia, Africa and Europe" are likely to bear surprising fruit in a few years.

For in this global feminine stocktaking, women of East and West are finding in what ways they lag behind each other as the free human beings the United Nations Charter envisages. From these discussions women in the three continents lying off this listening post and across the seas in the Americas will get new "notions" of their own worth and destiny.

Few national toes but what will be stepped on at this Beirut meeting. Among these will be the 21 nations in which women do not yet vote—countries that will get the stigma of "backward" in the discussions. Also charged at this bar of feminine opinion will be nations that take away a woman's citizenship when she marries a foreigner, that deny her freedom of choice in marriage, that do not give her equal rights in divorce, that give control of her property or earnings to her husband or father, that do not give her freedom to join her spouse in another country, and that offend against the "dignity of the wife" by sanctioning polygamy.

MANY OF these ideas will prove disturbing to husbands in the areas around Lebanon. Yet the West cannot be too smug at this conference. For on some of these things it is vulnerable. The United States still discriminates against alien husbands of American women, and has not yet put women on a basis with men in all immigration matters. And hundreds of discriminations against women exist in State laws.

On one of the main subjects on the commission's agenda, equal pay for equal work with men, the faces of both Great Britain and the United States will be especially red. While the British are worse offenders than the Americans in this, yet this country has an Achilles' heel of discrimination that was recently taken advantage of by the Soviet Union when it charged in a statement on International Women's Day that American women get 30 to 40 per cent less pay than men for the same work.

Another leading subject at the conference is nationality status of women who marry foreigners. The commission is working for a general treaty to clear up the world-wide confusion on that matter. Now the diversity of laws results in some women who marry other nationals finding themselves citizens of two countries, while others become women without states.

BOTH WEST and East realize they have something to learn from each other about women's status—that is why the commission is holding meetings in varied parts of the world. In Lebanon, for example, women have made great progress even though they lack the vote. In this small ancient country of two million population on the eastern edge of the Mediterranean, women can attend any university on an equal basis with men—a privilege not open to American women—and can study at these any subject they may choose.

Education is the main lever women of the so-called backward countries have been using to get greater political and personal rights. One question that repeatedly comes before the Commission on the Status of Women is whether to put the main emphasis on getting political rights for women of the world or to press for more opportunities in education, which would equip them better to use the vote.

Helping women in remote areas to make themselves economically independent is another indirect way of breaking the power of those who would keep them in "their place." The present conference will do something about this, too, through its action to raise nursing standards in all countries, and to encourage women to aspire to the professions.

Modern Music

J. Hans Sachs, in his letter of March 18, lets loose with a verbal bombardment against modern music which begs for an answer.

Modern music is no longer a new art. It has long since established itself as having something to say. Not all of it is worthwhile, but neither is all the music of the past. Certainly it is every music lover's right to hear new music as often as possible, although it may be many years before we will be able to truly evaluate it.

All music was "modern" at some time. Brahms' works were not played because they were too strange, just a short time ago. And even the great Beethoven was once denounced for daring to begin a symphony on the dominant seventh. In our own time, Stravinsky is now considered fairly tame, but 20 years ago his music was thought of as nothing but a mass of noise. Let's give new music a chance.

Congress And The Pact

ONE OF the few encouraging aspects of the rather down-at-heel Washington scene is the way that Secretary of State Dean Acheson has taken hold with Congress. The succinct, effective drafting of the Atlantic Pact is the first fruit of this collaboration.

As everyone knows, the members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee began to be consulted about the drafting of the pact some time ago. What is less well known is that the Senators worked on an equal basis with Acheson and his staff, suggesting some of the most significant language. The results of this cooperative effort are a classic state paper and a unanimous Senate committee, which add up to a score of 100 in a difficult test.

These immediately significant developments, meanwhile, have rather obscured another, related event of the greatest long-range importance. When he was himself Assistant Secretary of State, Acheson made the first experiments with a long-range solution of the difficult problem of the executive - legislative relationship. Only one true long-range solution is possible—to create a permanent climate of informed opinion among the Senators and Representatives. Acheson made the revolutionary new departure of telling them the facts on which the Administration policy-makers based their decision. And it worked.

SINCE Acheson's departure from the Assistant Secretaryship, the personal intimacy between Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg and successive Secretaries of State has been almost the whole foundation for congressional acceptance of Administration policy. But now, while continuing the bipartisan foreign policy, and still working closely with Vandenberg, Acheson is again attempting to systematize the relationship between two governmental branches.

Ernest A. Gross, who is well equipped for the place, has been given the sole assignment of Assistant Secretary of State in charge of congressional liaison. And Gross has one main job, which he has already well begun. It is to try to make sure that Congress as a whole is well enough informed about the foreign situation so that necessary policy steps will always be supported.

Acheson has acted none too soon. What has escaped notice, in the general indignation about the civil rights filibuster, is that the restored coalition of Southerners and right-wing Republicans may have very important effects on foreign policy.

The plain truth is that it would have been better not to have launched the project of the Atlantic Pact at all than to pass the pact and then refuse to implement it. The Southerners and right-wing Republicans want above all to avoid new taxes. But implementing the pact will require an initial, extrabudgetary appropriation of at least 1.5 billion dollars for arms for Europe in the next 12 months. Worse still, when the military planners of the Atlantic community eventually meet, they will have to come to realistic grips at last with the central problem of Soviet rearmament.

THE MEASURE of this problem is the simple fact, previously reported in this space, that Soviet production of heavy tanks has now reached a figure above 3000 annually. (In contrast, President Truman's reduction of the U.S. arms budget has caused the Army to abandon its pilot program for modernizing 400 of our World War II heavies, which the Soviets would only classify as medium tanks in any case.)

The problem of Soviet rearmament, in short, is not one which can be solved by token shipments of arms to Europe plus a half-hearted U. S. preparedness effort. And if more is to be done, new taxes will be needed.

Men like Senators Walter F. George and Robert A. Taft already sense these longer-range implications of the Atlantic Pact. They are shrewd enough to know that the time is passing when the ever-increasing American role in world affairs can be comfortably financed out of the national surplus. Taft and George are too wise to have committed themselves as yet. But more impulsive Southerners and Republican conservatives are already speaking the language of Sir John Simon, when he sabotaged British rearmament in 1936 and 1937. They are saying that the "soundness of our economy is a better defense" than mere sordid military equipment. That argument almost gave Hitler victory.

Yet that argument, plus the ineffectiveness of President Truman's political leadership, are now actually imperiling the practical implementation of the Atlantic Pact. Even if the Senate passes the pact itself, the whole outcome will still be very much in the balance.

What will happen, of course, if Congress refuses to take this necessary first step of helping to arm Europe, will be the rapid dissolution of the united front which the Atlantic Pact represents. One after another, if they are to get no help from us, our potential allies overseas will try to make terms with the Kremlin. Not a single Munich, but several, will ensue. Bringing this home to Congress is the first task of Messrs. Acheson and Gross.

Morse, Elbert Thomas To Be Honored Tonight

The National Committee for the Extension of Labor Education will honor Senators Elbert D. Thomas (D., Utah) and Morse (R., Ore.), sponsors of the Labor Extension Service Bill, at a dinner this evening in the Hamilton Hotel.

Senators Aiken (R., Vt.), Douglas (D., Ill.), Neely (D., W. Va.) and Green (D., R. I.) are also scheduled to attend and discuss the bill which is awaiting action by the Senate.

Roller Review to Aid Heart Fund Campaign

A "roller review" featuring Arnold Heyman, District skater, will be staged at 9 p.m. tonight at Riverside stadium as the closing event of the 1949 fund raising campaign of the Washington Heart Association.

Severine Loeffler, jr., manager of Riverside Stadium, has agreed to turn over the show's entire receipts to the Heart Association drive, according to John H. Wilkins, jr., general chairman of the campaign.

Tells How to Secure A Mastery of English Quickly

An interesting new booklet offered free to men and women who want to secure a real mastery of the English language tells of a "foolproof" method for studying English usage without attending classes. The plan, as described in this little book, has been worked out by Grenville Kleiser, who has helped thousands of students to a better command of English.

According to the publishers, this world authority uses no involved rules of grammar or rhetoric, but presents a simple, straightforward inspiring method that secures real results in very short time. Thousands of users of this method, they say, have gained increased power to express themselves in fluent, convincing, clear-cut English and so have improved their possibilities of social and business advantages.

To acquaint more men and women with the advantages of improving their understanding of English, the publishers, Funk and Wagnalls Company, have printed full details of this speedy, pleasant method in a booklet which they will send to anyone who requests it. The address is Funk & Wagnalls Company, Dept. WP 323, 153 East 24th Street, New York 10, New York. A penny postcard will do. There is no charge for the booklet.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Atlantic Pact's Peaceful Aim

BEGINNING with the release of the text and moving on to the official signing, the Atlantic Pact is being floodlighted with publicity. This is as it should be, since the step is a momentous one.

Childs

The very brightness of the glow of publicity may, however, be deceptive. It may encourage the illusion that the mere signing of the pact is in itself a complete achievement.

Nothing could be further from the truth. The pact is merely a beginning. If it is not a beginning, then it is nothing.

Quite properly the pact has been compared to the Monroe Doctrine, which signaled the end of European intervention in the Western Hemisphere. But the mere enunciation of the doctrine by President Monroe did not guarantee the independence of this hemisphere from further encroachment.

That came out of a whole series of events—both words and deeds—which gave substance to the doctrine. It came out of the growing strength and authority of the United States. The general outline laid down by President Monroe was given meaning through the years.

Too little has been said by responsible officials about the objectives of the Atlantic Pact and about what it does not mean. Too much reliance has been placed on generalization and rhetoric. Yet at the same time there has been widespread speculation here and abroad over the volume of arms available to participating European countries.

THIS IS a weakness that can cause future trouble. The fact, which no one talks about, is that top military men both in this country and Britain were not happy about the final form of the pact as it was extended beyond the compact block of western European powers to include northern and southern extremities.

These men know how intense is the competition for available arms. They know, too, something of the dangers of dispersing limited strength over a wide area.

Here at home new items are constantly being added to the defense shopping list. Thus, Congress recently approved with scarcely any discussion a request from the Air Force for a radar network around the United States and Alaska to cost 122 million dollars.

It is likely to cost considerably more than that and it will certainly take scarce materials and equipment sought by western Europe. Even though this country has the most comprehensive communications system in the world, construction of the radar net will mean the laying of thousands of miles of land wires. That is just one example of what the word defense entails.

The professed goal of the Atlantic Pact is not a military alliance. But even if it were, the realities of demand and supply would dictate that it could not be really effective on that basis for a long time to come.

WHAT THIS makes abundantly clear is the need to stress the peaceful goal of the pact. It is a pact for self-defense within the framework of the United Nations and its great potentialities for good in that context must be told and retold at home and abroad.

If the pact is truly a beginning and not just another scrap of paper, then it can serve as the base for a new kind of world society. The nucleus of a world state is here if the framers of the pact mean what they say. The Atlantic commmunity can transcend the tragic limitations of the U. N.

Another reason for putting all the emphasis on the peaceful intention of the pact is the deep-seated fear and suspicion on the part of the Russians. There is a strong probability that the masters of the Kremlin actually believe their own propaganda that the Atlantic alliance is an alliance of the Western powers, under United States domination, to make war on the Soviet Union.

A recent analysis of Soviet propaganda showed the pathological fear motivating much of what comes out of the land of midnight darkness. That paranoid fear—a persecution complex in an advanced stage—could drive its victims to the ultimate madness of war.

From the military point of view all that can be done under the pact for several years is to begin to restore something of the strength sapped by the war. From the political point of view, the pact is a franchise to a brave, new world.

'Very Hard to Do'

Ford Denies Selling Poles ERP Goods

Paris, March 22 (AP).—A spokesman for the Ford Societe Anonyme, French subsidiary of the Ford Motor Co., denied today that the subsidiary has sent Marshall Plan goods to Poland.

"It would have been very hard to do," said Assistant Manager Francois Clerc in an interview, "because we have never received anything under the Marshall Plan."

Dealings with Poland, he said, have been "100 per cent French."

The Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune said this morning the French corporation had bought motor parts under the European Recovery Program and resold them to Poland, which is a member of the Communist bloc.

The French Foreign Ministry in a statement said the story was "contrary to facts."

Somali Franc Fixing Backed By World Fund

The International Monetary Fund yesterday announced its concurrence in a proposal by France to change the par value of the currency of French Somaliland. The new par value of the Djibouti franc is: one franc equals 0.00414507 gram of fine gold, which amounts to 214.392 Djibouti francs per U. S. the dollar.

The par value for this currency which was initially established in agreement with the Fund was 70 Djibouti francs per dollar. When France instituted its new exchange system on January 25, 1948, the Djibouti franc was fixed at 126 to change restrictions will be abolished.

The parities for the Djibouti franc in terms of gold and U. S. dollars are:

(1) 0.00414507 gram of fine gold per Djibouti franc.

(2) 7503.73 Djibouti francs per troy ounce of fine gold.

(3) 214.392 Djibouti francs per U. S. dollar.

(4) 0.466435 U. S. cents per Djibouti franc.

The new Djibouti franc will be freely convertible into dollars. Exchange restrictions will be abolished in French Somaliland.

to take a firm stand in favor of the committee's action.

The committee then voted unanimously to defer further action on the case until later appropriations legislation comes before them.

The GOP-steered Eightieth Congress "fired" Straus and Boke by adding a proviso to an appropriation bill last year requiring that their posts be filled by qualified engineers. Neither Straus nor Boke is an engineer.

Shortly after the new Congress met, President Truman asked it to nullify the action. The House [Straus told The Washington Post last night that "as I don't know what's in the FBI report or in the Un-American Committee's report, I can't deny anything."

[He said a full investigation was made a year ago by the Loyalty Board and the report was unanimous in his favor.

[The commissioner declared that the motivating force behind the controversy was his feud with Senator Sheridan Downey (D., Calif.) over the law limiting ownership of land in California reclamation projects to 160 acres. Downey has sought for years to repeal that law, passed in 1902. Downey, Straus said, appeared before the committee for "two or three days" as a witness against him.—Editor's Note.]

Mills Alumnae to Hear Rusk on World Affairs

Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk will lead an informal discussion on international relations at a meeting of the Washington Branch, Mills College Alumnae Association, on Thursday at 8:30 p.m.

The meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. William Howard, Westchester Apartments, 412-A.

authorized to accept ECA notes for that amount, to guarantee private American investments abroad against specified losses.

House Foreign Affairs Committee Chairman John Kee (D., W. Va.) said: "Thus the committee bill is 200 million below the original" in funds which will have to be appropriated, and "it is a total of $5,652,000,000, or 72 million above the original amount actually available for the European Recovery Plan."

Representative Kee said the bill was unanimously approved by the committee. The 200 million dollar cut in outlay was made by:

1. Eliminating the $150,000,000 sought for ECA authority to make carry-over contract agreements after June 30, 1950, the end of the second phase of the 4 1-4-year aid program.

2. Making a $50,000,000 cut in the $1,150,000,000 requested to carry on the recovery program after its presently authorized date of April 3 and until June 30, 1949, beginning of the fiscal year.

Both the Senate and House bills only authorize funds; they do not appropriate money.

Representative Kee said he would introduce a "clean bill" today incorporating committee changes, and that a complete report of the bill will not be ready until Thursday. He said he will seek to obtain prompt action on the bill by the rules committee.

To Give Reasons Later

Reasons for making the cuts will be detailed later, Representative Kee said. The committee did not change the $4,280,000,000 requested by ECA for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1949, and ending June 30, 1949.

The House committee defeated an amendment to include its bill authority to use unexpended funds in the China aid program beyond the April 3 expiration date of that legislation for 275 million dollars in aid funds.

Between 50 and 60 million dollars of the China funds, earmarked for reconstruction for the Chinese Nationalists, has been "frozen" because of the sweeping advances by the Chinese Comunist armies.

Representative Walter H. Judd (R., Minn.), who sought extension of that legislation, said, "They have (now) voted to pull the last rug out from under the government of an ally." The amendment was ruled out as not being "germane" to the pending bill, and Judd said, "The only way out is a new bill—and I don't see how there's time for that."

In its approval of the ECA bill, Representative Kee said the committee agree to knock out completely a requirement that 25 per cent of all wheat to ERP countries must be in the form of flour. The Senate reduced this to 15 per cent.

Status of Guarantee Funds

Status of the guarantee funds for American business investments is now as follows:

Existing legislation provides that up to 300 million dollars may be used by ECA to guarantee that profits from approved investments abroad can be converted to American dollars up to an amount not exceeding the original investment. The 300 million figure would come out of a one billion dollar loan fund, but because few such guarantees have been approved, about 972.3 million dollars of that fund has already been expended, most of it for loans.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee continued that authority without increasing the amount, with the view that the remaining $27,700,000 would probably suffice for guarantees, and if not, additional money could be used from over-all ECA funds.

The House committee voted to war, riot, revolution, expropriation permit 300 million dollars in guarantees, on a greatly broadened basis, employing the unexpended $27,700,000, and authorizing notes for the remainder. The House bill would guarantee approved investments against losses through or similar action, with no limit on profits that could be converted to dollars.

In all cases, a fee up to 1 per cent of the guarantee could be charged.

In another action yesterday, the House Rules Committee approved for floor action a bill to require that at least half of all foreign aid cargoes be carried in American ships, if available, without regard to the point of cargo origin.

The bill, sponsored by Representative Schuyler Otis Bland (D., Va.), would radically alter existing provisions in ECA legislation to favor American shippers. The 50-per-cent provision would apply on a country-by-country and cargo-by-cargo basis.

that the clearance for him to receive atomic secrets overruled the recommendations of the AEC's security board, headed by former Supreme Court Justice Owen D. Roberts. The only official comment came from Dr. Karl T. Compton, a member of the board, who said it was "very improper that anything got out "about the recommendations of the board.

Dr. Graham said at that time that he had "always been opposed to Communism and all totalitarian governments".

President Truman told his news conference, after Lewis' broadcast, that he had the utmost confidence in Graham and expressed doubt that the Roberts board had objected to the educator.

On the floor of the House on Feb. 3, Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D., La.) said the House Un-American Activities Committee had listed Dr. Graham as either a director or sponsor of 18 Communist-front organizations.

Graham, the son of a North Carolina educator and civic leader, Alexander Graham, was born in Fayetteville, N. C., October 14, 1886. He was graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1919. He studied law here and received a master's degree from Columbia University.

He served in the Marine Corps in World War I and was discharged as a first lieutenant in 1919, returning to the university as assistant professor of history.

He became president of the university in June, 1930. He has received 13 honorary degrees. He was married July 21, 1932, to Marian Drane of Edenton, N. C.

Leonard John Mitchell, the urbane young Swede who is half-owner of Olmsted's Restaurant, has developed a homely philosophy in the seven years since he and James J. Brahms bought the place.

"The quintessence of a successful business," muses Mitchell, a man of extensive vocabulary, "is that one has to be on one's toes all the time."

As philosophies should, this covers a lot of territory. The mileage has never been figured, but Mitchell and Brahms are sure of one thing: They're on their feet 14 hours a day, 6 days a week. Have been since 1942.

The duo took over Olmsted's—a Washington landmark for 38 years—with the intent of bringing it back to its old popularity. The way to do it, they agreed, was to "emphasize American food with the French touch."

This has worked out in simple fashion. Mitchell goes to market bright and early, returns with plenty of choice, double-A steaks, hands them over to Chef Renee Roux. Then this veteran of Riviera culinary skill, aided by six French cooks, goes to work.

Charles P. Taft Asks Criticism Of Capitalism

Evanston, Ill., March 22 (U.P.).—Charles P. Taft, former president of the Federal Council of Churches, told American churchmen today that Christians "must be social reformers" and they should be critical of capitalism in order to better it.

But, he said, Christian churches are not Communist and Christians "will never accept the unquestioning obedience to the state and its propaganda line, or close their eyes to ruthless methods."

Taft, addressing the conference of the United States member churches of the World Council of Churches, defended a resolution passed at last year's Amsterdam meeting of the world council, condemning communism and "laissez faire" capitalism.

"The sensitiveness of the critics of Amsterdam is just like the sensitiveness of many citizens who face a political reform," he said. "They tell you not to run down your home town.

"Bunk! I am for the two-party system, and I am Republican, but don't tell me that you have to have corrupt local parties in order to win national elections. Neither is it necessary to stand for evils in capitalism, just because you think, as I do, that the modified, regulated capitalist enterprise system is the best yet devised."

Student Talk In Honolulu Jolts Senator

By The Associated Press

Senator McCarran (D., Nev.) told the Senate yesterday that the Communists have "a very large, very efficient, and very effective" organization in Hawaii.

He said he was "shocked" by a speech delivered by a Japanese-American high school student in Honolulu in a tryout for a speech contest sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

He identified the student as Frances Tsushima and said a copy of the speech came to him from Gov. Ingram M. Stainback of Hawaii.

"When the high schools of an American community—and Honolulu is an American community—can turn out students who think as this student obviously thinks, who believes as this student obviously believes, it is an extremely dangerous situation," McCarran said.

He called the speech "evidence of the effectiveness" of the Communist organization in Hawaii.

An excerpt from the speech:

"The Communist party is a democratic American party. Its members decide on all policies of the organization and elect their leaders through regular conventions of the party as provided for in the Constitution. It takes no orders from any country and every member in America owes allegiance to one Nation — the United States of America. Believe it or not. . . .

"The Communist party in Hawaii vainly believes that Hawaii should be granted Statehood. They know as well as you do that the capitalists are the ones who are against Statehood for they seek to gain bigger profits and to monopolize all businesses. . . ."

State Official to Speak

Francis Russell, director of the State Department's Office of Public Affairs, will speak on "The German Problem" at a meeting of the foreign policy study group of the Montgomery County League of Voters at 10 a. m. today. PENSION—From Page 1 billion dollars in 50 years, opponents said.

House Alters Pension Stand

Modifications Offered

Modifications, supported by the leadership, would confine payments to veterans of World War I only, and then only on a showing of need.

The modification drive started before the House recessed. By a voice vote the House adopted an amendment by Representative Hinshaw (R., Calif.), confining payments to veterans who have received an honorable discharge. The Rankin bill would have made payments to those who were discharged "under conditions other than dishonorable." This would include veterans in the cloudy "blue discharge" class, who had never been honorably discharged.

Although neither party in the House took a formal "policy" position on the bill, more than half of the Democrats voted on the first roll call to send it back to committee. Republicans lined up more than two to one against the motion.

Vote by Parties

Here is how the members voted partywise on the motion to recommit: For recommittal: 134 Democrats and 53 Republicans. Against recommittal: 115 Democrats, 107 Republicans and 1 American Labor.

But when the record vote came on striking out the enacting clause, thus killing the bill, both parties voted overwhelmingly against it. The division on this vote: For the motion: 88 Democrats and 32 Republicans. Against: 162 Democrats, 128 Republicans and one American Labor.

Leaders of both parties kept out of the debate and failed to show their hand until the voting started. Then Democratic leaders voted to sidetrack the measure and Republican leaders voted the other way.

A substitute bill, to be offered today by Representative Huber (D., Ohio), may get leadership support if it is modified.

Schedule Graduated

This confines payments to World War I veterans who can show need. But the Huber substitute carries a graduated schedule of non-service-connected disability pensions for World War I veterans of all ages that the Administration hopes to eliminate. These would raise the initial cost of the measure to about what the Rankin bill would have cost at the start of the program. Whereas Rankin bill costs would climb over the years, Huber said, the cost of his measure would taper off.

Huber told the House that pension payments to needy former veterans of World War I could be justified but there is "no valid or compelling reason" to include younger veterans at this time.

During the angry debate, Representative Coudert (R., N. Y.) said it was his understanding World War I veterans gave up their rights to pensions when the bonus bill was passed and that the GI bill of rights for World War II veterans was a substitute for pensions. Rankin denied this was so.

Two Veterans Criticize It

Two decorated World War II veterans were among the sharpest House critics of the Rankin measure.

Representative Kennedy (D., Mass.), who received the Purple Heart, called it a "grab."

And Representative Glen R. Davis (R., Wis.), who holds nine World War II battle stars, said Rankin's bill "speaks a false philosophy for the veteran—a philosophy of give them money and then forget them."

Davis said the bill "seriously jeopardizes" the exisiting veterans' rehabilitation programs and won't benefit veterans in the long run.

Mass Pyramid Arrests 'Out' that 90 per cent of them had collapsed for such reasons.

Although virtually no District pyramid was complete and thus no winner could anticipate the $2048 he is supposed to receive for his $1, the clubs were still functioning.

Persons scheduled to receive payoffs showed the greatest interest in defying official edicts, but some others were still joining and even rejoining, convinced that their constitutional rights were being threatened.

Variations at Pentagon

At least two variations on the pyramid theme had appeared.

In the Pentagon, a two-hour pyramid functioned yesterday. Instead of contributing one dollar, giving a party three days later, and then waiting eight days to be paid off, the Pentagon pyramid worked this way:

In an elapsed time of less than two hours, a person collected one dollar from each of two friends and quickly paid the dollar to another person at the top of a five-man list. The Pentagon pyramid consisted of only three persons instead of 16; there were no parties; and the ladder consisted of five instead of eight persons. The theoretical payoff is $64.

School Pyramids Reported

In Alexandria, Va., Commonwealth's Attorney Howard W. Smith, who believes the clubs to be illegal, reported having heard of the following variation:

A person sells four lists of pyramiders to four people for $2 each. He keeps $2 to pay himself back the cost of the list he bought, and pays $6 to the man at the head of the ladder. There are no parties. Proponents claim the sale of the list of names is as legal as the sale of business address lists.

School children were reportedly involved in 10-cent pyramids, although school authorities denied knowledge of them.

In Fairfax County, Va., police were continuing an investigation of the clubs, but elsewhere in the District suburbs, law enforcement authorities announced their belief the clubs were illegal, but contemplated no investigation and no prosecution.

Senate Votes to Let Cities Control Rents

Ala.) subcommittee chairman, charged the Fulbright amendment would subject town government to severe pressures and wreck the system of local rent advisory boards.

Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) called for passage of the amendment on the ground that it put the Senate correctly on record as being in favor of local home rule.

Fulbright called his amendment a basis of compromise between the Senate and the House.

The amendment was the first major setback for Administration forces.

Earlier the Senate by a 53-28 vote rejected an amendment by Senator John W. Bricker (R., Ohio) aimed at scrapping the bill's authority for recontrol of rental areas already decontrolled. Bricker's amendment would also have halted the recontrol of permanent hotel apartments and trailer camps.

The Senate accepted two amendments by Senator Spessard Holland (D., Fla.).

One limited authority to restore rent ceilings to permanent hotel apartments only to cities of more than 2,500,000 population. Because New York has its own rent control law this virtually limited the action to Chicago.

Several technical perfecting amendments proposed by Banking Chairman Burnet Maybank (D., S. C.) were adopted without debate.

The Senate also accepted an amendment by Senator A. Willis Robertson (D., Va.) to remove any doubt that the measure would permit States having rent control laws to use them instead of Federal controls.

Immediately after adoption of the Fulbright amendment, Lucas announced the Senate will remain in session today until action on the bill is completed. Rent controls expire March 31, and the Administration is forcing the pace in order to get a new bill through before that date.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards yesterday slapped back at President Truman's charge that the real estate lobby is "the real enemy of the American home."

In a speech prepared for delivery to the Jackson, Miss., real estate board, NAREB President T. H. Maenner, Omaha, said the President's remarks "must mean the peace in a government barracks is now the Washington conception of the American home."

Baltimore to Be Ready With Local Control

Baltimore, March 22 (A.P.).—The Baltimore City Council unanimously adopted a resolution last night that city rent control regulations be immediately enacted in the event that Federal controls are discontinued.

Council Vice President William Mouth introduced the resolution.

Five Children Under 8 Left 46 Days in Shack

Bancroft, Ontario., March 22 (A.P.). Five children, all under 8, were left by their parents in a backwoods shack for 46 days and lived mainly on rabbit and squirrel meat, police said today.

The shack was described as "not fit for animals."

The father, Allen Turncliffe, 26, is scheduled to appear in court Wednesday to face a charge of non-support. The mother is in a hospital at Belleville with her sixth child, born 10 days ago.

A Change is in Order...

Change to OIL-PLATING!
AHHH! . . . . Now's the time to drain out that tired old winter oil and change to easy-running summer-grade Conoco Nth Motor Oil — and an OIL-PLATED engine.
STAYS UP! . . . because an exclusive additive in Conoco Nth fastens a shield of lubricant right to cylinder walls. This OIL-PLATING can't all drain down, even overnight.
A BARGAIN! . . . because Conoco Nth Motor Oil stands up under hard driving in summer heat. You'll need fewer quarts between drains.

Drink Dispensers See Later Closing

Representatives of labor and management in the dispensing of alcoholic beverages in the District yesterday agreed to campaign for an extension of Saturday night drinking hours.

They decided to withhold any drive for later drinking hours weekdays to concentrate on a law permitting bars to serve drinks until 2 a. m. Sundays.

At a meeting called yesterday in the Chicken Hut, 427 11th st. nw., the group also voted to support the McGrath bill for increased Federal grants to the District in lieu of a sales tax, increased liquor taxes, or added excise taxes.

Tht meeting was called by Philip Guarino, president of the Washington Restaurant Beverage Association. In attendance were some 20 representatives of the Washington Hotel Association, beer and liquor distributors of Washington, the Associated Tavernowners of America, and various locals of bartenders, and waiters unions.

Aguinaldo 80 Years Old

Manila, March 22 (AP) — Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, leader of the Philippine revolt against Spain and the unsuccessful insurrection against the United States 50 years ago, observed his 80th birthday today. He is almost fully recovered from a nervous disorder which sent him to a hospital.

Ashton Going To W. Virginia

George L. Ashton, 20, one of two men, charged with a B. & O. train robbery in West Virginia March 9, yesterday was ordered removed from Washington to Fairmont, W. Va., to face trial.

His companion, Luman Ramsdell, 23, is scheduled for arraignment before United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence this morning. Ramsdell has been recovering in Gallinger Hospital after being shot when arrested.

The defendants, both of whom come from Youngstown, Ohio, were apprehended here the next day. They are charged in the Federal court of West Virginia with violation of the "anti-racketeering" act.

It was learned that West Virginia State authorities have charged Ashton and Ramsdell with armed robbery and with wounding a victim during a robbery. According to Assistant United States Attorney William Hitz, the crimes can result in life imprisonment.

Missing Sister of Slain Girl Is Now Also Feared Dead

Milwaukee, Wis., March 22 (U.P.). Kathleen Birmingham, 18, missing since March 17, may have suffered the fate of her sister, Patricia, 16, who was shot and thrown into the Milwaukee River, police said today.

They broadcast a Nation-wide alarm for the girl and for Milton Babich, 19, with whom she was first believed to have eloped. Police had accepted the elopement as authentic until today when, for an undisclosed reason, Capt. Adolph Kraemer announced: "I am definitely worried that something has happened to Patricia's sister."

Patricia's body was recovered from the river Sunday. She had been killed by two bullets in the brain and a concrete block tied to her ankles. She had been missing since February 10.

Kraemer was giving lie-detector tests to two high school boys who knew the slain girl.

UP Signs New Contract With Guild; Pay Hiked

New York, March 22 (U.P.).—The United Press and the American Newspaper Guild today signed a new contract, which runs from March 1, 1949, until Feb. 28, 1950.

The contract, based on recommendations by J. R. Mandelbaum of the United States Mediation and Conciliation Service, provides increases in wages, but does not include the "job security" clause for "just and sufficient cause," that the guild demanded, and which would be subject to arbitration. In this clause the guild had asked that there be no dismissals except which the management rejected.

Voters Confused By Health Plan

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., March 22.—What does the term "socialized medicine" mean to the average person?

The phrase is widely used by the medical profession to designate the proposed Government health program, although Government officials say that the program is not socialized medicine but medical or health insurance.

Four out of every ten voters questioned by the American Institute of Public Opinion say they do not know what the phrase socialized medicine means. To the rest it seems to have a wide variety of meanings.

Some say it means that the Government would control and supervise medical care, others describe it as a medical pay-as-you-go plan, like Social Security. Others say it would mean that everyone is cared for—that medical treatment would be the same for the poor and the rich.

Today's survey is one of a series started by the institute to test public reaction to the medical program idea and to find out how much the public knows about the problems involved.

One person questioned in Cincinnati in today's survey said that socialized medicine means "medicine for social diseases." A voter in Spring Valley, Ill., said it means that "Government will take over medicine and make doctors behave with their high prices."

The total replies in the survey fell into the following categories:

"Will you tell me what the term 'socialized medicine' means to you?"

Government control, supervision of medical care	23%
Government payment of medical services	9
Everyone will be cared for, medical treatment for all	8
Medical pay-as-you-go, like social security	7
Doctors controlled by Government	6
Vague definitions	4
Crack-pot plan for health	2
Miscellaneous	1
Don't know	41

Some gave more than one answer; hence the table totals more than 100 per cent.

The Government plan under discussion would give the Federal Government the right to deduct a certain amount from each employed person's wage or salary for medical insurance, the amount to be matched by the employer. The cost of all medical care would then be paid by the Government.

The plan is opposed by the American Medical Association on the grounds that private voluntary programs, rather than a compulsory Government program, are preferable.

Danish Opinion Trends Toward Atlantic Pact

A sharp shift of public sentiment in Denmark toward the Atlantic Pact has been found by the Danish Institute of Public Opinion.

In early February sentiment was about evenly divided among those expressing an opinion. In March the number in favor of joining the pact showed a substantial rise, as the following table indicates:

"What do you prefer: that Denmark stick to a policy of neutrality like Sweden, or should Denmark follow Norway in joining the Atlantic Alliance?"

	Feb.	Mar.
Neutrality	36%	26%
Follow Norway	36	47
No Opinion	28	27

I HATE DANDRUFF!
To get real relief, you must destroy the cause—which ordinary preparations that merely remove loose dandruff can't do!

Double DANDERINE GUARANTEES DANDRUFF RELIEF
Kills dandruff-causing germ—on contact!*

Double Danderine is so effective that even in some of the most severe cases, results with it have been remarkable!

There's no reason to let dandruff spoil your appearance, drive people away from you. As thousands have discovered, getting real relief is as simple as using Double Danderine. For this amazing product is totally unlike ordinary preparations that simply remove loose dandruff—which you can do with plain water and brushing.

Double Danderine really works because it kills—and kills on contact—the germ which leading authorities say is the cause of the most common kind of dandruff. And only by destroying this germ can you get effective relief!

That's why we say Double Danderine guarantees dandruff relief. Try it. If you're not completely satisfied, return the empty bottle and your money will be refunded.

Clague Forecasts 60 Million Workers This Summer

By The Associated Press

Ewan Clague, top Government employment expert has estimated that employment should reach 60,000,000 again this summer but warned there will be "quite a recession" if it doesn't.

He issued his forecast to a news conference on the heels of another prediction of Federal Reserve Board economists that unemployment may reach 3,715,000 later this month. But they also said employment should pick up this summer.

Clague, chief of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, reported that average hours worked and average weekly earnings both were down in February. He said the average worker received $54.25 a week, indicating that income is "holding up pretty well."

Laborite Admits Eating Illegal Bacon

London, March 22 (U.P.).—Food Minister John Strachey admitted under questioning today that he and other high-ranking government officials may have eaten illegal bacon during a recent Labor Party conference on the Isle of Wight.

Questioned by Conservative members about an issue of eight weeks' bacon ration for the weekend meeting, he replied: "I understood that the food control committee have instructed a solicitor with a view to prosecution."

Corcoran Set For Crowds And Disputes

By Lee Grove
Post Reporter

There was an air of well-bred excitement at the usually serene 80-year-old Corcoran Gallery of Art yesterday.

Preparing for the opening this weekend of the often-controversial Biennial Exhibition of Contemporary American Oil Paintings, staff members were experiencing an emotion like that of a theater company on the verge of a first night.

Would the twenty-first biennial, which is expected to attract some 3000 invited guests Saturday night and be open to the public Sunday, be a success, and just what is a success? Would it attract brickbats as well as bouquets, as it often has done in the past?

Almost Always Excited

"People are almost always excited about it," said Hermann Warner Williams, jr., director of the gallery, speaking of the show that is one of the most important periodic exhibits of contemporary American art.

"It is hard to tell before the event if there is going to be any controversy, but when you are dealing with contemporary art there are always some tendencies unacceptable to some part of the public," Williams said.

He noted, however, that there were only two paintings shown that are wholly surrealist, and said that in organizing the show hardly any pictures were seen that would fall in that category.

"The majority of the paintings this time lie between the academic," he said, "and the surrealist and abstract."

"Little Outstanding Realism"

Artist Mitchell Jamieson, one of the jurors, said it appeared that abstraction and surrealism had ceased to be an end themselves and that artists were adapting them to their own purposes. "But the thing that stood out," he said, "was that there was so little outstanding realism."

Only 187 paintings were chosen for hanging this year, half as many as were exhibited at the last biennial. They were chosen from about 3000 canvases submitted.

"There are so few this time," Jamieson said, "because the jury felt that there were not enough of quality, by and large. I feel that in all honesty we did the best we could."

The biennials were first proposed in 1906 with the thought that they would be "beneficial to the contributing artists" and "instructive and interesting to art lovers."

Commenting on the proposal at that time, American Art News said: "Who can say what effect these exhibitions may also have upon those Congressmen and Senators who come from localities where art is seldom discussed and where opportunities for seeing fine pictures are unknown?"

That first biennial seems to have aroused little controversy, but in 1909 there were allegations that "the system of prize awards, as now applied, gives rise to class selfishness."

Corcoran Gallery officials do not recall a single instance when the public's choice has agreed with the jury's selection. But 21,590 persons visited the last biennial.

Anderson 'Medea' Shows No Wear

By Richard L. Coe

OFF THE CUFF: Baltimore, biggest little city near this industry of Government, host this week to the Metropolitan Opera AND Judith Anderson's "Medea" . . . The Lyric sold out for both "Otello" and "Figaro," which closed the brief "season" last night . . . Ford's lost a few regulars to the Lyric, but the rest of the week for "Medea" finds a virtually clean ticket rack, except for a few this afternoon . . . Miss Anderson's "Medea" a memorable evening . . . After the splash it created last season in New York (where I missed it), it's interesting to see how carrot-topped Judith has settled down to playing a taxing role on a Nation-wide tour . . . During its opening weeks everyone marveled how the star could perform such demanding vocal chores, not to mention emotional didoes, night after night . . . The question was: "How long can she keep it up?" . . . The answer seems to be, "Indefinitely" . . . For Miss Anderson is an actress of skilled technique, and I dare say she does the role in much the same way night after night . . . The story of the vengeful Cholchin princess who destroys her rival and her own children to gloat over her husband's misery is potent drama . . . But the Anderson technique is equal to the role, which Robinson Jeffers wrote for her, dedicated to her . . . Her command of the role, after several hundred performances, lies in her sturdy fundamental technique . . . I was surprised to find none of chills-in-the-back I get from the "great" performances, but not disappointed, for one can admire this performance without being swept away by it . . . Miss Anderson's accent is on Medea's barbaric quality, her walk, her movements, her voice and her tumbling speech all forming a savage, untamed figure.

NEW YORK, by phone and mail, is interested in tonight's meeting concerning the Belasco Theater project at the Natural History Building of the Smithsonian, Constitution ave. and 10th st. nw . . . The purpose of this meeting, as I see it, is solely to put the residents of the National Capital on record as wanting a live theater . . . What the chances are for the Celler bill to pass, no one really knows . . . Don't be too optimistic; things like this take a long time and a good deal of careful spade work . . . But the interest in the meeting may prove to the New York theater chiefs that Washingtonians accept the facts as they are and are prepared to proceed from the situation as it exists.

FROM ATHENS comes greetings from Tony Muto, the 20th Century Fox Movietone newsman: "The other night I was sitting in Washington minding my own business and two days later I find myself getting out of a plane at the Hassani Airport in Athens. Oh, well . . ." . . . Tony, I don't quite believe you . . . Something Kolossal must be about to happen in Greece, which we'll soon see on the F st. screens.

FROM BOSTON comes a friend's program of "South Pacific," the Rodgers-Hammerstein musical adapted from James Michener's "Tales of the South Pacific" which you probably read in The Washington Post . . . The raves on this one are something wild; the Gotham advance sale is touching $400,000 and probably will hit the half-million mark before its opening there at the Majestic April 7, a record in advance sales . . . Mary Martin's creating a stir by washing her hair on stage each of the week's eight performances to the tune of "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Outta My Hair" . . . R. & H. are sentimentalists: their latest successor to their "Oklahoma!" opened on the latter's birthday at the same theater, with the National company playing nearby at the Colonial . . . The New York "Okies," by the way, are next week's visitors to Ford's, Baltimore.

THE RIVERSIDE STADIUM hits the spotlight tonight with a 200-skater "Roller Revue" benefiting the Washington Heart Association's drive for funds to fight heart disease . . . Curtain time: 9 o'clock.

THE AMERICAN Veterans Committee, to its surprise, has a hit shown on its hands with "Sticks and Stones." . . . This is the political revenue which was to play only a couple of performances; now three more have been added for the small playroom at 1751 New Hampshire ave. Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights . . . Congressional bigwags were more than enthused over their satirical counterparts and a New York date has been arranged for sometime in April.

Maryland Senate Kills, 17-11, Bill to Lift Court Press Gag

Annapolis, Md., March 22 (AP).—A bill to prevent courts from adopting or keeping rules tending to restrict press freedom was defeated today by the Maryland Senate.

The Senate overrode a favorable report of its judiciary committee and rejected the legislation by a 17-11 vote.

Senator Stromberg (D., Howard), publisher of a chain of weekly newspapers, sponsored the free press bill after the Maryland Press Association went on record in opposition to the suggested widening of rule 904 of the supreme bench of Baltimore to include the State as a whole.

Rule 904 states, among other things, that newspapers may not publish statements made by an accused person in a criminal case after his arrest.

In urging passage of his bill, Stromberg declared:

"It has only one purpose—to tell the people of Maryland that their representatives in the General Assembly will not sit idly by while fundamental liberties are being undermined.

Senate President Byrnes (D., Balto. 4th) left the rostrum to take a leading part in the opposition to the measure. He said rule 904 "is not an abridgement of the freedom of the press.

"It was designed to protect the lowly, the poor, the rights of an individual to a fair and impartial trial."

He spoke of "trial by newspaper," and said it constitutes a "mockery of justice."

Senator Turnbull (D., Balto. County), said freedom of the press is already "amply guaranteed" by the Constitutions of the United States and of Maryland.

Legislators Felicitate 3 Fellow Delegates

Annapolis, Md., March 22 (Spl.).—Weary legislators of the General Assembly—faced with a mountain of weighty bills still to be considered—passed for a sentimental sigh today.

The House of Delegates unanimously said "aye" to a resolution to welcome spring and wish a happy birthday to a Prince Georges County delegate and two Montgomery County delegates whose birthdays fell on March 21—the first day of spring.

House Unit Would Cut Budget by $3,541,832

Annapolis, Md. (AP).—A House group led by Delegate Bandiere (D., Balto. 5th) proposed today the paring of $3,541,832 from the pending State budget.

Bandiere has been chairman of a House Ways and Means subcommittee charged with the job of seeking reductions in the 1950 budget, which at present calls for spending $174,140,029 on governmental operations and on construction.

The subcommittee proposed reduction of $2,616,632 from the operating budget and $925,000 from the capital improvements total.

ways from the sales tax bill that the House overrode 176 to 166 last week so that it will be eligible for a new House test.

2. A 50 per cent increase in present District liquor license fees, but no boost in liquor gallonage taxes. Liquor would be subject to the sales tax.

3. The 15-cent hike in the property tax rate.

4. A cut from $10 000 to $5000 in the District unincorporated business tax exemption effective on this year's income.

5. A hike in the basic personal income tax exemption from $1000 to $4000, effective on income received after next December 31.

6. A 2 per cent tax on the fair market value of automobiles paid for the issuance of title certificates.

District officials estimated the bill would increase city revenue about 18 million dollars a year.

Main alternative to the Smith bill was presented to the House in six identical bills by the anti-sales-tax bloc in the House District Committee. Their bills call for using the personal income tax as the main vehicle for delivering big loads of new revenue to the District. The bills also propose the 25-cent increase in the property tax rate, and the outright repeal of the present tax on unincorporated businesses.

Personaly income tax changes proposed by the six bills call for applying the levy to all persons residing in the District more than seven months in the year, as well as to those domiciled here who now pay. They call for an approximate doubling of present income tax rates.

The income tax revision and 25-cent property tax increase bills were introduced by Representatives John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.), Arthur G. Klein (D., N. Y.), Walter K. Granger (D., Utah), James H. Morrison (D., La.), George P. Miller (D., Calif.) and Frank Buchanan (D., Pa.).

It was the group that led last week's successful drive to defeat the sales tax bill then presented to the House.

Miller said the new Smith bill "looks like the same old sales tax with a little more sugar over it."

Smith called his measure "a fair compromise."

Backers of the Smith bill are counting on increased majority leadership support to help put the new bill across. They also claim some votes lined up from members who voted against the first sales tax bill, but are in a mood to support the second to permit pay raises for District employes.

As the day's eighth revenue bill, Representative Klein also introduced in the House the bill of Senate District Chairman J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.) calling for a one-year Federal payment to the District up to 30.6 million dollars. The payment is now 12 million.

The Smith sales tax bill would not apply the sales tax to newspaper, radio and television advertising.

Smith, citing another change, said: "We have changed the theory of the whole bill so as to impose a gross excise, or sales, tax which is intended to simplify the administration of the act by providing that the merchant, in accounting for the tax collected, shall pay on his gross receipts rather than on each individual sale."

One new exemption added to the bill covers crutches, wheel chairs, artificial limbs, eyes and hearing devices, false teeth, prescription eyeglasses and braces for crippled persons.

Three More Dairies Cut Milk Prices

Three more local dairies yesterday announced milk price cuts, joining four others who previously had announced reductions.

Wakefield Dairy cut regular home delivered milk from 21 to 20 cents a quart, effective yesterday, and the Highland Dairy said it will reduce its retail milk price through stores from 19 to 17 cents a quart beginning today.

A third firm, Model Farms Dairy, said yesterday it plans a definite 1-cent per quart reduction April 1 on home-delivered regular milk, which now sells for 21 cents. Earlier cuts are possible, P. D. Digges, firm president, said, if the independent producers who supply the company agree to them at a meeting scheduled for later this week.

So far all announced price cuts apply only in the District and Maryland.

Any Virginia reductions in producers' or retail prices must be approved by the Virginia State Milk Commission, which has scheduled a public hearing on proposed reductions for 2 p. m. March 29 at the Goerge Mason Hotel in Alexandria.

Herman A. Schulteis, vice president of the Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase Dairy, which distributes about 47 per cent of the area's milk supply, said yesterday that cuts by his company would come "just as quickly and simultaneously with" reductions made by its suppliers, the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association.

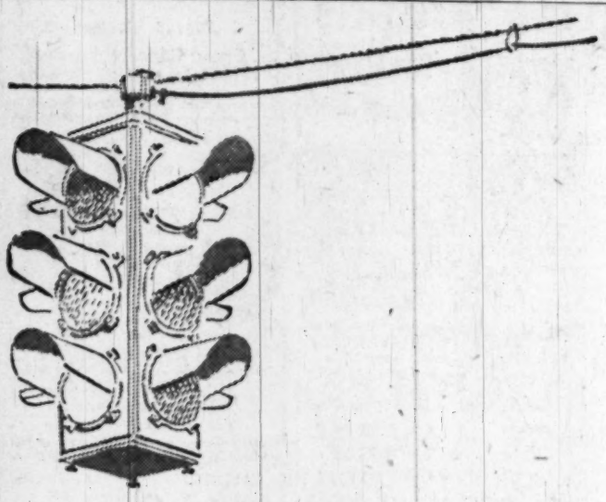
Its Only Master is the Person at Its Wheel!



White sidewall tires available at additional cost.

THE 1949 CADILLAC, powered by its great new V-type, high-compression engine—knows no counterpart for over-all brilliance of performance.

From the standpoint of agility, smoothness and quickness of acceleration—it is a never-ending challenge to the imagination. Yet, in the hands of the person at its wheel, the 1949 Cadillac is as docile as a kitten.

Never before has a car so dynamic been under such certain and easy control. The big, powerful hydraulic brakes are completely dominant—yet they are as soft to the pedal as sponge rubber. A touch from the daintiest foot—and the car settles down to a quick and easy stop. A touch on the accelerator, and it moves quickly into any position its driver wishes to occupy. The big, slender steering wheel is feather-light in the hand—and quick and positive in its action.

Yes, the driver is boss in a Cadillac—and his word is unquestioned.

It's a great thrill to take command of such a car—as hundreds are learning every day. Why not come in and see for yourself? Regardless of the price class from which you expect your next car to come, you ought to be familiar with Cadillac. It is the final yardstick for measuring motor cars.

My Story . . . By Joe Louis

Joe Meets Roxborough, Launches Pro Career

ONE Saturday I got home from the gym and my music teacher was there. He told my mother I was skipping lessons. She wanted to see my lesson punch card, but I had torn it and thrown it away, and I came right out and told her so. I said I wanted to be a fighter not a fiddler. The teacher helped me. He said I never would do much with a violin. My mother didn't take on about it. She always said if any of us Barrows wanted to be something in the world, she'd work to see we got it, like the time she sent my sister Eulalia to special school in Birmingham, only nothing ever came of that.

I got my application for the Golden Gloves, but I didn't fill it out. One day when I come home from work my mother fetched it out of the dining-room lamp bowl, where I'd dropped it. She said, "Joe, don't you want to do something with this?" I filled it out and sent it in, and that's how I got started.

My mother let me keep on training and around November, 1932, or early 1933, I got my first amateur bout. It was a stag in the Edison Athletic Club. I weighed around 168 then, and they stacked me against Johnny Miler, a white boy. He had been a fighter for years and I was new at it. He held a couple of amateur titles and he had fought in the Olympics out in Los Angeles. I never got in a solid punch against him. He knocked me down seven times in two rounds, more than any one ever did after that. He mussed me up pretty bad. Going home that night I was sore all over, and low. I got a merchandise check for $7 out of the fight. I gave that to my mother.

SHE stuck up for me. She told me, "Joe, if you want to keep on with boxing, you keep on with it." She said, "If that's what you want to work at, I'll work for you to get it," but my stepfather didn't think I would ever get to be anybody in boxing. He held out for me to get factory work.

He was nice about it. His talk was just father talk, but my mother had to hold by it. I got a job in "B" Building in the Ford plant in River Rouge. I stayed away from the ring six or seven months. Then I put in for the Golden Gloves, in the novice division. My mother said it would be all right. I'm still on leave from Building "B." I saw Henry Ford II a few weeks ago and reminded him I never really quit at Ford's. My work card is still there.

Holman Williams trained me in Brewster gym. He was a Negro middleweight, a good one. He made pretty good money then.

HE lives in Chicago. When he was busy training other kids I would go off by myself and study my form in the gym mirrors when I worked at the punching bag, like he told me. I remember oneday I put on the gloves at Brewster with a kid named Ken Offlin, a flyweight.

He weighed only 118 and I was around 169, but when he got through with me I thought he was champion of the world. He whipped me good. Too fast for me. I couldn't hardly touch him.

It didn't come easy, but I got better as I went along. I still got merchandise checks for fights, and I did like other amateurs—I would take out only part of it in merchandise and get the rest in cash. I took the cash home to my mother. Holman Williams and other men around Brewster Center kept telling me I would make a good fighter, just to keep at it. I trained hard, and they sent me against a boy named Thomas in the Forest A. C. in Detroit. I took him with two punches. That was my first knockout. All told I had 43 knockouts on my record in the two years I was in amateurs. I won seven fights on decisions and lost four.

ALL this while I fought with secondhand stuff. I used my hand bandage over and over, in different fights, because I didn't have money to buy new bandage every time. I didn't have real fighting shoes. I used old tennis sneakers. Another thing, I wasn't eating right. I didn't know the right things, and even if I did the Barrows couldn't count on steaks and chops.

That's what a heavy needs, but they cost too much. Mostly I lived on frankfurters. I liked them. I loved ice cream, too, but it wasn't good for a fighter. I went along like that until Mr. Roxborough took me in. That came later.

I kept on training and winning little amateur merchandise checks and little medals until I came against Max Marek. He was a Notre Dame football player.

THAT was my toughest fight, I think, that year. It was in the National A. A. U light-heavyweight title fights. I won all the other fights easy and then I met him for the championship. I thought I kept pretty even with him, until the third round. Then he outboxed me. He got the decision.

That year I won the light-heavyweight title in the Golden Gloves novice class. George Moody, who ran the Detroit Amateur Club, was my trainer then. He arranged for me to take on a boy, Stanley Evans, but Evans had too much for me. He knew more. He took me on a decision, but he was the last, amateur or professional, to beat me until Max Schmeling knocked me out in our first fight, in 1936.

I FOUGHT Stanley Evans again in the Detroit Golden Gloves early in 1934. I didn't knock him out, but I got in a lot more solid punches than he did in every round, and I won the title. George Moody and Mr. Roxborough met me after that bout, and Mr. Roxborough said if I would work hard at training and live clean he would help me. He was interested in young Negro fighters. He was a big shot in the Young Negroes Progressive Association and in the Urban League.

Mr. Roxborough found out that the day I lost the first fight with Evans I ate a hot dog and one slab of apple pie.

He told me if I wanted to get real serious about boxing he would take me into his own house. He said he would feed me right and buy my clothes, but I would have to break away from staying out late nights with the Catherine Street gang and get to bed early, like a fighter should. Us Barrows were on relief then and it was depression, and no jobs around. My mother and my stepfather let me go to live at Mr. Roxborough's.

He treated me real good. I got to wear some of Mr. Roxborough's clothes, made over, and I had my meals with Mr. Roxborough. He kept me in pocket money—$5 and $6 a week. He bought me fresh bandages for my amateur fights and got me good fighting shoes and nice trunks.

Wilhelmina Morris, who later on married Mr. Roxborough, got me a terrycloth robe to wear in the ring. I still got that robe. It's torn and nearly worn out, but I keep it for good luck. That's my training robe. I got to feeling fine and I kept on winning most of my fights by knockouts. Mr. Roxborough never cut in on my prize money, and he never touched any of my professional money until it got up to be real big.

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

ORLANDO, FLA., March 22.—You would hardly call Rick Ferrell the loquacious type, but the day did come when he wished he had kept his mouth shut, even as you and I. It was a June day in 1934 and he was catching for the Red Sox at Philadelphia and the A's had the bases loaded with two out in the eighth, and the Red Sox were getting a new pitcher.

The fellow who came out of the Boston bullpen was somewhat familiar to Rick Ferrell because it was his brother, Wes, making his debut as a Red Sox pitcher. But the man on the spot was catcher Rick, not brother Wes.

POVICH

"A couple of days before," relates Rick, "Mr. Yawkey called me in. He was traveling with the Red Sox and told me he had a chance to buy Wes from Cleveland. He asked me about his arm, and whether I thought he could help the Red Sox.

"I told him to grab Wes quick, even if it cost him a lot of money. Wes was holding out for an $18,000 salary from the Indians, and refusing to report.

"'I caught him last spring before I went to the Red Sox camp and Wes was knocking the mitt off my hand with his speed,' I told Mr. Yawkey."

SO, SAID RICK, the Red Sox gambled on a big price for Wes and agreed to pay him $18,000 salary, which in that era was the equivalent of today's fifty grand. On his say-so that Wes' arm had come back, Yawkey closed the deal and brought the pitcher in from Greensboro, N. C.

"That day in Philadelphia, I thought it was going to be just a matter of minutes before Mr. Yawkey fired us both," recited Rick. "Wes started throwing his six warm-up pitches, and the ball didn't have enough on it to break out of a cellophane wrapper. God knows what had happened to that fast ball he showed me in Greensboro during the winter, but I swear I could throw the ball back to him left-handed with more stuff than he was throwing to me.

"Eric McNair was up, and here comes Wes' first pitch, and it looked fat as a balloon and I say to myself, 'here's where we both get canned,' and then we got lucky. McNair popped it straight up over the plate and I took it for the third out and we were out of the inning. Wes shut 'em out in the ninth and we kept our lead."

WES FERRELL never did regain the fast ball that made him the scourge of the league when he first came up to the Indians and won more than 20 games in his first two rookie years. "But he could throw more junk up to the plate than any man I ever caught," said Rick.

"He threw slow curves, and slower ones, and dipsy-doodles and knucklers and gave them nothing good to hit and wound up winning 14 and losing 5 in the last four months of the season."

The next season Wes won 25 with his slow stuff and control, and then he won 20 in 1936, and in 1937 the brother battery was traded to Washington in a swap for Buck Newsom, Ben Chapman and Mel Almada. And Washington fans got a good close look at the only brother battery in the majors.

They could have been everything but brothers. Rick was short, Wes was tall. Rick was bald, Wes was wavy haired and the matinee-idol type. Rick was quiet and soft spoken, Wes was loud and temperamental. Rick took the club's defeats philosophically, Wes went into tantrums.

FINGER BY FINGER, Wes would tear up his pitching glove in a rage if he was knocked out of the box. He kicked over more water buckets than any man of his time. "But people mistook him as a sore loser," apologized Rick. "He never got mad at anybody but himself."

That latter statement isn't quite true, because he once got mad at the Washington club for refusing to pay the players' taxi fares to and from the Detroit park, and called it "a cheap outfit." Whereupon Clark Griffith fired him immediately.

And once upon a time he got mad at an inanimate thing—his wrist watch. Knocked out of a game in the fourth inning at Griffith Stadium, he came out of the showers, started to dress and noted his watch had stopped. Whereupon he flung his watch to the floor. A clubhouse boy started to retrieve it and Wes shouted, "leave that thing lie. This will be the last time that thing will ever stop on me while I'm pitching," and he walked over to the timepiece and jumped on it with both heels, a neat trick.

Rochester Wins Playoff Opener, 93-64

Rochester, N. Y., March 22 (AP).—The Rochester Royals defeated the St. Louis Bombers tonight, 93-64, in the first game of their Basketball Association of America playoffs.

Bob Davies led the Royal attack with 23 points as the western division champs enjoyed their hottest shooting night of the season.

Baseball Unafraid, Chandler Claims

Tampa, Fla., March 22 (AP).—Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler tonight said he was "deeply concerned but not afraid" of the court threat to the national game as he called upon baseball's friend to come to its support.

"Baseball does not want to engage in an illegal enterprise," said Chandler in reference to pending law suits, testing the legality of the game's reserve clause. He spoke at the third annual Governor's Dinner to visiting baseball officials, writers and radio sportscasters.

Lacy Needs 17 For Record

Denver, March 22 (AP).—Jim Lacy moved within 16 points of the all-time college basketball scoring record tonight as Loyola of Baltimore defeated St. Ambrose of Davenport, Iowa, 75-58, in the first round of the National Catholic Tournament.

Lacy hit 24 points for Loyola to run his four-year college total to 2,145.

Lacy, drafted yesterday by the pro Washington Caps, needs 17 points in later tournament games to exceed the mark of Brooms Abramovick of Salem, W. Va., College.

Face Philly Minus Stars

Caps Prayerfully Prepare For First Playoff Tonight

By Bill Ahlberg
Post Reporter

Tonight is a busy night for the Washington Caps.

Their minds will be on playoffs, possibilities and prayers.

The division champion Caps journey to Philadelphia where they open the Eastern part of the Association's playoffs against Joe Fulks and the fourth-place Warriors.

They begin the grind without the service of two of their brightest stars—Bob Feerick and Fred Scolari—with the possibility that if they can squeeze by Philadelphia the pair could get back into action in the later series.

That's what the team is praying for—to get by the ever dangerous Warriors.

At that, things don't look too bad for the Caps.

Despite the scoring of Fulks, the Caps have always had a rather easy time with the Warriors. They've beaten them four out of six this year and hold an over-all record of 13 victors and 5 losses over Philadelphia since the league began.

The absence of Feerick and Scolari have made the Caps about 9-point underdogs according to the experts, but the team doesn't feel that way at all.

The three big guys, Jack Nichols, Bones McKinney, and Kleggie Hermsen, with assists from Johnny Norlander, Sonny Hertzberg and the rest of the crew figure they are still better than the Warriors.

Of the two injured stars, Scolari has the better chance to get into playoff action.

Feerick, who injured his knee against Minneapolis Wednesday night, has removed the cast but is still walking around with the aid of crutches. That's the doctor's idea. The knee is still stiff and will take a lot of easy exercise and

WWDC Broadcasts Cap Playoff Game

Tonight's Caps-Warriors playoff opener will be broadcast from Philadelphia over WWDC, 1450 on the dial, at 10 p. m. Ray Morgan will be at the microphone.

For the Washingtonians who want to see the game first hand, a special train is leaving Union Station at 5 p. m., and will return immediately after the game. Round trip transportation and a $2.60 ticket to the game are available for $10.10. For further details, call Uline Arena Manager Paul Rothgeb at FRanklin 5800.

Maglie Files $333,333 Suit

New York, March 22 (AP).—Organized baseball gained a one-day respite in its legal battle with Mexican League jumpers today, but during the lull former New York Giant Sal Maglie announced he will join the suit and Attorney John Flynn promised "still more will be added later on."

Flynn, who already is representing Max Lanier and Fred Martin, two former St. Louis Cardinal pitchers, in their $2,500,000 damage suit against baseball, said Maglie officially will be added to the list of plaintiffs tomorrow with a one-million-dollar claim before Judge Edward A. Conger in Federal Court.

Flyn said Maglie, now operating a filling station at Lockport, N. Y., would sue for $333,333.33 and seek triple damages under the anti-trust laws if the court approves the motion.

Judge Conger was scheduled to hear final arguments today in the Lanier-Martin appeal for an injunction ordering immediate reinstatement but he postponed them until 11 a. m. tomorrow. The pair are asking the court to order their reinstatement so that they can earn a living playing baseball pending the outcome of their damage suits.

At the same time the final arguments are to be made in the Lanier-Martin case, Attorney Fred Johnson is scheduled to ask before Judge Conger for a similar injunction for Danny Gardella, ex-New York Giant outfielder also under suspension. Gardella has filed a $300,000 damage suit.

Phils' President Tangles Verbally With McCarthy

Clearwater, Fla., March 22 (U.P.).—President Bob Carpenter of the Philadelphia Phillies and Mnager Joe McCarthy of the Boston Red Sox shouted defiant abuse at one another today in a verbal battle over the Sox lineup for an exhibition game here.

The Red Sox turned up for the game without most of their first stringers, such as Ted Williams and Dom Di Maggio, but Carpenter didn't discover it until right before game time.

Infuriated, he charged over to the Red Sox dugout, accompanied by Phils' publicity man Babe Alexander, and protested to McCarthy.

Snapped the Red Sox skipper, "I have been taking ball clubs to training camp for 18 years, and I have always taken whoever I wanted to on trips. I don't think I am going to be dictated to now."

"Why didn't you let us know you weren't bringing the men?" asked Carpenter.

A Red Sox chimed in, "Why didn't you telephone us and ask?"

To that, Carpenter snapped, "I can understand why they call you a push-button manager."

"Get the hell out of here . . ." McCarthy roared.

After the game Carpenter called for a rule that would require Major League teams to bring their star players to all spring training camp games.

He announced over the loud speaker system that admission would be refunded any fans disappointed because the Boston stars didn't appear. Only 25 of the 1723 tok him up. The Phils won the game 9-7.

Marshall Wins, Pat Thomas Forfeits in AAU

Light Heavyweight Eddie Marshall continued the successful defense of his championship and Lightweight Pat Thomas was forced to forfeit his title last night as the District AAU boxing tournament passed its quarterfinal round at Turner's Arena.

Marshall ran into a tough cookie in Tommy Harrison, the Army's Far Eastern champ, who is on furlough. But a last-minute two-fisted rally earned the defending titlist a split decision.

Thomas, whose left eyebrow was severely lacerated during last week's Golden Gloves in New York, heeded Dr. Leon Gordon's advice last night, and forfeited to Willie Davis of Apollo.

Two other favorites also forfeited. Welterweight Leon Daughtry, Golden Gloves champ, forfeited to Hal Shaw, because Daughtry must concentrate on his studies at Armstrong High. And Roland Randall, middleweight contender, forfeited because he's preparing for the National Golden Gloves tourney in Chicago Monday.

NOVICE CLASS (Quarter-Finals)

118 POUNDS—Dave Zimmerman (Police Boys Club) won by forfeit over Sam Davis (Apollo).

160 POUNDS—Damon Humes (Apollo) won by TKO over Nat Jamison (Alexandria Olympic) in 1:59 of first round; Charley Newman (Southwest Boys Club) outpointed Laurence Green (Southwest Boys Club).

SENIOR CLASS
(Quarter-Finals)

126 POUNDS—Dick Jiminez (Merrick) won by TKO over Hugh Lyons (St. Mary's) in 1:48 of second round.

135 POUNDS—Willie Davis (Apollo) won by forfeit over Pat Thomas (Merrick); Frank Tavenner (Georgetown Big Brothers) outpointed Bill McParland (Edwards).

175 POUNDS—Frank Cannata (Fort Myer) won by TKO over Edgar Smith (Police Boys Club) in third round; John Shields (Police Boys Club) won by forfeit over Phil Taylor (Merrick); Hezekiah Williams (unattached) outpointed Ralph Meador (unattached).

St. John's Triumphs In Amvets Basketball

St. John's eked out a 23-20 victory over Gonzaga as one feature of the AMVETS' Teen-Age Basketball Tournament at Coolidge High gym last night. In other games Region B, Recreation Department, downed Naylor Gardens, 45-30; Region A lost a 26-25 decision to Post No. 9, and Region C whipped 10th Precinct, 28-19.

Springfield Gymnasts Perform Here Tonight

The barnstorming Springfield College gymnastics team stages an exhibition at the Central High auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock.

The entertaining show is sponsored by the public schools' department of health, physical education and safety.

Quantico Routed

Honolulu, March 22 (AP).—Norfolk Fleet Air trounced the Quantico Marines, 75 to 65, last night in the All-Navy basketball tourney.

Cy Waldrop, Marine center, scored 20 points and Leroy Pasco, Norfolk guard, bucketed 19.

Kentucky Crushes Illini, 76-47, for Eastern Title

New York, March 22 (U.P.).—Kentucky blasted Illinois, 76 to 47, tonight to win the Eastern NCAA basketball championship and the right to play Oklahoma A&M Saturday for the national crown.

It was a case of back to form for Keutucky—a return to the polish and power which established this quintet the most feared team in the nation before it was suddenly licked by Loyola in the National Invitation Tournament last week.

Tonight, as a Madison Square Garden crowd of 15,126 looked on in admiring awe, the Kentuckians could do no wrong as they walloped Illinois in every phase of the game.

Kentucky took the lead after two and a half minutes of play, ran it up to 39-22 by half-time and then spent the last 20 minutes running up the count even more.

Groza Gets 27

Alex Groza, the big center, was the principal offensive weapon as usual with 27 points, mostly from under the basket where he is all but matchless. But this was no one-man show. In addition to Groza, there was gum-chomping Ralph Beard driving in for layups, fancy-flipping Jim Line with a left-handed shot that wouldn't miss and the cool floor mastery of Cliff Barker.

They all added up to a sweeping victory. Even more conspicuous than the actual final score was the change of the Kentucky team. It was shaken to its roots by the Loyola defeat, and it was still jittery when it overcame Villanova last night to earn a crack at this Illinois team.

But tonight the Wildcats were poised masters of the game. Their coach, Adolph Rupp, was his old self again. When he was under the shadow of defeat, Rupp sat glumly and qhietly on the bench. Tonight he was the old fighter again, leaping to his feet with outraged protests whenever an official's decision grated him.

Kentucky now goes to Seattle, Wash., to meet Oklahoma A & M Saturday and that's the last collegiate game for this crew.

Villanova won third place in the tournament by holding Yale's great Tony Lavelli to a single field goal, winning, 78-67.

Lavelli was held in check by his nearest rival in the National scoring race, Paul Arizin. The Yale hook shot artist wound up with eight points, six of them on free throws.

Nats Take 3d in Row, 8-7; Evans Homers

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Orlando, Fla., March 22.—The Nats soared to dizzy heights here today, winning their third straight exhibition contest. Al Evans helped contribute to the carnival air by larrupinb a 395-foot homer, first Nat homer of the year.

To tell the truth, though, the Washingtonians were none too impressive as they stumbled past Minneapolis, 8-7, in a loosely-played game.

In fact, they finally had to overcome a one-run deficit with a two-run rally in the last of the seventh and fend off a late threat by the Millers before they were home safely.

With Alex Konikowski pitching for Minneapolis, Sam Dente started off the bottom half of the seventh by walking. He went to third on a single by Catcher Len Okrie and tallied on Paul Calvert's infield roller.

Okrie then came in with the winning run, driven across by Rookie John Simmons' single.

Calvert allowed three hits and as many runs over the last five innings. He put two Millers on base in the ninth when he lost control but fanned the last man for his victory.

Calvert relieved Dick Weik who was plagued by wildness and some slovenly support as he was touched for four hits and four runs in four innings.

Millers Spotted 4

The Nats spotted the American Association Club four runs before Evans got their first hit—that was his four-base knock in the third.

Next inning they went to bat in earnest. Ten men were up and five runs tallied against John Uber. Successive singles by Ed Stewart and Eddie Yost started

Joe Gannon 'Writes Up' A Reporter

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

WHEN JOE GANNON was fighting in Washington, one of his biggest boosters was a certain local sports reporter who gave the young light heavyweight several nice write-ups. Gannon, now a District cop, returned the favor the other day by writing up the reporter—with a parking ticket . . . If Rochester wins the playoffs, it will mark the second straight year that a team has hit the BAA jackpot in its first year in the league. Baltimore did it last season. . . . Theft will be condoned for certain members of the Metropolitan Police Department soon. The cops are planning to have a baseball team again and will be asked to steal a few bases. . . . Their chief candidate for catcher is Motorcycle Officer Joe Slattery, one-time Detroit Tiger farmhand. . . . Middleweight Joe Blackwood's progress as a kayo artist is being retarded by a pair of brittle hands. When he injured them for the second straight time recently, Matchmaker Gabe Menendez explained: "His hands aren't brittle, he just hits too hard." . . .

TESTUDO, Maryland's peripatetic athletic mascot, has taken his last stroll. The 400-pound bronze turtle has been ordered cemented down to his pedestal in front of Richie Coliseum . . . College officials denied the action was taken to prevent a capricious student from bringing Testudo along as his pyramid club guest . . . Georgetown has a racketeer out for its football team and is proud of it. He's Don Kitkowski, 205-pound fullback who was all-State high school tennis champion in Wisconsin . . . With Fred Scolari and Bob Feerick out of the lineup, the Caps' scoring potential is reduced by 16 points. The two injured guards had a combined average of 23 points per game, but Matt Zunic and Dick Schulz, who'll sub for them, only have a 7-point per game average . . . Dutch Bergmann, manager of the National Guard Armory, reports that his plant would be glad to house the Caps next week (for a fee) if they survive the first-round playoffs. The locals will be unable to use Uline's for second-round games—it has been rented to a circus . . . George McQuinn, former Yankee first baseman, will be host to many of the town's sporting fraternity at an informal smoker at his sporting goods store in Arlington Thursday night . . .

Three Features On Turner Show

Three feature bouts are scheduled on tonight's mat card at Turner's. Mr. America, supposedly running a glamour race with Georgeous George, meets Kola Kwariani in the top one.

Wilbur Nead, after two unsuccessful attempts, tries to pin Nanjo Singh. And Antonio Rocco, the "Argentine Rock," grapples Eric Holmbach, Swedish giant. Members of the Argentine Embassy are turning out to root for their boy Rocco.

Two other bouts round out the card with Bibber McCoy opposing Charro Aztec and Abie Coleman meeting Ivan Kamaroff.

Mrs. Rihbany Upset in 3d Round

New York, N. Y., March 22 (AP).—Jean Borotra of France bowed out of the National Indoor Tennis championships today but not until after he had run the legs off Fred Kovaleski, William and Mary College star from Detroit.

Kovaleski, seeded seventh in the men's singles division of the annual tournament, finally outlasted the ageless French veteran, 7-5, 6-14, in a dingdong, third round battle.

Fred Gets Lesson

But the once-famed Bounding Basque, still a tough competitor at the age of 55, gave his younger opponent a thorough lesson in court strategy before he departed to the sidelines.

Before the bounce which helped him gain the United States indoor title four times between 1925 and 1931 was gone from his legs, Borotra maneuvered his opponent out of position repeatedly, then sent soft shots to the sidelines which always caught Kovoleski going in the wrong direction. In the end, Borotra simply ran out of gas.

Joining Kovaleski in the men's quarter-finals were Defending Champion Billy Talbert of New York, Earl Cochell of San Francisco and Ed McGrath of Brooklyn, all seeded in the upper bracket.

Talbert Whips Devoe

Talbert polished off Leslie Devoe of Princeton, N. J., 6—3, 6—2. He next plays McGrath, who dumped Dick Seeler of Belle Rose, N. Y., 6—2, 6—4.

Cochell had little trouble disposing of Gus Ganzenmuller of Sea Cliff, N. Y., 6-2, 6-2. He takes on Kovaleski next.

The first major upset of the tournament occurred in the women's division, however, when Mrs. Helen Rihbany, winner of the feminine title in 1945 and 1946, went out in the quarter-finals.

Nina Irwin, 21-year-old unranked New Yorker, upset Mrs. Rihbany, seeded second among the women, 6-2, 6-2.

Hansbury Boxes Stribling Monday

Johnny Hansbury and Ken Stribling hook up next Monday night at Turner's Arena in a ten-round middleweight feature.

Hansbury has dropped two bouts in 21 starts, showing kayoes over Al Wright and "Sonny" Bunn in addition to a win over Laverne Roache. Stribling is well remembered by local fans for his great stand at Griffith Stadium last summer against Bronx contender Jake LaMotta.

Louis to Settle Title Site Today

Chicago, March 21 (AP).—The site and date of the Ezzard Charles-Jersey Joe Walcott showdown for the world's heavyweight title vacated by Joe Louis probably will be determined here tomorrow.

Louis will hold a conference on the subject with his associate co-promoters, Arthur M. Wirtz and James D. Norris, Chicagoans.

Informed sources believe the bout, which the National Boxing Association regards as a fight for the Louis crown, will be staged in June, either in the stadium or a ball park.

Armstrong Leaves for Nashville

In a hurry and without their uniforms, Armstrong High's basketballers entrained for Nashvile last night, seeking their fourth championship of the season.

Invited on Monday to the National Negro High School Tournament, Armstrong could not accept until 4 p. m. yesterday. There was not enough money in the athletic fund to finance the trip.

Yesterday afternoon, Principal Frank Gregory called a meeting of the school alumni organization. The old graduates passed the hat and came up with the right amount of money.

Coach Charlie Baltimore had two hours to round up his squad of nine and catch the southbound train.

They had to leave without their playing suits, because their equipment hadn't arrived from Fayettesville, N. C., where Armstrong won the State Teachers' College scholastic tournament last weekend.

Principal Gregory met the trunks at Union Station last night, and dispatched them by air to Nashville, where the tournament opens on Thursday.

Armstrong goes into the event with a 19-3 record, and championships of the Washington Negro Interhigh League, the South Atlantic High School League and the Fayettesville Invitational tournament.

Making the trip with Coach Baltimore are Jay Peterson, Avatus Stone, Gene Lawrence, Lewis Jackson, Walter Sturdivant, John Hobbs, Les Morgan, Al Wilson and Tom Spencer.

C. U. Faces Tough Problem Before Boxing Virginia

Wanted: one 145-pound college boxer in good physical condition; must be aggressive, experienced and ready to go to work, equipment furnished. Apply E. LaFond, Catholic University gym.

The Cardinal ring coach is about ready to run such an ad for a welterweight to round out his team for Saturday's home finale against the University of Virginia. Dick Trumper, who succeeded Cal Nisson at the position, is boning up for exams. Nisson isn't in good shape and Tom Wingo, another good belter, hasn't been near the ring in two weeks.

Led by Tom Cronin, their Intercollegiate Boxing Association 125-pound champ, the Cards expect to spank the Cavaliers, however. Cronin had won eight consecutive bouts until last week when Ted Puskar's shoulder went out of place in the first round. Cronin had to settle for an automatic draw with the John Carroll scrapper.

Krause Named Irish Director Of Athletics

South Bend, Ind., March 22 (AP).—Basketball Coach Edward W. (Moose) Krause, 36, today was named athletic director at the University of Notre Dame, succeeding Head Football Coach Frank Leahy at that post.

Krause, assistant athletic director for the past year, will retain his Irish head basketball coaching job.

The Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., university president, announced the long-expected change. Father Cavanaugh emphasized that it was recommended by Leahy, who served in the grid coach-directorship role ever since his arrival from Boston College eight years ago.

Leahy, 40, said it was "my firm conviction that with increased enrollment, and the increase in all athletic problems

Chandler Comes Up With 'Big Legaller'

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

"HAPPY" CHANDLER has come up with a big leaguer, legally speaking.

Nor can you blame him, what with baseball's very foundation threatened by court attack on the reserve clause, charges of monopoly and damage suits totaling upwards of three million dollars.

O'Brian

It's not a spot to send a boy on a man's errand and Chandler knows it, so when the Major League A. C. takes the jurisprudence field against the Mexican Jumpers, baseball's commissioner will hustle out a pitcher who has been cutting the plate with law book curves down through the years.

Yes, strictly big league is Attorney John Lord O'Brian, Washington attorney, who arrived here yesterday from Florida and immediately began studying baseball's case.

Like many another fan I was interested in learning just what sort of man would be called in to fight for Chandler and the future of the national pastime. I found Mr. O'Brian to be a man with a keen sense of humor.

He laughed as I tried to connect him with sports, or baseball for that matter, as anything but a died-in-the-wool fan. That he readily admitted. Played a little amateur ball as an outfielder, but never went out for any team at Harvard. However, he "always was around" when there was a game, as he put it.

MR. O'BRIAN once had more time to see big league games and took advantage whenever possible. But the pressure of business has made him only an occasional occupant of the stands in recent years. Harvard football games attract him perhaps a couple of times a year.

But what I started out to write about was the good hands in which baseball has placed part of its legal battles.

When a President of these United States appoints a man to a high Government position there's sometimes a tendency to question his ability and talk about party loyalty.

But when six Presidents over more than 40 years call on the services of the same fellow—brother, he must have something on the ball.

That's written in the record of O'Brian. Yes, from Teddy Roosevelt, though Taft, Wilson and the others right up to President Truman, Mr. O'Brian has been asked to step forward and throw fast legal balls for Uncle Sam. He never has been knocked out of the box.

His record, unavailable from Mr. O'Brian, but found in our library files, reveals a list of services and accomplishments that lead one to believe he must be three persons.

HE HAS WADED through all sorts of legal battles, including oil trusts and manufacturing combines, spy cases and hit such high spots as the Tennessee Valley Authority rumpus and many others.

Incidentally it is interesting to note that Mr. O'Brian, as a special assistant in the Department of Justice, appointed J. Edgar Hoover to his first position in the FBI.

Duing the war he was head of the legal forces of the War Production Board and counseled so well that the broadly-defined emergency power of that agency was questioned only once—and Mr. O'Brian pitched for the winner on that occasion.

More recently he was called on by President Truman to head the three-man board to study the labor dispute at Oak Ridge.

Just how baseball's case will come out, I don't know, but, with John Lord O'Brian around it ain't going to be no Mexican hayride if you know what I mean.

Pinch Hit In Eleventh Tops Tigers

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 22 (AP).—Pinch-hitter Yogi Berra singled with the bases loaded in the eleventh inning today to give the New York Yankees a 1-0 triumph over the Detroit Tigers.

An error by Eddie Lake paved the way for the Yankee victory. With Cliff Mapes on first, Lake booted a grounder by Johnny Lindell. Billy Johnson sacrificed and Gene Woodling walked to load the sacks. Berra followed with a long poke to center.

Cards' Streak Broken At Six by Reds, 8 to 5

Tampa, Fla., March 22 (U.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds took advantage of poor St. Louis pitching today to defeat the Cardinals, 8 to 5. The loss snapped a Cardinal winning streak at six straight.

Harry Brecheen started for St. Louis, giving up four runs in two innings. Ken Johnson, his reliever, walked four in a row in the fourth, Jack Creel was tagged for a home run by Ted Kluszewski in the seventh and Little Jack Collum gave up two more in the eighth on four walks and a safe bunt.

Final Figures Prove Mikan Most Offensive Man in BAA

Final statistics yesterday confirmed what 11 Basketball Association of America teams have been suspecting all season—that George Mikan of Minneapolis was the most offensive player in the pro league.

The 6-foot-10-inch former All-America from DePaul University led the BAA in four scoring departments, and broke the scoring record for a season.

His 1698 points were tops for the league, and beat Joe Fulks' old record, set two years ago, by 87 points. Mikan also led with a 28.3 points per game average, 583 field goals and 432 foul goals.

Though the Washington Caps clinched the Eastern Division championship two weeks ago, they managed to place only one player among the top 15 scorers. And he, Bob Feerick, was fourteenth, with 752.

Arnie Risen of the Western Division Champion Rochester club had the best scoring percentage with 345 field goals out of 816 field goals attempts for .423. Mikan was second with a .416 percentage.

Vernon, Wynn Tally Run, But Pirates Get 2

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 22 (AP).—Outfielder Wally Westlake starred at bat and in the field today to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2-1 exhibition win over the world champion Cleveland Indians.

Wally won the ball game with a solo home run in the fourth inning, then saved it in the eighth with a great grab off the left center field fence with two runners moving.

Cubs Score 11 in First; Wallop Chisox, 15-0

Hollywood, Calif., March 22 (AP). The Chicago Cubs evened their annual spring series with the White Sox at one game apiece by hammering out a 15-0 win today.

The Cubs jumped on Bob Kuzava, former Cleveland Indian, and Rookie Jim Goodwin for 11 runs in the first inning.

time before Bob can step onto the court.

Scolari and his injured finger are in slightly better shape. Freddie finds he can bend his finger, as he puts it, "about half a crook." But he, too, will have to take it easy. He was still carrying around a bandage and a splint on the finger yesterday to protect it.

After tonight's game the Caps and Warriors move into Uline Arena for the second game and if a third is necessary it will also be played at Uline's on Saturday night.

Fulks and strongman Ed Sadowski should give the Caps the most trouble. They always have in the past.

In his 17 starts against Washington since 1946-47 season the six-foot five-inch Fulks has scored 132 field goals and 148 fouls for a total of 402 points, an average of 23.2 per game.

This year he has scored 151 points against the Caps in the six games, a 25.1 average.

Tonight the job of guarding Mr. Fulks will fall alternately to McKinney and Matt Zunic.

Another guy who promises to give the Caps plenty of trouble is Howie Dallmar, who has doubled as coach of the University of Pennsylvania team.

Jacobs Operated On

Santa Monica, Calif., March 22 (AP).—"Indian Jack" Jacobs, passer for the Green Bay professional football team, today underwent an operation for removal of bone chips in the elbow of his pitching arm.

Clark Griffith is having Leeper's teeth worked on in the hope dentistry will remove a cause of Leeper's sore arm . . . Gil Coan hit a long drive of about 410 feet to right center in the big fourth inning, but Miller Centerfielder Billy Pavlick made a beautiful running catch to rob Coan of an extra-base hit . . . Clyde Vollmer, who took over from Coan in center in the sixth, turned the tables on Pavlick by running far to his left to spear a drive at the knees . . . Manager Joe Kuhel plans to pitch Sid Hudson and Mickey Haefner against the New York Yankees tomorrow in St. Petersburg.

Nats Get Dollar Expense Raise, Still Unhappy

Orlando, Fla., March 22.—The Washington ball club attempted without much success today to appease the ten players living outside the team's hotel, with an extra dollar - per - day expense money.

Vice President Calvin Griffith announced that the expense allowance was being raised from $5 to $6 per day following protests against the new policy of withholding complete expense money from the players not in the hotel.

Griffith declared that all players were warned they would receive only meal money if they lived in private apartments, in contrast to the full hotel rates they got in the past.

He pointed out that the Red Sox also pay only $6 per day. The players pointed out that the Athletics get $9 per man and the Yankees $7.50.

Ray Scarborough, the team's top pitcher and ring-leader in the effort to obtain more expenses from the club, greeted the $1 daily increase with, "is that all?" He doubted that the players had further recourse.

Jackson's Boxing Death Accidental

Toledo, Ohio, March 22 (AP).—A coroner's jury today ruled that Art Jackson, 18-year-old professional middleweight of Toledo, died Sunday as a result of a blow by Welterweight Charley Cotton, suffered in training last Friday. Cotton and Jackson sparred with training gloves and wore headgears. The jury ruled that the death was accidental.

Jack Dempsey Here Saturday In Benefit Show

Jack Dempsey and Arthur (Dagwood) Lake will appear as guest masters of ceremonies in Sunday's Coast Guard benefit shows at Constitution Hall.

The Washington Variety Club is sponsoring two performances which will feature the Eddy Arnold Checkerboard Jamboree. Also taking part at 3 and 8:30 p. m. will be the United States Marine Corps Band.

The shows will swell the fund for the proposed Inter-Faith Memorial Chapel. Tickets priced from $1.20 to $3 are on sale at Kitt's Music Store, 1330 G st. nw., and Clyde Moody Record Shops at 739 8th st. se. and 2411 Mount Vernon ave., Alexandria.

Home Rule Closer For Marylanders

By Roger B. Farquhar
Post Reporter

Annapolis, Md., March 22.—Two bills giving several Maryland counties and towns greater "home rule" powers cleared initial hurdles in the State Senate today.

Adopted with no discussion were favorable reports by the Senate Judiciary Committee on two "home rule" bills sponsored by Senator Edward D. Storm (D., Frederick).

One would give cities and towns broad powers to rule themselves in the following counties: Montgomery, Frederick, Carroll, Calvert, Harford, Queen Anne's, Talbot, Garrett.

The other would give the following counties wider local government powers: Montgomery, Frederick, Baltimore, Carroll, Harford, Garrett, Queen Anne's, Talbot.

Senator Storm said the first bill had received the backing of Joseph M. Ray, executive secretary of the Maryland League of Municipalities. Similar legislation backed by the league, involving a constitutional amendment, was defeated earlier in the session.

A bill providing that the job of chairman of the Prince Georges County Commissioners shall be a full time post at an annual salary of $5000 was introduced by the Prince Georges delegation.

The measure also would raise the salary of the four other part-time county commissioners to $2400 each. All five part-time commissioners now earn about $1800, according to the delegation.

Chairman Perry O. Wilkinson of the county delegation said the county's recent growth and the resultant problems has "made it impossible for the county commissioners meeting only once a week to transact all the business."

Chairman Wilkinson announced that a bill empowering Takoma Park officials to condemn property is being held in committee.

Maryland Bonus Issue Waxes Hot in Senate

Annapolis, Md., March 22.—Debate on the proposed 100-million-dollar bonus bill for Maryland World War II veterans raged in the State Senate tonight to the accompaniment of cheers and boos of American Legion members packing the galleries.

Charging that vested interests were opposing the bill because it would mean higher taxes, Senator Harry T. Phoebus (R., Somerset) shouted: "I hope that in the next war all the utilities, railroads, newspapers, bankers, lawyers and doctors will be drafted and not permitted to earn more than the poor boys overseas."

Senator Robert B. Kimble (R., Allegany) sponsor of the measure, declared during an oration that arguments that the bonus would bankrupt the State were "moth-eaten."

On a motion by Senator George W. Beck (D., Caroline) the Senate voted 17-11 to make the issue a special order of business for Wednesday at 8:30 p. m.

Ideas Swapped

Panel Talks On Nursery Schools Held

More than 100 District area mothers swapped ideas on co-operative nursery schools last night at a panel discussion in Pierce Hall, 16th and Harvard sts. nw.

The mothers discussed financial structure, membership problems, and teachers in the cooperative nurseries in three panel discussions.

The meeting was called by the Montgomery County Council of Cooperative Nursery Schools and the Federation of Cooperative Nursery Schools of Northern Virginia to foster cooperation between all similar schools in the Washington area. Mrs. Blanche Schanpper, president of the Montgomery Council, presided.

The cooperative schools, involving children from the age of 3 through kindergarten, are managed by parents and taught by paid directors and teachers, and in some cases mothers.

Vincent Lee Foster Freed of Rape Charge

St. Joseph, Mo., March 22 (AP).—Charges of forcible rape against welterweight boxer Vincent Lee Foster were dismissed yesterday because of insufficient evidence.

The fighter, arrested February 7 on complaint of a 22-year-old Kansas City woman, denied the charge.

Foster first gained wide attention by knocking out the veteran Tony Pellone in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Officials Urge Expansion of Negro College

By a Post Reporter

Annapolis, Md., March 22.—Two Morgan State College officials today urged development of the Baltimore school to help offset higher education discrimination against Maryland Negroes.

They were Judge Morris A. Soper, chairman of its board of trustees, and Martin D. Jenkins, the college's president. They gave their views at a joint hearing held by the State Senate Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee.

"It is an incontrovertible fact," they told the two committees, "that the State has not provided, and is not now providing, its Negro citizens the same educational opportunity it has provided its white citizens."

The hearing was called to allow the college officials to testify on their 1949-50 budget needs. Governor Lane has recommended $1,670,000 for Morgan and $850,000 for the Maryland State College at Princess Anne, Md.

Both Soper and Jenkins urged the land-grant status of Maryland State be transferred to Morgan State, which is an independent institution. They urged that the Princess Anne school be made into a junior college, with emphasis on agriculture.

Another speaker at the closed hearing, Howard M. Murphy, chairman of the Maryland Committee for Equal Educational Opportunities, advocated abolishing the out-of-State scholarship system for Negroes and making use of white facilities of the State by Negro graduate and professional students.

Maryland will spend over $100,000 this school year to send Negro college students out of the State on scholarships, Murphy said, asserting the scholarship policy "places a stigma on Negro students and says to them: you are not fit to attend the University of Maryland."

Strayer Report To Go on Sale In Book Form

The Strayer report on District schools, which runs to 2000 typewritten pages, will be available in book form about April 1.

The Government Printing Office is having 300 copies printed for public sale. An additional number of the books will be run off for distribution to House and Senate Appropriations Committees which authorized the survey and to school and other District officials.

Dr. George D. Strayer, author of the report, said that sufficient funds were left from the $100,000 survey appropriation to cover the cost of printing the report in full.

Dr. Strayer will give Washington residents the first chance to ask him questions on the report when he appears at an open meeting of the Public Schools Association Thursday at 8 p. m. in the board room of the District Building, 14th and E sts. nw.

The report, which calls for a Federal loan of 38 million dollars to finance school construction and increased annual appropriations to raise teachers pay and cut down the number of pupils per classroom, received backing yesterday from representatives of 9 organizations who met at the Brookings Institute.

The most Beautiful BUY for Styling

Overnight, men and women everywhere have singled out the new Chevrolet as the most beautiful buy of all; and we believe you will agree with them when you compare it, point by point, with cars costing even hundreds of dollars more!

You'll find it's the most beautiful buy for styling, of course . . . for it alone offers the ultra-luxurious lines, colors, fittings and fabrics of Body by Fisher at lowest cost. But you'll also find that it brings this same extra quality and value to all other phases of motor car design, comfort, performance and safety.

The fact is, Chevrolet for '49 is the most beautiful buy of all from every point of view and on every point of value . . . because it alone offers all these advantages of higher-priced cars at the lowest prices and at such low cost of operation and upkeep!

The most Beautiful BUY for Comfort. Step into the Super-Size Interior. Notice the extra-generous head, leg and elbowroom and the extra-wide "Five-Foot Seats." All this means that even "six-footers" can be comfortable in this car. Moreover, it's a car that "breathes," for an advanced heating* and ventilating system renews the air and keeps glass clear in all weather.

The most Beautiful BUY for Driving and Riding Ease—with new Center-Point Design. This remarkable 4-way engineering advance—including Center-Point Steering, Center-Point Seating, Lower Center of Gravity without reducing road clearance and Center-Point Rear Suspension—brings you driving and riding results found elsewhere only in higher-priced cars. Only Center-Point Design gives these finer results; and only Chevrolet offers Center-Point Design at lowest cost.

The most Beautiful BUY for Performance with Economy. You'll know more and more clearly, with each succeeding mile, that Chevrolet's the choice for performance with economy. It's the only low-priced car with a Valve-in-Head engine—the engine now being adopted by more and more higher-priced cars—and Chevrolet's world's champion engine holds all records for miles served and owners satisfied.

The most Beautiful BUY for All-Round Safety. Naturally, you want your family to have maximum motoring safety, and here's fivefold safety protection found only in this one low-priced car: (1) New Certi-Safe Hydraulic Brakes; (2) Extra-Strong Fisher Unisteel Body-Construction; (3) New Panoramic Visibility; (4) Safety Plate Glass in windshield and all windows; and (5) the super-steady, super-safe Unitized Knee-Action Ride.

NEW "DUBL-LIFE" RIVETLESS BRAKE LININGS—LAST UP TO TWICE AS LONG!

Linings are secured to brake shoes by a special "Perma-Bond" process developed by Chevrolet and General Motors' Research Laboratories and thoroughly tested and proved by millions of units under all kinds of driving conditions. There are no rivets to limit lining wear or to score the brake drums. As a result, almost the entire lining thickness is usable and lining life is practically doubled. Chevrolet is the first full-sized car in America to bring you this important braking advancement!

Civil Service Sifts Charge New Dealers Got Brushoff in Test

The conduct of the Civil Service test for hearing examiners has set off a bitter intra-Government controversy that has reached the White House.

Serious charges have been made against those who conducted the tests—charges which are hotly denied. To put it bluntly, the Civil Service examiners are accused of political prejudice—of disqualifying the New Dealers and liberals, and approving the conservatives among the applicants.

The Civil Service Commission, naturally enough, is disturbed over the charges. It's quietly looking into these and other accusations which have been made by high-ranking Federal officials. Protests over the exam also are reported to have been sent to the White House.

The commission can't escape an inquiry into the charges. Some of the examiners who were declared to be ineligible for jobs they have been holding for years are appealing to it. The commission already is gathering facts on which to make decisions.

The exam and the manner in which it was conducted were not only defended, but praised to the skies on the House floor the other day by Representative Walter of Pennsylvania, a Democratic leader. About 72 per cent of the examiners were rated eligible for their jobs by the committee, which was composed of lawyers in and out of the Federal service. On the surface, this was a bit higher percentage than was anticipated.

Anyway, the heads of half a dozen agencies say many of their best examiners were rated as unqualified on the test.

MAY EVANS of the U. S. Employment Service is being backed by several members of Congress to be Assistant Labor Secretary . . . Frieda Miller of the Women's Bureau also has support for the vacant post . . . Senator Downey (D., Calif.) charges that Interior's Reclamation Bureau is vastly overstaffed and inefficient . . . Herman Grant has been appointed regional attorney for the Labor Department in Chicago. He succeeds William A. Lowe, who will transfer to the legal staff here.

CENSUS JOBS: It's best to get indorsements of Truman Democrats if you want a job at the Census Bureau. The bureau will hire upward of 140,000 temporary employes within the next year to take the 1950 general census.

Director J. C. Capt was quizzed at length by Senator McClellan (D., Ark.) on how census employes were selected. He dodged a public answer on the queries, assuring McClellan that he would confer with him in private. Capt did say that Democratic clearances would help get census jobs. But it was evident that McClellan was suspicious that Southern Democrats weren't being given their fair share of the posts.

LOSS: Senator O'Conor (D., Md.) is resigning from the Senate Civil Service Committee. He'll replace the late Senator Broughton (D., N. C.) on the Judiciary Committee. Federal workers will miss O'Conor, who has proved himself their good, fair and effective friend.

The Maryland Senator was directly responsible for getting last July's classified pay raise boosted from $300 to $330 a few minutes before the deadline for approval. He has taken a lead this year in pushing a bill to get adequate salaries for Federal executives and to give District workers a retroactive increase. Also, he has in various bills to help Federal people.

O'Conor said yesterday he would continue his interest in employe matters; that he would do what he could to get approval of the executive and District pay bill.

RETIREMENT: The Johnston retirement subcommittee of the Senate Civil Service Committee meets today to make plans for open hearings on the many retirement bills. However, the biggest hurdle to any basic retirement changes will be the opposition of the Administration. Nevertheless, employe groups will go down the line for Chairman Johnston's bill to permit optional retirement at 55 after 30 years of service.

TRAVEL BILL: Public hearings on the Karsten travel bill were completed yesterday by the House Expenditures Committee. An executive session will be held today to mark up the measure.

There were hints that the committee might raise the travel allowance from $6 to $9 a day, instead of $10 as proposed by the Administration. Also, the allowance for use of private autos for official business would be raised from 5 to 7 cents a mile.

Kronheim Approved by Senate D. C. Committee

Unanimous Backing Follows Lawyer's Indorsement by Bar Association

Nomination of Milton S. Kronheim, jr., 37, for Municipal Court Judge was unanimously approved yesterday by the Senate District Committee.

Kronheim

In a 15-minute hearing, nearly 20 members of the District Bar Association indorsed the appointment.

President Truman sent Kronheim's name to the Senate March 8 to fill the vacancy left by the death of Municipal Court Judge John P. McMahon.

No opposition was offered yesterday.

Lowry Coe, president of the District Bar Association, presented his group's indorsement, adding that he had known Kronheim personally for many years as "a very able man."

Godfrey L. Munter, secretary of the Judicial Selection Committee of the Bar Association, told the committee: "Kronheim is a native Washingtonian, is one of our boys and will make a fine judge."

The Bar Association previously criticized Attorney General Clark for submitting Kronheim's name to the President without consulting it.

Kronheim's father is a leading wholesale liquor dealer here. Both were contributors to the Democratic campaign fund last fall.

The nominee lives with his wife and three children—Richard, 8, Nancy, 5 and Robert 2—at 3701 Chesapeake st. nw. He prepared for Johns Hopkins College at Staunton Military Academy and received his law degree at Georgetown University law school.

Others testifying in Kronheim's behalf yesterday were: George E. McNeil, past president of the District Bar Association; Milton W. King, Julius Eanet, Clarence M. Dinkins, F. Joseph Donohue, Albert L. Newmyer, Harry S. Wender, Charles E. Ford and John Lewis Smith, attorneys, and Maurice Eanet, merchant.

The committee also approved a group of 11 bills, containing recommendations of the District Bar Association for changes in the District code. The bills would:

1. Permit serving of legal papers on nonresident firms through their agents or offices in the District.
2. Authorize payment of $25-a-day fees to court-appointed lawyers defending indigent clients in criminal cases.
3. Permit the same enforcement of court orders in maintenance payments as now is allowed for alimony payments.
4. Permit personal service of legal notice upon persons outside the District in uncontested probate cases.
5. Label a suit for divorce here a "complaint" instead of a "petition."
6. Increase from $600 to $1000 the amount the court can allow from a person's estate to pay his funeral expenses.
7. Permit estates to be settled by the personal representative of a deceased person six months after the representative qualifies with the court.
8. Fix a one-year limit for filing a caveat, or notice of contest, to a will.
9. Require appointment of an attorney to defend all uncontested annulment cases.
10. Permit legal service by publication in annulment cases.
11. Authorize a family allowance and simplified procedure in settlement of small estates.

Foreign Service Transfers Bovey, Fowler and Rose

Transfer of three Washington area residents who are members of the State Department's Foreign Service was announced yesterday by the department.

They are Halleck L. Rose, who lives at 2022 Connecticut ave. nw.; William A. Fowler, who lives at 1642 32d st. nw., and John Alden Bovey, jr., who lives in Annapolis, Md.

Rose has been transferred from Managua, where he was second secretary and consul, to Hamburg, as consul assigned to the Displaced Persons Program. Fowler, now a member of the United States delegation to the United Nations, has been named first secretary and consul at Belgrade. Bovey has been transferred from Rotterdam to Casablanca as vice consul.

Today She Walks . . .

THE DIFFERENCE A YEAR MAKES—The contrast drawn by passing months is shown in these two pictures of Vicki Lovejoy, pictured in both with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Lovejoy. At left, Vicki had just been brought home from Suburban Hospital, where she was born a year ago yesterday, weighed only 26 ounces, measured only 14 inches and was given only one chance in 1000 to live. At right, Vicki, now weighing 21 pounds, stands 28¾ inches tall. And what's more she can walk. The family lives at 1946 Capitol View ave., Capitol View, Md. The Washington Post

Suits Reflect Sharp Rise in Tenants' Woes

Wage earners in the marginal income group are having more disputes with their landlords now than they did 12 months ago.

The trend is apparent in the number of cases reaching Miss Doris Wilkins, consultant to the Landlord and Tenant Court.

Cases are referred to her office by the judge of the court, a social agency, or on personal application of the party involved.

She seldom interviews anyone with an income of more than $3000 a year. Most of the cases involve persons earning $2000 a year or less.

Causes of Difficulties

Budget difficulties are behind the bulk of the cases, Miss Wilkins said yesterday, but unemployment, insufficient income, misunderstandings between landlord and tenant, domestic troubles, disputes over repairs and possession suits are other causes of Landlord and Tenant Court actions.

Miss Wilkins disclosed yesterday that during the six-month period ending last February 28, there were 470 cases reviewed by her office. During a comparable period in the previous 12 months there were only 254 cases.

The 470 cases included those of 30 tenants unemployed and 50 who were found to be making insufficient income. The 254 cases of the previous period included only four cases of unemployment, and only 28 instances of insufficient income.

More Unemployment

In September, 1948, the office handled 104 cases. Of this total, eight involved unemployment and seven insufficient income. In September, 1947, there had been only 42 cases. None of the cases involved unemployment and only four insufficient income.

October, 1948, saw a total of 103 cases, 3 unemployed, 10 insufficient income. In October, 1947, the figures were 28 total, none unemployed, 1 insufficient income.

Figures for November, 1948, were 97-9-11, for November, 1947, 44-0-4.

For December, 1948, 42-3-2, and for December, 1947, 44-1-7.

For January, 1949, 54-3-10, and for January, 1948, 52-2-8.

For February, 1949, 70-4-10, and for February, 1948, 44-1-4.

Miss Wilkins pointed out that the type of person who is referred to her office is generally from the most unskilled class, and that her office feels rapidly any shift in economic conditions.

As an example, she said, the number of cases shot up shortly after the end of the war because many wives stopped receiving Government allotment checks for husbands in service.

Innocent Suspect Is Cleared By 'Hunch' of Two Detectives

By Alfred E. Lewis
Post Reporter

Two robbery squad detectives, playing a "hunch," yesterday cleared an innocent man facing indictment on holdup charges, after being "positively" identified by three victims.

A 16-year-old youth seized in a drugstore housebreaking admitted being the culprit.

The detectives, Sgts. Patrick A. Deenihan and Lloyd B. Furr, combing the northwest section following many holdups and housebreakings, picked up Charles Wesley Coy, 32, of 1432 12th st. nw., on March 8. Coy answered the description of a gunman, who, armed with a nickel-plated revolver, had held up the DeSales parking lot, 1701 De Sales st. nw., March 5.

Coy admitted he had just completed an 8-year stretch for robbery. But he emphatically denied he was involved in the parking lot job.

His denials, which remained firm even after he was identified by three eyewitnesses, impressed Furr and Deenihan.

Their doubts were strengthened when a search of Coy's room failed to uncover a weapon.

Meantime, Coy was in jail in lieu of $5000 bond, awaiting grand jury action. Approached by the detectives, Assistant United States Attorney Grace Stiles agreed to postpone the case until yesterday.

The first break came March 11 when the S. and H. Parking Lot, 1535 I st. nw., was held up by a lone robber with a nickel-plated revolver.

Then, Monday night the youth was arrested by Police Pvt. J. C. Vinson, who found himself trapped in a drugstore after squeezing through a small window in search of his quarry.

Vinson and Pvt. Bradford McClendon arrived at the Riverside Pharmacy, 2125 E st. nw., about 10:30 p. m. after a housebreaking had been reported there.

Vinson, smaller of the two, squeezed through a window from which the center bar had been sawed. Inside he found the intruder. But when Vinson tried to leave with his prisoner, he found it impossible to get out. The problem was solved by the arrival of the store proprietor with a door key.

A nickel-plated .32 caliber revolver was found in the youth's room. Police said the youth yesterday admitted the parking lot holdup among other robberies and housebreakings.

They said he implicated Allen Tilman, 18, 2325 Virginia ave. nw. Both were booked on housebreaking charges while an additional charge of robbery was lodged against the youth.

Reversing the usual procedure, Furr and Deenihan were enabled to ask the grand jury yesterday that it ignore the charges against Coy.

7 Boys, 7 to 15 in Age, Seized as Housebreakers

Seven youthful housebreaking suspects ranging in age from 7 to 15 years were rounded up Monday night and early yesterday after a series of incidents that included a rooftop chase.

One of the suspects jumped 15 feet from a fire escape, continued his flight, but was picked up later.

Police said the arrests solved more than a dozen housebreakings reported recently.

The rooftop chase started with Police Pvts. Albert F. Fielder and Clarence S. Muse investigating a reported housebreaking in a shoe repair shop at 642 G st. nw. shortly after midnight.

They arrested one youth as a "lookout" but a second—a 14-year-old—climbed out a skylight in the store and fled across the roof.

Fielder clambered up a fire escape and went after him. The boy was arrested four rooftops later, hiding behind a ventilator. The boy and his "lookout" admitted a $12 barber shop robbery, police said.

In another incident, police bagged a band of five juveniles after one of them had been seized in the Fulton Marine Supply Store, 803 Maine ave. sw.

S. King Fulton, owner, told police he was working in a second-floor office when he heard noises on the floor below.

Investigating, he came upon three boys. Two fled, but the third remained in Fulton's grasp. Later the youngster implicated four others. Police say they have admitted at least 10 housebreakings.

One of the boys who fled, Fulton said, leaped from a fire escape platform 15 feet to the ground.

Man Injured In Plane Wins $25,000 Suit

A Washington resident who was thrown out of his chair aboard a commercial airplane during a squall was awarded $25,000 yesterday by a Federal Court jury in Minneapolis.

He is Clyde L. Parsley, 3203 R st. nw., a former electronics consultant for the War Assets Administration. He claimed that as a result of the bumpy air he was thrown to the ceiling and suffered a dislocated neck and other injuries.

Defendant in the case was Mid-Continent Airlines, Inc. The accident occurred in a DC-3 flight June 22, 1947, while he was a passenger from Minneapolis to Omaha, according to the suit.

Parsley, through his attorney, David G. Bress, contended the pilot should have known that weather turbulence would be encountered and that a seat-belt warning light should have been flashed before the plane suddenly dropped because of a downdraft.

It was claimed by Parsley that a cold-front was approaching and that weather bureau reports indicated the need for seat-belts.

Christmas Story

Common-Law Widower Pleads Guilty

James E. Wanzer, 36, who admitted clubbing his common-law wife with the stump of a Christmas tree December 29, pleaded guilty to manslaughter yesterday in District Court.

Judge Richmond B. Keech withheld sentencing pending a report from the probation officer. Maximum possible penalty is a $1000 fine and a 15-year sentence.

Wanzer said he struck Mrs. Jessie Myers, 30, during a jealous argument in the 200 block of Sullivan ct. nw. She was taken to Providence Hospital, treated for scalp lacerations and released.

When the assault case came up in Municipal Court December 30, she asked that the case be dismissed because Wanzer was her sole support. The charge was dismissed.

On January 10, Mrs. Myers reappeared at Providence Hospital and was admitted suffering from tetanus. She died of the disease January 29.

Wanzer, who told police he lived at 621 1st st. sw., was rearrested and charged with manslaughter.

Dunbar P-TA Asks Spingarn Funds Grant

Nearly 450 parents and teachers last night condemned congressional deletion of District budget funds for the proposed construction of Spingarn High School at 24th st. and Benning rd. ne.

Meeting at the Dunbar High School, 1st and O sts. nw., members of the Dunbar Parent-Teachers Association favored a request that the Senate restore the high school fund to the District appropriations bill.

Dunbar Principal Charles S. Lofton said the high school may have to put classes on a half-time rotating basis next fall if enrollment is heavier than its present 1700 students.

Also, it was announced the current drive to raise $600 for two scholarships under the terms of the Association's Julia E. Brooks Memorial Scholarship Fund, had reached $150 since the drive opened March 14. The group donated $25 to Dunbar's Veteran Teachers Committee for a plaque commemorating students killed in action during World War II.

Hampshire Heights Again Favors D. C. Sales Tax

The Hampshire Heights Citizens Association last night reiterated a stand taken in January in favor of a District sales tax. The association went on record as opposed to any increase in real estate or praperty tax rates.

D. S. Brinkley, planning engineer of the D. C. Highway Department, told the 20 members present at the meeting in the Barnard School, 4th and Decatur sts. nw., of plans under consideration for the construction of "limited access freeways." These roads, to be built within the next 10 years, will permit through traffic across the Metropolitan area, he said.

Seven Oaks Association Opposes Hospital Bond

The Seven Oaks Manor Citizens Association was on record yesterday as opposed to a proposed $1,500,000 Montgomery County bond issue for a 200-bed hospital in the Silver Spring area, if the bonds are to be paid off on a restricted tax plan.

The Association also wants the Montgomery County Council to make a survey to determine the need and kind of a hospital which should be built, Joseph Blomgren, Association president, said.

Deanwood Group Favors Houston as Commissioner

The Deanwood Civic Association last night indorsed appointment of Charles H. Houston, lawyer, as District Commissioner.

Meeting at Carver Elementary School on Whittingham pl. ne., the association also indorsed a resolution adopted March 5, by the Connecticut Ave. Citizens' Association, urging promotion of racial understanding in Washington.

2 Ice Cream Stores Held Up For $30 in D. C., Fairlington

Two High's ice cream stores, one in the District and one in Fairlington, were held up last night.

Two white men walked into the High's store at 2804 S. Randolph st., Fairlington, at about 10 a. m. Alone in the store was Miss Ruth Pearl, 47, of Route 2, Alexandria.

One man, carrying a gun, forced her to hand him the bills from the cash register and then reached into the register himself and scooped out a handful of quarters, altogether about $15. Both men were tall, hatless and wore overcoats.

About 45 minutes later, the High's store at 5435 MacArthur blvd. nw., was held up by two white men. The clerk, Mrs. Salome Slade, 27, of 1327 Columbia rd. nw., was alone when they entered. The man holding the gun made her hand him about $15 or $16 in bills.

Mrs. Slade said the gunman wore a brown lumberjacket and his companion a light-colored trench coat. Both were about 21, wore no hats and were about 5 feet 8.

Three Montgomery County police cruisers joined three scout cars from the Seventh Precinct and two headquarters cruisers in searching the area for the two bandits.

Hit-Run Driver Blamed in Injury Of 10-Year-Old Boy

A 10-year-old boy was in Providence Hospital last night in undetermined condition with a possible fracture of the skull, apparently the victim of a hit-and-run driver.

The boy, identified by police as Robert Tavenner, 379 37th pl se., was found at about 2 p. m. on Ridge Road near his home by a passing cab driver, Robert C. Sullivan, 3932 Burns pl. se. The cabbie removed the child to a doctor and later to the hospital.

D.C. Rent Bill Approved by Senate Group

The Senate District committee yesterday approved a 15-month extension of the District rent-control law, to June 30, 1950, with a change slated to send the House-approved measure to conference.

At the same time, Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R., Wis.) served notice that he will move in the Senate to write into the District rent bill whatever provisions for automatic rent boosts the Senate approves for the rest of the country.

He said he would decide on the basis of the national rent control bill whether the District rent increases should be added to increases already granted by District Rent Administrator Robert F. Cogswell, or whether the proposed flat increase here should include rent hikes earlier granted.

The single change in the rent bill, which the committee ordered at McCarthy's insistence, was a revision in the proposed recontrol of some converted housing units.

The House had called for restoring to control housing units which resulted from conversions costing less than $1500. The plan was indorsed by the subcommittee which reviewed the rent bill in the Senate, headed by Senator J. Allen Frear, jr. (D., Del.).

In a compromise move engineered by McCarthy, the Senate committee agreed that future control should be limited to converted units where the conversion cost less than $1000, and should not apply at all to conversions made before the new bill becomes law.

In committee discussion, Senator McCarthy and Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.) committee chairman, emphasized that even where the new conversions cost more than $1000, de-control would not be automatic. Instead, an order by Cogswell would be needed to take the control off, and his main test would be that the conversion must result in an addition to the supply of housing accommodations.

McCarthy told the committee it would be "unconscionable" to think of giving members of Congress and the executive branch greater protection as tenants than the folks back home. He made clear he believes the District still needs rent control, saying that in his housing survey last year he found Washington to be one of the 10 worst cities in terms of its housing shortage.

Cogswell had told the committee that the reason Congress had not ordered automatic increases here last year is that since 1941 landlords in the District have had their rents adjusted upward in line with rising costs. He said rent increases granted to landlords in the past six months have averaged 9.81 per cent.

The District rent bill would also limit cooperative apartment sales by requiring that 65 per cent of tenants in occupancy be members of a coop formed after March 1, 1949, before the coop could take over the building and oust other tenants. Coops formed before March 1 would not be affected.

Woman Clubbed To Death, Mate Held for Coroner

A 40-year-old woman was found bludgeoned to death in her home at 918¼ Desmond ct. sw., at 8:40 p. m. yesterday and shortly afterward her common-law husband was arrested and held for the coroner.

The body of the woman, Aurelia Mosby, was discovered by police sprawled on a cot. Her head had been battered. A blood stained wooden handle, four feet long and three inches in diameter, lay nearby.

The husband, Bill Gaskin, 28, was found roaming about the backyard, according to Police Pvt. H. R. Kershner. Police said Gaskin admitted the crime, saying: "She just wouldn't do right."

8 Senators Will Sponsor D. C. Home Rule Bill

Majority Backing Assured Measure Kefauver Plans To Present Today

By Thomas Winship
Post Reporter

Eight of the 13 members of the Senate District Committee yesterday agreed to co-sponsor the Washington home rule bill with clear prospects of early committee approval.

Senator Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.), chairman of the Senate District home rule subcommittee, will drop the revised, 112-page measure into the Senate hopper shortly after noon today.

Main features of the bill as revealed thus far are:

1. A 9-member city council for Washington, to replace the appointed Board of Commissioners.

2. A city manager appointed by the council, to take charge of 12 major stream-lined departments.

3. An elected school board, replacing the appointed one, to be in charge of public schools here. Schools would not come under the manager.

4. Enlarged home rule legislative powers for the council. It would take over the ordinance-making powers of the commissioners. It could also enact District laws, which would take effect within 60 days of passage unless vetoed during that period by either House of Congress.

Joining Senator Kefauver in filing the legislation are: Senators J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.), committee chairman; Matthew M. Neely (D., W. Va.), Lester C. Hunt (D., Wyo.), Bert H. Miller (D., Idaho), Joseph R. McCarthy (R., Wis.), Andrew F. Schoeppel (R., Kan.), and Robert C. Hendrickson (R., N. J.).

Three members—Senators Margaret Chase Smith (R., Me.), J. Allen Frear, jr. (D., Del.), and John J. Williams (R., Del.)—said they wanted to study the home rule bill further before agreeing to join in sponsoring it.

Senator Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.), long-time foe of local suffrage, was the only member present who recorded outright opposition.

The thirteenth committee member, Senator Karl Mundt (R., S. Dak.), was out of town yesterday and has not yet taken a position on the issue.

The Kefauver group will open public hearings on the measure Monday.

D. C. Drops Charge Against Founder Of Junior Police

District Commissioners yesterday adopted a recommendation of the Complaint Review Board to ignore complaints against Pvt. Oliver A. Cowan, founder of the Junior Police and Citizens' Corps, that he mistreated two boys during questioning on a housebreaking charge.

Private Cowan and Pvt. LeRoy E. Espeut, both of the Thirteenth Precinct, were accused of beating a 12 and a 14-year-old boy on the night of January 19-20 during an investigation of an $862 robbery.

Inspector Clarence H. Lutz, who made the initial investigation of the complaints, pointed to conflicting statements by the youngsters on the charges. Both policemen denied the charges completely.

Braniff Airways Asks Cuba-Washington Link

An application to extend its international routes from Havana, Cuba, to Washington and New York has been filed by Braniff International Airways with the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Braniff has asked also for extension of its southern routes from Lima, Peru, to Santiago, Chile. Braniff is now certified to link the United States with Cuba, Panama, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia, Brazil, Paraguay and Argentina.

Court Ruling on Grover Will Gives Cathedral $28,000

The Washington National Cathedral will receive a bequest of approximately $28,000 as the result of a ruling yesterday by Judge David A. Pine of District Court.

The ruling was based on an unusual feature of the will of the late Miss Janet Buchanan Grover who made the cathedral bequest and a similar one to the American Academy in Rome contingent on the gold-value of the American dollar.

Miss Grover resided in Washington for many years and died in Boston in April, 1946, leaving an estate of more than $158,000. She was the daughter of the late Gen. Cuvier Grover.

She stipulated that if the gold value of the dollar decreased from 1938, the time of her will, the academy and cathedral gifts should go to the Protestant Episcopal Church for domestic and foreign missions.

The executors of the will, represented by Attorney Richard E. Shands, asked the court to construe the will. Evidence was presented that the gold value of the dollar has remained the same since 1934 when the Government price of gold was fixed at $35 per fine ounce.

Another provision of the testament granted some $14,000 to former Queen Elena of Italy for charitable institutions of that country. It was ruled by the court that the bequest should go to Elena even though she is no longer a ruler of the nation and is in exile in Egypt. Elena has designated as its probable recipient the L'Asilo Savoia, provided that it retains that name, or possibly the Institute for the Blind of Rome, the court was told.

Another doubtful provision of the will was construed by Judge Pine to mean that a West Point student of the class of 1947 will receive an additional estimated $14,000, according to Shands. The cadet will be chosen on his ability and willingness to defend his country, according to the will.

Area News in Brief

D. C. Delinquent Taxpayers Warned

District Tax Collector Guy W. Pearson warned delinquent income and personal property taxpayers that unless they start paying up immediately they may join the group of 1000 who have had tax liens placed against them.

Pearson said his department is now in the midst of a concerted drive to collect lagging accounts and has just filed its 1000th lien. These liens cover about $200,000 in District taxes, he said.

He urged taxpayers not certain of the exact status of their tax liability to contact the delinquent Tax Collection Unit in Room 13, District Building or telephone National 6000, extensions 2767 or 483, to discuss the matter.

The collector also pointed out that the closing date for filing 1948 income-tax returns is April 15 and that a penalty will be levied for failure to file the returns on time.

Market Bid Rejected

The District Commissioners yesterday rejected an offer made by Safeway Stores Inc., for lease of the city's Western Market tract, 21st and K sts nw., as the site of a new store with an adjoining parking lot.

The firm offered $9000-a-year ground rent on a 30-year basis, declaring that this would result in a higher annual return than the present District income from the public market units and would give the District a building at the end of the lease worth "far in excess" of the existing market building.

The Commissioners still have under advisement a proposal by a group of investors for razing the historic market and replacing it with a public market with parking facilities on the roof.

22 County Indictments

The Montgomery County grand jury yesterday completed its two-day deliberations and reported to the court.

Twenty-two indictments were returned from 23 cases presented by State's Attorney Walter Dawson. The indictments will not be made public until they have been docketed.

The grand jurors reported they had found the "county jail in excellent condition and the inmates well taken care of."

Postlude

District Gets Preview of Star Pianist

By Paul Hume

Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra introduced a new star to Washington last night.

In their Constitution Hall concert, the Philadelphians were joined by Byron Janis, 20-year-old pianist, in Beethoven's third concerto in C Minor. Janis, who has already been signed to play with the National Symphony next season, is the finest young pianist heard in years.

His manner of playing is that of a mature artist. His technique is simply a means through which he makes music as great pianists make it. The way he emerged from the cadenza of the first movement and the rising octaves of the slow movement are only two samples of his penetrating understanding of his art.

He draws a rich, unforced tone from the piano, and persuades it, rather than dictates to it. In return, he sounds like few of our best-known pianists today, for he sounds like a musician playing a beautiful instrument.

Beethoven's third concerto is a mature, subtle work. It requires a performance like that of last night's pianist to make it give up its secrets.

Ormandy and the orchestra sounded their finest in accompanying the soloist. Much of the work is orchestral, not to say symphonic. The balance between ensemble and solo was excellent.

The concert opened with Samuel Barber's great Adagio for strings, played by one of the world's outstanding bodies of string players. It could be played with less difference between its slow motion and that of the more impassioned stretches. Still, last night's reading was eloquent.

The evening's symphony was that of Cesar Franck. It is a familiar staple of the visiting players, and their account followed usual patterns.

Virus Suspect Fails to Give Cold Serums

The virus suspect of the common cold, isolated more than 18 months ago, still baffles Public Health Service scientists, Washington bacteriologists were told here last night.

Dr. Leon T. Atlas, of the National Institutes of Health, a co-worker in initial isolation of the virus, further revealed that the virus creates no apparent immunity against successive reinfections in human volunteers.

Nor have scientists been successful in finding any serum in convalescent victims which offers any immunity for others against the virus that produces all the characteristic symptoms of the common cold in humans, he said.

Dr. Atlas spoke on the virus research work at the 167th meeting of the Washington Branch, Society of American Bacteriologists, at the Army Medical Center.

Other speakers at last night's meeting were Dr. S. B. Salvin, mycologist at NIH, who told of research progress in detection tests for fungus infections in humans, and Dr. Harry W. Shoening, of the Bureau of Animal Industry, who spoke on vaccine production against hoof-and-mouth disease.

Officers elected last night included: President, Dr. Margaret Pittman, biologics control laboratory, NIH, succeeding Dr. L. A. Burkey, of the Bureau of Dairy Industry; vice-president, Dr. Angus M. Griffin, associate professor of bacteriology, George Washington University School of Medicine, and secretary-treasurer (re-elected), Dr. R. C. Dawson.

GW Sororities Vie In Panhellenic Sing

Eight sororities at the George Washington University will compete for the silver cup offered each year at the Panhellenic Sing at 8:15 p. m. today in Lisner Auditorium.

Judges for the sing will be Miss Florence Booker, director of the Glee Clubs, Washington-Lee High School, Arlington, Va.; Mrs. Don McAdoo, choir director at Emory Methodist Church; Jose S. Bueno, member of the university staff. Dr. Robert H. Harmon will be master of ceremonies.

City Manager Reappointed In Alexandria

The Alexandria City Council finally straightened out its city manager troubles last night by amending a city ordinance, then reappointing Robert S. Marshall, jr.

By a 5-2 vote, the council amended Ordinance 480 to permit an immediate appointment when city offices become vacant. Councilmen Leroy S. Bendheim and Roy C. Bragg opposed both the amendment and Marshall's reappointment.

The ordinance previously had required two weeks' public notice of a vacancy, and written application for a job.

The sudden firing of City Manager Nicholas A. Colasanto two weeks ago and the hiring two days later of Marshall forced the council either to make the change, or go without a city manager for two weeks.

Opposed as Illegal

Bendheim called the amendment an attempt "to make legal an illegal action."

The council received a resolution from Russell Mitchell Post No. 609, Veterans of Foreign Wars, opposing the appointment of Marshall.

The veterans claimed Marshall, as executive director of the Alexandria Redevelopment and Housing Authority, showed a "complete lack of sympathy with the problems of veterans in seeking housing."

Bendheim, who is commander of the post, said he was not present when the resolution was considered.

Other Council Actions

In other actions the council:

1. Appropriated $457,345.80 for construction of a 12-classroom school at Parkfairfax to replace a temporary 6-room building.

2. Authorized the city manager to seek permission from Governor Tuck for Alexandria to go on daylight saving time this summer, and authorized him to establish a five-day work week for city employes during the summer, so far as possible.

3. Granted one month's salary to the former city manager, Colasanto, in lieu of vacation pay.

Thomas to Have Operation Soon

Representative J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. J.) is due to be operated on "within the next few days" for a stomach ailment.

Aides, reporting this yesterday, said the operation will be performed at Walter Reed Hospital where Thomas is a patient. They announced later that doctors had ordered a blood transfusion for him immediately.

Group Favors 43-Cent Hike In School Tax

The Arlington Civic Federation last night proposed a 43-cent increase in the county's school tax rate to raise funds for a $2,986,000 school budget for 1949-50.

The federation, however, proposed that $81,056 be clipped from the school budget as proposed by the school board and 7 cents from the 50-cent tax rate increase proposed by the board.

Meeting at Ashton Heights Community House, the 47 federation members agreed almost unanimously that the school board should get a definite percentage of the real estate tax rate instead of its present lump-sum allocation.

A motion by Delegate Harley Williams to pare $50,000 from the school budget appropriation for teacher salary increases was voted down.

The over-all school and county budgets still being considered late last night would have set up a $8,942,802 county budget.

The school budget will be included in a $9,115,400 over-all budget presented the Arlington County Board by the county manager, on which a public hearing will be held at 8 p. m. Thursday

Man Jailed After Taking Rent Deposits

Fleecing four apartment seekers sent McKinley M. Young, 24, to jail yesterday for the next eight months.

Young, who resides at 1504 Stevens rd. se., was sentenced by Judge George D. Neilson of Municipal Court on four false-pretense charges. The jurist termed Young's offenses "particularly reprehensible at this time."

According to police, early this year Young paid for an apartment-for-rent advertisement in the Washington Daily News and then waited for results in the lobby of the apartment house at 529 Lamont st. nw.

After accepting at least four $10 deposits, according to police, one of his prospective clients became suspicious and called police. They arrived on the scene to find Young still doing business as a rental agent. It was soon discovered he altogether lacked the right to accept the deposits.

He had told his victims that if they returned during the afternoon they would be able to see the offered quarters and promised occupany by March 1, police said. Young is a handyman and a former postoffice worker, according to police.

Col. Johnson, D. C. War Hero, To Be Reburied on Friday

Col. Johnson

The body of Paratrooper Col. Howard R. Johnson, 41, one of Washington's great war heroes who was killed in Holland in 1944, will be reburied in Arlington Cemetery at 11:30 a. m. Friday.

Colonel Johnson, a District native, was commander of the 501st Parachute Infantry Regiment in the famed 101st Airborne Division. He was killed on October 7, 1944, while engaged in the relief of beleaguered British troops at Arnheim.

For his work there, and earlier in the Normandy invasion, and for wounds sustained before his death, Colonel Johnson received the Distinguished Service Cross, the Silver Star, the Bronze Star, Purple Heart with two Stars, and the Croix de Guerre with Palm from the French government.

Colonel Johnson was the son of Mrs. Bertha Johnson, 4437 South Dakota ave. ne., and the late Joseph E. Johnson. A four-letter athlete at Central High, Colonel Johnson entered the Naval Academy in 1923, transferring to the Army in 1926.

Up to the time of his death, Colonel Johnson had made more than 200 parachute jumps, the record at that time.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary E. Johnson; a son, Joseph Henry Johnson; a daughter, Mary E. Johnson, all of whom live at 4535 Avondale st., Bethesda, and a brother, Elliott G. Johnson, Sewickley, Pa.

S. S. McClure Dies; Launched Great Writers

New York, March 22 (AP).—Samuel Sidney McClure, who started some of the greatest writers of this century on the road to literary fame, is dead at the age of 92.

Mr. McClure

In 1884, he started the McClure Syndicate, which provided fiction for newspapers. It was the first of its kind. In 1893 he also founded the well-known McClure's Magazine, which reached a quarter-million circulation.

Ailing for many months, the aged editor and author died last night at St. Barnabas Hospital, the Bronx.

A funeral service will be held Thursday at the hospital. The body will be taken to Galesburg, Ill., for burial.

McClure "discovered" Rudyard Kipling before Kipling won fame. He was a friend of Robert Louis Stevenson, and bought some of his writings.

Sherlock Holmes came alive to millions for the first time through the McClure Syndicate. McClure paid the author, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, $40 each for the first dozen Holmes stories.

McClure retired some years ago but kept active by writing and traveling.

He knew grinding poverty in his youth. His widowed mother brought him here from northern Ireland, where he was born, and worked in the fields at odd jobs.

John F. Daly Dies; Retired Census Aide

John F. Daly, 73, retired assistant chief statistician of the Census Bureau's division of manufactures, died yesterday at 12:30 p. m. at Garfield Hospital, following a long illness.

Mr. Daly

A native of Worcester, Mass., Mr. Daly attended Holy Cross College in Worcester and was a member of the class of 1898.

He entered the Census Bureau in 1900, about the time of its organization. Mr. Daly served with the Census until his retirement in July, 1946, and had been chief of the manufactures division prior to his appointment as assistant chief statistician. He lived at the Embassy Apartments, 1316 Harvard st. nw.

Mr. Daly is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary I. L. Daly, and a daughter, Miss Helen H. Daly, both of the Harvard st. address; a son, Lieut. Col. J. K. Daly, U. S. A., now on duty in the Panama Canal Zone; and four sisters, Miss Helen Daly, Miss Julia Daly, Miss Joanna Daly, and Mrs. Elizabeth Kelleher, all of Worcester, Mass.

PEARL: COME HOME

It was all my fault, Pearl. I admit I was surly and grumpy. No wonder that even the kids were scared of me. But everything's better now. I've found out that constipation caused by lack of bulk in my diet can be licked! Believe me, I advise others who suffer the same way to do what I did: just eat a bowlful of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day and drink plenty of water. They say it's America's most famous laxative cereal—believe me, it sure gets my vote. Or make it up into muffins—they taste grand too . . . Come home, dear, and find a brun new man waiting for you. That's me—your ever-lovin' husband, JOE.

Mary Haworth's Mail

College-Age Lad, Aware That Young Stepmother Is Seeing Other Men Behind His Father's Back, Asks Whether to Upbraid Her or Tell His Dad

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a young man, a college student, and my parents parted when I was 15. I was placed in the custody of my father, who recently married a woman far younger than himself.

My father is a consultant engineer who travels frequently, and his wife—I certainly won't call her "mother"—has been going out during his absences, and coming home late hours smelling of liquor. At first I tried to ignore this, but before I returned to college in September, I saw her at a night club with another man—and she didn't get home until 4 a. m.

I have tried to be broadminded about her behavior, but since her escapades are becoming common knowledge to my father's friends, I am greatly disturbed. My father seems to be the only one unaware of the situation, because when he is home she acts like a model wife.

Father's Deeply in Love With Her

DURING the mid-winter holidays the situation grew even worse. I came home late one night and caught her embracing another man, and after the fellow left I told her this must stop, otherwise I would tell my father. She promised to end that affair, but now I have information that it is beginning anew.

Is it my duty to tell my father? Or for the sake of my home should I ask her once more to change her ways? I don't think it would do any good; and yet if I tell my father he will be greatly upset, for he is deeply in love with Jude. It is a serious problem and I need your advice. R. B.

Honorable Persons Don't Peddle 'Dirt'

DEAR R. B.: You are in a difficult position and your anger at Jude is understandable; and so far you've behaved very well for a youngster, both in denouncing her misconduct after you found her embracing a bounder, and in keeping your mouth shut otherwise.

As for exposing her to your father, I advise against it for two reasons: 1. An honorable individual doesn't peddle private "dirt" about anybody, not even son-to-father in a case like this; although in behalf of justice you may testify to what you know about Jude's double-dealing, if your father ever initiates an inquiry.

2. It is playing with dynamite to try to "correct" any couple's marriage problems, unless your concern has been directly solicited by one or the other—who asks your slant on what's wrong and how to cope.

Don't Push Into Others' Problem

MOREOVER, the problem of infidelity, actual or suspected, is packed with destructive potentials. The man or wife who feels wronged in such case may do mad things in the first flush of outrage or terror; and I'm sure you don't want to run the risk of "throwing the switch" on that type of explosion.

So bear in mind that even though Jude is a problem, nevertheless she is not YOUR problem; and you are not your father's guardian. By legal reckoning, he is competent to manage his own affairs; and if Jude is keeping him happy despite her deceit, he wouldn't thank you for confronting him with "scandal" about her.

Lastly, may I remind: "a traveling" man seldom has a stable home life, and maybe your father flirts by the wayside too, just as Jude does in his absence. Perhaps they have a tacit understanding that neither will be "hurt" by what they don't know. In any event, my advice is to forget about Jude when you're in school; to beware playing detective when you're at home; and to treat the situation as none of your business—unless you are asked to speak as a character witness. German Women Here to Study U. S.

Seven German women will arrive in Washington on Monday, March 29, on two months' tour to study the role of American women in community and national affairs. The visitors will spend 10 days in Washington after having been to New York, Hartford, Conn., Syracuse, N. Y., and Bloomington, Ind.

Their visit to this country under the Army's German Reorientation Program is sponsored by the Carrie Chapman Catt Memorial Fund, created by the League of Women Voters to enable the women of the United States to share their knowledge and experience of democracy with women of other nations.

The German women, all carefully selected and screened by military government authorities, include members of provincial parliaments and of the Berlin City Assembly, as well as an editor and an eminent lawyer. They were all chosen because they are leaders in the endeavor to promote democracy in Germany and because they are trying to find ways and means to help the German women become more active and effective citizens.

To Visit Capitol

Their Washington schedule includes visits to Capitol Hill to watch the Senate and House committees in action as well as meetings of the two legislative bodies; meetings with officers and staff of the League of Women Voters of the United States; visits to various Government departments such as Agriculture, Labor and Federal Security, where they will not only be talks and tours but an opportunity to discuss informally mutual problems with members of the staff. A field trip to Beltsville, the agricultural experimental station, is included.

A visit to the Supreme Court is also on the agenda as is a trip to the Library of Congress.

While in this vicinity the German visitors will be guests of the Leagues of Women Voters in Virginia and Maryland for one day each. In Maryland plans include a visit to the County Building, attendance at a meeting of the County Council, a meeting with the Homemakers Club and lunch at a school cafeteria where the women will see the practical application of school lunch programs. In Virginia, each visitor will be an overnight guest in the home of a League of Women Voters member.

First Mission

The women, first of 680 German men and women who will be selected to come to the United States under the Army's German Reorientation Program include: Lisa Albrecht, vice chairman of the Social Democratic Party in Bavaria and formerly temporary Mayor of Mittenwald; Julian Von Campenhausen, practicing lawyer in Heidelberg and member of the Wuerttemberg-Baden Landtag; Anna Haag, member of the Social Democratic Party and of the Wuerttemberg-Baden Landtag and publisher of a monthly magazine, The Woman Citizen of the World; Elizabeth Ley, a member of Parliament of Bremen; Agnes Notgemeinschaft 1947 of Berlin, City Assembly and an educator; Nora Melle, first vice president of "Notgemeinschaft 1947 of Berlin," a non-partisan progressive women's organization training women for citizenship and a member of the Berlin City Assembly from 1946 to 1948; and Maria Probst, a member of the Landtag of Bavaria and on the executive committee of the Christian Social Union in the Landtag.

With them on their educational trip through this country is Miss Edith Gates, American director for the tour and representative of Carrie Chapman Catt Memorial Fund. Mrs. Maurice Goodman, member of the board of directors of the District of Columbia League of Women Voters, is in charge of their stay in Washington and vicinity.

Quota Club's President Here From California

Mrs. Edith Glaze of San Jose, Calif., president of Quota Club International, Inc., will be guest speaker at the dinner meeting of the Quota Club of Washington, on Thursday at 6:30 p. m., at the Dodge Hotel. Mrs. Glaze will be introduced by Miss Bess Glenn, president of the Washington club.

Guests at the meeting will be members of the Quota Club of Montgomery County, Md., and Miss Gwladys W. Jones, general secretary of Quota Club International, Inc.

Councils Plan Christian Panel On Democracy

"Making Christian Democracy Work" will be the theme of the Youth Conference sponsored by the Washington Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Council to be held at the American University campus on Saturday, March 26.

Miss Virginia Haug will preside at the opening assembly when the guest speaker will be Clarence G. Mosser, associate secretary of the Central Atlantic Area, Young Men's Christian Association. Arnold Jones, president of the Supreme H-Y Club, will deliver the invocation and George Yost, president of the local council will welcome the members.

In the afternoon the members will discuss the theme, "Making Christian Democracy Work," in the homes, schools, community, personal lives and church.

Socialism Next, Senator's Wife Says in Talk

Mrs. Styles Bridges, wife of the New Hampshire Senator, cautioned that the Russians "aren't bluffing" about world conquest and Communistic domination. She issued her warning in an address yesterday before members of the Washington Club.

She said that she had seen the Russians in action behind the Iron Curtain in Europe and was convinced that they meant business.

At one point, to prove that the Soviet is bent on "communizing the world," she cited their successes in the conquest of China and the Middle East.

"I disagree with the President that the state of the Nation is good," declared Mrs. Bridges. I don't agree with the attempts being made to turn the United States Senate into a rubber stamp.

"I do not view with complacency the parade of Communists in this country," she continued. "I do not view with complacency the hot war in China or the cold war in Europe."

The speaker expressed opposition to national health insurance and Federal aid to education on the ground that they are socialistic.

"As in Great Britain, now the next step in the Unittd States is socialism," emphasized Mrs. Bridges, suggesting that club members read 'The Road to Serfdom" to enlighten themselves on current trends in the world.

"I can't believe that we have gone so far from the fundamentals upon which this country was founded that the only thing the people want is security," she averred.

She told the audience if "you are not a liberal or progressive you are not in the swim of things. Yet, the so-called liberals and progressives who believe in price control, social security and other control measures are the real reactionaries. They insist on more and more controls which lead to a totalitarian state."

Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor, club president, introduced the speaker and presided.

Women Geographers To Meet Saturday

Miss Jeannette Mirsky of New York, author of the recently published book "On to the Arctic," will be the speaker at the March 26 meeting of the Society of Woman Geographers at the Washington Club. Miss Mirsky's subject will be "The Sleuthing That Goes Into Historical Research."

Mrs. Marie Peary Stafford, president of the society, will preside and the hostesses will be Mrs. Charles M. Hendley, Miss Taisia Stadnichenko and Miss Ellen LaMotte.

If You Are Killing Yourself Bit by Bit, Stop Awhile, Rest

By Genevieve Reynolds

Are you one of those awkward ninnies always bumping into chairs, skidding on rugs, breaking your teeth on bathroom fixtures or adding a bruise some spot every time you turn around? If so—you're maladjusted and you'd better open the safety valve. That's a tip from none other than Margery Wilson, internationally known author and charm expert, who came to Washington yesterday to attend the President's Conference on Industrial Safety. The four-day conference opens today.

Fatigue and emotional upsets are the prime factors in accidents both in the home and on the highways, says Miss Wilson, author of "How to Live Beyond Your Means", "The Woman You Want to Be" and other books published by J. B. Lippincott Co.

As examples of poorly integrated personalities, Miss Wilson recalls the story of the raging man who dashed out of a garage racing his automobile at 80 miles an hour. "That man was a potential traffic accident", she told a group of reporters at a press conference held in the National Press Club. "If the man had possessed a well integrated personality he never—no, never—would have lost his temper in public."

Tall, slim, brown-eyed, dark-haired Miss Wilson, who has conducted some phase of a charm school for the past 20 years, believes that the first step toward developing a "well integrated personality" is faith in oneself . . . faith in the rightness of God or some spiritual being.

To avoid clumsy accidents, she suggests being trained in "physical awareness;" that is learning the synthesis of movement or bodily coordination.

And she has a bit of advice for employers, too. To reduce fatigue and accidents among the employes, give them 15 minutes off for a cup of tea and provide them with something to think about besides office gripes. "If necessary provide the tea for the tired employees," she advises.

When it comes to personality problems, Miss Wilson is convinced that the physical condition plays a large part. "Temperament is due to the physical condition," she explains. "Many pessimists have bad livers. Intravenous feeding of vitamins plus exercise and fresh air could turn him into an optimist."

Well, what is a pessimist? According to the personality-charm expert he's a very intelligent person. But an optimist is even more intelligent than the pessimist.

As for charm, she defines it as "the ability to do something agreeable."

U. S. and Israel To Lead World, Says Rep. Klein

"There will come a day, maybe not in our time, when the two great democracies, the United States and Israel, will lead the world in the path of righteousness and peace."

The prediction was made by the New York Representative, Arthur G. Klein, at the donor luncheon of the Washington Council of Pioneer Women held yesterday in the Mayflower Hotel.

The Congressman also prophesied that Israel would be the greatest democracy in that part of the world since "as you can't keep a good man down, you can't keep a good religion down."

He praised the creation of the new state not only because it gave the wandering Jew a homeland but also because it established the prestige of the Jew in this country. "Now we won't have to say 'I'm proud to be a Jew" but with mental reservations," he told the 600 members present.

At the luncheon, Mrs. David Alpher installed the Hatikvah Club in the Pioneer Women, which is the labor women's Zionist organization. Mrs. Morris Golden, the luncheon chairman, introduced the guests and Mrs. Alexander Drazin, president of the Washington Council of Pioneer Women, gave the report.

PIN-WORMS GO! New Treatment Gets Real Results

Don't let your child suffer a single needless minute of distress with Pin-Worms. And it can happen. Medical experts report that an amazing number of children (and adults too) are victims of these ugly pests that live and grow inside the human body.

You should and can do something about Pin-Worms. A new, scientific treatment—Jayne's P-W Vermifuge—offers real relief. P-W contains a special, medically-approved ingredient that destroys Pin-Worms in the intestine and removes them from the body.

So watch for the warning signs of Pin-Worms in your family . . . fidgeting, nose picking and especially the nagging, irritating rectal itch. Then ask your druggist for P-W, the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by the famous Jayne Co., specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years. Destroy those Pin-Worms . . . relieve that itch.

California Woman Mayor Foils the Woodcutters; Oregon's Nails Rackets

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

THE CONFERENCE of United States Mayors has been meeting in Washington these past few days. Outstanding among the municipal officials are two exceedingly interesting women, Miss Belle Coolidge, Mayor of California's capital, Sacramento, and Mrs. Dorothy Lee, Portland's new boss, who this week is subject of a Life magazine feature article.

Mayor Coolidge acquired her stellar role almost accidentally. A mathematics teacher who had taught both in Sacramento and smaller California cities, she had retired and looked forward happily to doing "just nothing." Although devoid of political experience, Miss Coolidge was so popular, so obviously sensible and honest, that a group of women persuaded her to run for the City Council.

Most West Coast mayoralty elections are nonpartisan. Candidates campaign for City Council membership, the one amassing most votes winning. Twenty-one, including two other women, campaigned against Miss Coolidge, who, to her surprise, emerged victor by a plurality of twice the votes given her closest competitor.

Mayor Coolidge took to her job like a duck to water. "I never openly fight," she said. "I accomplish what I want by indirection. That's the way I've always done." One of her accomplishments has been to save a beautifully be-treed park in mid-Sacramento. A project afoot was to scoop a subterranean parking lot, thereby killing the trees. "I hate to see a tree cut down," said the Mayor. "It hurts me physically. And in Sacramento, where it's often hot, we need every tree we've got."

However, traffic remains a difficult problem, and Mayor Coolidge is working out a solution. If she's not reelected next year, then what? "I'm no differently off than I was before. And I've had a wonderful experience."

* * * *

State Senator First

MAYOR LEE'S trip, misleading prime exterior conceals a shrewdly hard-boiled savoir-faire, a certainty of all political answers. Mayor Lee, still in her 40s, has been in active politics more than 20 years. A lawyer, mother of two, she moved from San Francisco to Portland, where her husband has a Standard Oil job.

She commenced her career more or less as a joke. Asked by what she called "a few girl friends" to run for the City Council, she called her husband (who was away) on long distance, asked his opinion. "Why not?" he replied. "It might be fun." Though she lost her first campaign, she'd smelled "smoke," ran again and won.

Since then she's been judge and State Senator. Again persuaded by "the girls" (who wanted to have a woman on the municipal "in") to run for City Council, Mrs. Lee thought it would be politically unexciting after the State Legislature. However, she became Mayor. "It was really nothing more than moving my office down the hall."

So far in her brief mayoralty tenure, Mrs. Lee has "cleaned up" Portland, ousting all dice and slot machines. Though Life waxed enthusiastic about the campaign, Mayor Lee was unexcited. "It was nothing more than enforcing existing laws."

During the clean-up, when curious pressure was attempted, Mayor Lee said she was shadowed by two strange characters. They bobbed up at banquets, meetings, on street corners, trying to get in a convincing word for their gambling machines. Pyramids popped up in Portland, too. "They didn't last long."

Being mayor of a city of more than 400,000 is no sinecure. "A woman is expected to be, and has to be, better at the job than a man," remarked slim, fragile Mayor Lee, with conviction but without emphasis.

A smart cookie, it's in the cards that Mayor Lee will rise to dizzier political heights. When her four-year stint is done—will it be Governor, Senator?

Brown-Suarez.

Recipe for French Apple Pie

I would like a recipe for French Apple Pie. It has a bottom crust and a topping of some sort, and is sold in a good many restaurants. E. V. J.

The following recipe for French apple pie was sent in by another reader, R. B., who says that she learned it in France:

French Apple Pie

Line the bottom of a pie pan with your favorite kind of dough. Peel apples, cut in halves, and core. Slice in fairly thin slices and put on pie in circles, starting from the outer edge and working towards the center, one slice overlapping the previous one, etc. The thinner the slices, the better the pie. Paint edge of crust with egg yolk. Bake in moderate oven until crust is golden yellow and apples are soft. After 15 minutes before the end of the baking time, pour over the apples the following mixture:

1 whole egg
¾ cup milk
3 tablespoons sugar

The liquid should not cover the apples entirely, but ends of slices should still be visible.

This is in response to a lady who asked about hot water heaters vs. washing machines. We have a 20-gallon hot water tank for our family of four (plus guests at various times.) I have the old type wringer washer and am able to get one washing machine full of hot suds water and two very lukewarm rinsings. I am sure this size tank would not hold enough water for the automatic washers, as I understand they use a considerable amount of hot water. By being careful, we have managed to get along for eight years, but as soon as possible we want to buy a 40- or 50-gallon tank. A. W. A.

Not long ago, you printed the letter of a reader regarding traveling by car to the West Coast with a baby. I plan on going by auto to California with my 6-months-old baby. Would you print again her suggestions re: carrying steril battled water, formula, etc. and other suggestions along that line? L. W. D.

It is wise to take enough water for the entire trip to avoid the upsets which sometimes accompany the change of water with the infant. To further simplify the formula mixing on the trip, combine the water and t' syrup or dextromaltose in the exact proportion it is used in the formula before you leave home. To do this, boil the water with sweetening in it to sterilize and then pour while boiling hot into hot sterilized fruit jars and seal. If possible, use small jars so that only one jar needs to be opened each day. When you are ready to make the formula at each feeding, pour the sterilized water which contains sweetening into the bottle. (Figure out in advance just how many ounces of water are in each bottle of formula and measure by the ounce marker on the bottle.) Add the canned milk directly from the can to the sterilized water in the bottle. By opening a small can of milk for each feeding, there will probably be some milk left over each time, but this is a small price to pay to keep baby healthy.

A big thermos bottle or jug with a large opening can be filled with boiling water in the morning to heat the baby's bottles all day. Just drop the baby's bottle into the thermos, close and remove when warm. If you plan to stop at cabins along the way, you can take along a large kettle in which to sterilize the bottles each night. If you are stopping at hotels, possibly you can arrange to have the bottles sterilized in the kitchen each night. Or, an easier way would be to use the new disposable plastic bottles on the trip.

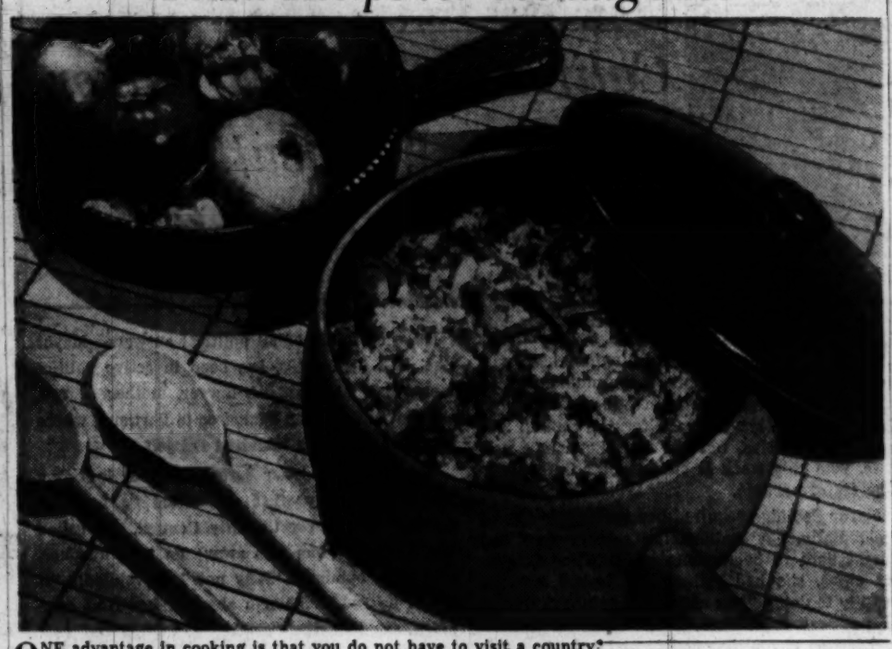
A New Recipe for Cooking Rice



ONE advantage in cooking is that you do not have to visit a country to learn its recipes. If you have been fortunate and have taken a cruise to Puerto Rico you will know that Drunken Soup is the name of a dessert and the Tembleque is a pudding. If you have eaten Arroz Guisado in the tropical gardens of the Conado Beach Hotel—with the peacock-blue sea pounding at your side—you have had a memorable experience.

Or possibly at teatime you sat behind the grating of the Girl From Mallorca, a restaurant, and sipped black coffee as you argued with a vender over the prices of native water jugs and handmade string rugs known as pellizas. Perhaps at home you have often wondered why custard was sometimes tasteless or why avocados were never used in soup. If you have eaten them in Puerto Rico, you undoubtedly found them delicious and will want to try to make them in your own kitchen.

ARROZ GUISADO

¼ pound cooked ham, diced
2 onions, quartered
1 clove of garlic, minced
1 green pepper, diced
2½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 cup rice
2 tablespoons bacon fat
2 medium-sized tomatoes,
1½ cups boiling water (about)
1 pimiento

Fry bacon until brown; add ham, onion, garlic, green pepper and seasonings. Saute 2 or 3 minutes over low heat. Add rice and bacon fat, saute 10 minutes stirring constantly. All quartered tomatoes. Add enough boiling water so that it is about an inch above the rice. Boil rapidly, about 8 minutes, or until the water has evaporated. Lower heat, cover and let it cook 15 or 20 minutes, or until rice is light and fluffy. Do not stir. Pile lightly on serving dish. Cover rice with warmed slices of pimento and garnish with hot asparagus tips. Serve very hot. Yield: Six portions.

Children Like to Be Included In All Household Activities

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

THE YOUNGER the child the more eager he is to enter into all the activities of the household. He is wont to follow his mother from task to task and if he cannot wield the family carpet sweeper, he is happy to use his own tiny one, flap his own dustcloth, swipe vigorously with his own dust mop and feel that he is accomplishing miracles of housework.

As children grow more efficient they tend to become less enamored with household tasks and the mother finds herself in the position of a tyrant who is making them do what is disagreeable to them.

It is well to take advantage of the young child's ardor for tasks and praise and make much of the ones he can do successfully. During the ritualistic age from about 2 to 3 years, it is well to compliment his determination to put everything in its place and to prevent the normal order of the household from being disturbed.

He should be allowed to help with beds, wash dishes, pick up papers, empty ash trays and waste baskets, even if the doing makes some work for the mother. On this foundation she can add other tasks as he develops the capacity to fulfill them.

Children do not mind home tasks unless they eat up all their leisure time, and if they are able to perform the task successfully so that they enjoy a sensation of achievement.

Some children enjoy helping mother with her duties, some children want independent tasks so they can take full praise for their performance.

Tasks should be outlined for the week and a schedule made out which will fit into the child's leisure time, morning or evening. In addition, there should be plenty of time for just play, for the child works all day in school and should not be expected to fulfill the parent's responsibilities, just because he or she is able to do so.

In fact, the mother should be cautious about saddling children with all the disagreeable tasks which she herself detests. Housework should be fun, as well as work, so that the child comes to it with some sense of anticipation and feels the joy of success at its accomplishment.

Apples and Beans Baked Together Make Tasty Dish

Apples and baked beans cooked together are tasty. Combine them for a delicious casserole, easy to prepare.

Pork and Beans with Apple Crown—One 16-ounce can pork and beans, two medium cooking apples, two tablespoons brown sugar, one tablespoon butter or margarine.

Heat oven to 375° F. (moderate). Spread pork and beans evenly in 9 inch pie plate. Pare and slice apples; line the slices around the edge of the plate. Sprinkle sugar on apples and dot with butter. Cover with another pie plate. Bake at 375° F. for 30-40 minutes until apples are tender. Uncover last 15 minutes of baking to give a light browning. Makes 4 servings.

Use for Muffin Tins

Utilize muffin tins when baking apples, tomatoes, onions, peppers, etc. The articles of food will keep their shape much better and the stuffings cannot come out of the vegetables when in the little compartments.

D. C. Building Plans Off 36% In Two Months

By S. Oliver Goodman

Washington building permits totaled $6,324,105 in the first two months this year, a decrease of 36 per cent, as compared with $9,860,042 in the same 1948 period.

The decline here was sharper than nationally, according to figures reported yesterday by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. The research agency reported that value of building permits in 215 cities during the first two months this year dropped 10.6 per cent below the level of a year ago.

Commenting on the national construction picture, Dun & Bradstreet stated:

"There was a seasonal pickup in the volume of building permits in February, following the steady downward trend of the preceding five months. Total valuation of permits issued in 215 cities last month amounted to $244,195,551, a gain of 9.8 per cent over the $222,489,796 for January, and 3.6 per cent above February a year ago with $235,791,622."

For the first two months, Washington ranked tenth among the leading cities. Comparisons are listed below:

EARNINGS BETTER: The earnings rate on invested life insurance funds showed an increase last year for the first time in many years, the Institute of Life Insurance reported. The net interest rate earned in 1948 was 2.96 per cent, compared with 2.88 per cent in 1947, the Institute said. This was the highest rate earned since 1945. The increase marked a turn in a 20-year period of continuous declines. The institute commented that last year's rise reflected the general slight upturn in interest rates and the increased investment of funds "in channels that produced a greater return."

APPLIANCE SALES: Washington electric appliance sales in January showed a general downward trend, according to the Electric Institute of Washington. Exceptions were television, oil burners, combination radio sets and roasters. Drops were shown by electric ranges, refrigerators, washers, water heaters, radio and vacuum cleaners.

AUTO SALES OFF: Washington sales of new autos totaled 1829 in February, compared with 1973 in the same 1948 month, the Washington Automotive Trade Association reports. Sales for the first two months this year numbered 3920, a decrease of 10 per cent from the 4319 in the like 1948 period.

House Subcommittee Approves Check Bill

A House District Subcommittee yesterday approved a bill to require written notices for stopping payments of checks drawn on Washington banks.

The subcommittee, headed by Representative John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.), approved the bill, after a hearing in which Washington bankers urged passage of the measure.

The bill would also limit the liability of banks to actual losses suffered by a person whose check is cashed after payment on it has been ordered stopped.

Subcommittee approval sent the bill to the House District Committee for later action.

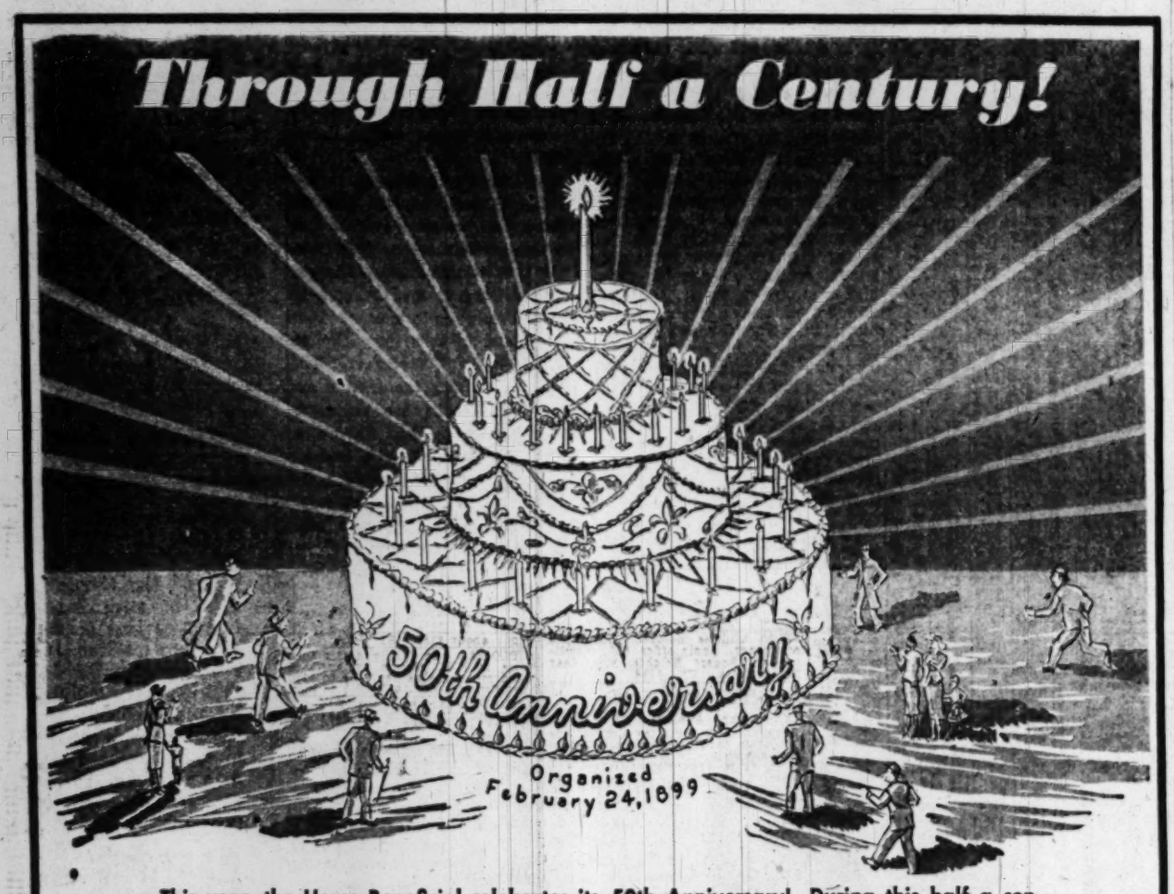
Pabst Votes Splitup

Peoria, Ill., March 22 (AP). Stockholders of the Pabst Brewing Co. at their annual meeting today approved a three-for-one stock split, effective April 4. Sales of the company in 1948 reached an all time high, earning $11.72 a share. The previous record was $10.41 a share in 1947.

Wrigley Votes Special

Chicago, March 22 (AP).—William Wrigley, Jr., Co., chewing gum maker, today declared a special dividend of 50 cents a share in addition to of common stock the regular monthly payment of 25 cents a share. Both dividends are payable May 2 to shareholders of record April 20.



This year, the Home Beneficial celebrates its 50th Anniversary! During this half a century of service, the company has grown rapidly and today is one of the strongest life insurance companies in America. Its high ratio of assets over liabilities, of 11 per cent, is almost double that of the 100 leading life insurance companies in America combined. As we pass this great milestone in our history it is with the utmost sincerity that we pledge and rededicate the company to continued and greater service in its second half a century.

Zenith Sued On Ad Claims

New York, March 22 (AP).—Two television manufacturers today sued the Zenith Radio Corp. for one million dollars damages based on Zenith advertisements on possible obsolescence of television sets.

The complaint against the Chicago firm was brought by the Sightmaster Corp., television set manufacturer, and the Empire Coil Co., maker of radio and television parts—both of New Rochelle, N. Y.

The Zenith Radio Corp. of New York, Zenith distributor for the New York area, also was named defendant.

The suit charged the Zenith ads were aimed at leading the public to believe the Federal Communications Commission was about to change television wave lengths and that all sets except Zeniths would be made "obsolete and junk." The complaint said the Zenith statements "were false and misleading."

Both companies said the Zenith ads had resulted in losses of customers for their products. Empire said the ads also had seriously impaired the value of a television station it is building at Cleveland. Besides damages of $500,000 each, the companies asked a court order enjoining Zenith from continuing such ads.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, March 22 (AP).—Corn carried a steady to firm tone in today's Board of Trade session, and stoutly resisted selling that developed in soybeans late in the trading.

Traders said light receipts from the country and a Government estimate of reduced plantings this spring were influences.

Lard and soybeans were weak during the early part of the session, but soybeans managed to recover slightly from the day's low on late short covering.

At the finish wheat was ¼ lower to ⅝ higher; corn was ¾ to 1½ higher; oats were unchanged to ⅜ higher; rye was ½ higher to ½ lower; soybeans were ½ to ¾ lower, and lard was 32 to 48 cents a hundredweight lower.

Upturns in wheat were slowed by Government estimates of one of the largest wheat acreages in history and favorable comment on the crop prospect. The recent drop in Government's acceptance basis in the Southwest was also a factor.

New York Cotton

New York, March 22 (AP).—Cotton futures were easy in slow trading today. Lack of fresh news in the cotton situation encouraged scale down mill demand in the face of continued slack buying of cotton goods. Switching operations from nearby to later months were the feature. Final prices were unchanged to 50 cents a bale lower.

Bankruptcies Soar in Week

New York, March 22 (AP).—A total of 210 commercial and industrial businesses went bankrupt in the week ended March 17, Dun & Bradstreet said today.

The credit reporting agency noted this was the highest total for any week since 1942. But it was well below the prewar level of 1939, when in the corresponding week 298 failures were reported.

In the same week of 1948 only 106 businesses failed.

A sharp increase in the number of retail failures—the total of 99 was the highest since 1942—was reported, while the total of 26 commercial service businesses that failed was double the figure for the preceding week.

For the year to date, Dun & Bradstreet's reports show 1804 failures against 1094 a year ago.

Morgan Aide to Head Cincinnati Bank

CINCINNATI, March 22 (AP) — Central Trust Co. directors announced today that Charles W. DuPuis would retire as president to become chairman of the board and would be succeeded by William A. Mitchell, director, vice president and member of the executive committee of the J. P. Morgan and Co., Inc., of New York.

In a statement the board said it would request a special meeting of the bank's stockholders April 28 to authorize creation of the office of chairman of the board. With that action taken, the board said, DuPuis will be elected and Mitchell will be named president.

By virtue of a certain deed of trust duly recorded in Liber No. 8343, Folio 378 et seq., of the land records of the District of Columbia, and at the request of the party secured thereby, the undersigned trustees will sell, at public auction in front of the premises, on TUESDAY, THE FIFTH DAY OF APRIL, A. D. 1949, AT TWO O'CLOCK P. M., the following-described land and premises, situate in the District of Columbia, and designated as and being Lot 300 in Square 5206, being Block 3 in Section 3 of the subdivision of that part of Sheriff Estate, known as "Burrville", as per plat recorded in the Office of the Surveyor for the District of Columbia in Liber 1053 at folio 191. Said property being now known for purposes of assessment and taxation as Lot 30 in Square 5206.

TERMS: Sold subject to a prior deed of trust for approximately $2,000.00 with interest at 5½ per cent from November 29, 1948, further particulars of which will be announced at time of sale; the purchaser price above said trust to be paid in cash. A deposit of $500.00 required. Conveyancing, recording, etc., at purchaser's cost. Terms to be complied with within thirty days, otherwise deposit forfeited and the property may be advertised and resold at the discretion of the trustees.

FRANCIS C. HEIGLE,
EDWARD C. SABNETT,
Trustees.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Pyramids Have Formed In Best of Circles

Bricklayer Daniel A. Thomas is the first Washingtonian to be indicted for starting a Pyramid Club.

However, the very first of these local clubs (as far as I can find out) was started by a radio announcer who now wishes he'd never heard of Pyramid Clubs.

His total profit was $6.

Incidentally, Dick Barkey wonders where they're going to find 12 unbiased jurors to sit in judgment on Bricklayer Thomas.

If all Pyramid Clubbers are disqualified from serving on the jury, Thomas may go free by default.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Eighteen-month-old mother dog and 7-month-old son; house trained and handy with kids. We're leaving for Rome." (Glebe 5208.)

MISCELLANY

The anonymous sleeper in our recent "Street (car) Scene" item identifies herself as Katey Hale of 3039 O st. nw. Katey says our report cleared up "an otherwise muddled memory of that unfortunate incident. I hope it doesn't happen again—but one can never tell when that guy Morpheus will turn up" . . . My trouble, Katey, is that he won't let my radio listeners alone . . . Alan and Trudy Cohen of 4306 Arkansas ave. nw., are shocked by an article in our morning contemporary which quotes J. Edgar Hoover as saying that there are more criminals in the "2-year age group" than in any other. Presumably the kids are better citizens after they get out of prison and, after the age of 3, the incidence of crime diminishes . . . Wilbur W. Seay, secretary of the Anacostia Golf Club, writes: "Congratulations on your approach to the golf controversy. The important thing is to see that the golfers get adequate facilities, regardless of the squabbles among competitors for the concession, and public airing of these conditions will tend to make any operator more considerate of the players. In the past, the operator has been more concerned with the condition of his cash register than of his courses" . . . Mrs. Henry Whelan of 3220 17th st. nw., confides that my "sherbet" item made her realize that she'd not only been mispronouncing it, she'd been misspelling it (by adding an "r") because of the mispronunciation . . . The modern trend in the liquor business seems to be to "cut" the straight whisky with neutral spirits, but to leave prices at a 100-proof uncut level.

HE AIN'T JUST BEATING HIS CHEOPS

Bill Nesbitt of 14 E. Woodbine st., Chevy Chase, Md., postcards:

"These radio comedians' jokes about Pyramid Clubs are getting worse and worse. Most of them sphinx."

Mrs. Bess Wing of 4528 Fairfield dr., Bethesda, Md., uses a switch on that gag. When folks call to invite her to join a Pyramid Club, she says she can't, because she's a member of the Sphinx Club. Invariably the caller asks: "Sphinx Club? What's that?" And invariably Mrs. Wing answers: "Sphinx. No comment."

The situation has gotten so bad that Nate Leiderman has organized a Dimaryp Club (for backward Pyramiders).

Weary of refusing offers to join Pyramids, Nate now beats his callers to the punch. When the phone rings he answers it with:

"Would you like to join a Pyramid Club?" The startled caller says no, he was phoning to ask the same question. Thereupon Nate completely snows him with:

"That's too bad, because I am the founder of the Dimaryp Club, which pays a dollar to every backward citizen who has never been in a Pyramid Club. Too bad you can't qualify."

To date, reports Nate, he has paid out no dollars.

ONE STRIKE, THREE OUTS

Bill Houston of Landover Hills, Md., sounds a plaintive wail that goes like this:

"The robins are out, the crocuses are out, the miners are out. Spring has come! Why doesn't somebody tell the Weatherman?"

BRAVE MAN

John Hayes, general manager of WTOP, was in New York last week for a conference with CBS brass.

Noting that CBS President Frank Stanton was wearing a shirt with an extremely wide collar, Hayes murmured pleasantly:

"Good Lord, Frank, where did you get that horrible creation? I wouldn't be caught dead in a shirt like that."

Yesterday, the postman brought John a package from Stanton. It was the shirt.

John wore it to work—but carefully kept his fingers crossed most of the day.

Listen to Bill Gold's "This Is Washington," the District Line on the Air, Monday through Friday, over WTOP, from 10 a. m. to Arthur Godfrey time at 10:30.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Ferguson Denies Coplon Story

By Drew Pearson

GOP Senator Homer Ferguson must be getting jittery over his election probe back in Michigan. At any rate something has thrown Homer's balance wheel out of gear.

Sen. Ferguson

The other day, the Michigan Senator, supposed to be a great prosecutor and investigator, let it be known to the press that two years ago he had informed Attorney General Tom Clark about Judith Coplon, the Justice Department analyst accused of handing Government documents to a Russian diplomat in New York. The implication was that Clark had sat on his hands for two years while Miss Coplon got away with Justice Department secrets.

When Attorney General Clark heard of the Ferguson statement, he was, to say the least, flabbergasted, and sent word to the Senator that he would give him 15 minutes to take back his statement.

Ferguson was quick to reply. He sat down and wrote Clark a humble longhand note taking back what he had said. The Senator's excuse was that he had been misquoted.

Next day the Attorney General happened to be up on Capitol Hill calling on the chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Pat McCarran of Nevada.

"Here's a letter that might interest you," remarked Senator McCarran, handing him a typewritten letter on the stationery of Senator Ferguson.

In the letter, Ferguson said exactly what the newspapers quoted him as saying the night before, and which he had denied to Clark. Two years ago, wrote the Michigan Senator, he had given the information about Judith Coplon to Clark, and now he demanded an investigation. Furthermore, he put all this in black and white.

The Attorney General read the letter with amusement.

"Well, here's a letter he wrote me," he remarked, pulling out the handwritten note in which Ferguson said he had been misquoted.

McCarran read the note, then observed:

"I thought there was something funny about Ferguson's phoning me last night. He wanted to know if I had received this letter. Then he said: 'Well, don't give it out. It's confidential'."

China's Friends

In a secret report to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week, Secretary of State Acheson bluntly announced that the Communists are complete masters of China and it would be folly to send more United States arms to the defeated Nationalists.

Acheson revealed that nine-tenths of the equipment already furnished by the United States has been surrendered to the Communists in the past eight months.

Meanwhile, the Nationalists are negotiating frantically for a coalition government.

The Secretary of State was called before the Foreign Relations Committee to answer a petition, signed by 50 Senators, demanding aid for the Nationalists. Significantly, the petition was sponsored by Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada, the silver lobbyist whose plan is to bolster the Nationalist economy—with silver.

Lobbying for Peace

Senate GOP Leader Arthur Vandenberg backed colleague Owen Brewster of Maine in a corner, glanced furtively for eavesdroppers and whispered:

"You'd better lay off that ECA fund to the Dutch that you've been raising such a fuss about. I just learned there's a lobbyist mixed up in this."

Vandenberg probably referred to young Randolph Feltus, a registered lobbyist on Capitol Hill, who has been fighting ECA aid to the Netherlands on the ground that the money will be used to finance Dutch armed imperialism in Indonesia.

"Listen, Arthur," grinned Brewster, "have you ever heard of legislation on any subject in Congress, of major or minor importance, that doesn't have a lobbyist for or against it?"

Note: Feltus and many others have been talking to Senators on the ground that a breakdown of the U. N. regarding Indonesia means a serious undermining of the peace machinery of the world.

The Marshal Plan is in serious danger in the Mediterranean countries because of a devastating drought. The Rome weather station has reported the lowest rainfall in its 176-year history. Industries depending upon hydroelectric power are almost at a standstill, though cool weather luckily has saved the crops from serious damage so far. The prospect is worse in Portugal, where pastures are drying up and threatening the vital cattle industry.

Worse hit of all is Spain—not a Marshall Plan country. Drought-stricken Spaniards are so desperate for water that they are trading wine for water in some places.

R. W. FARRELL
National Staff Trichologist

Give your scalp a chance to grow hair! Don't let simple deterrents like clogged follicles or sluggish circulation stifle your scalp's natural urge to grow strong, healthy hair! Our intensive trichological treatments scientifically combine ultraviolet therapy, professional stimulation and exclusive laboratory-created formulas; they penetrate clogged hair passages, attack subscalp bacteria, eliminate itchiness and irritation, normalize the blood circulation which "feeds" the hair roots, and revitalizes the entire cycle of hair-growing activity. Delay is deadly and may lead to fatal follicle shrinkage. Come in today or tonight for a free comprehensive examination and consultation. Hopeless cases are never accepted. Yes, enjoy your hair's new virile look within 30 days—or we'll pay your fee!
